Free Translation of the above text: Quite often I hunt in timber and brush country. I guess it's cold and wet early in the morning. Quite often I'm a lucky hunter. I guess if it's not a windy day the deer will hear you crackling the brush. If it is windy or a heavy wind and cold sometimes you can see standing up or laying down I guess.

Free Translation

1 Our home is by the lake. 2 We have a boat by our home 8 And that we use to catch fish. 4 We catch fish two ways. 5 I use fish hooks 6. We use nets. 7 We are saying that we set nets. 8 This way we caught a lot of fish. 9 Ten fish are put on one pole. 10 I think that 500 fish is enough for the winter. 11 These fish we freeze. (The Indians get about 500 or more fish per family then hang them by the tails on poles, ten fish to a pole. These fish are left outside and they freeze, keeping all winter.) 12 We are all ready to go gather rice. (ricing) 13 We will all move to where we are going ricing. 14. We use a canoe to gather the rice in.

I take the gun along. I see deer. I shoot deer. I broke its arm. I chased deer all day. Almost sundown. I killed him. I pulled him down. I skinned him. I cut him up. I cut him in half. Deerhide laid aside. I threw the meat--half of it I put away. Covered up the meat with deerhide. All of it I put away. Threw it on my back. Getting cloudy. Night. Looked all over. I stood up and started home. My pack was on my back. I see a tree all dried up. I felt in my pocket for matches. No matches. I shot the tree. It started to smoke. Then I blew on it.
