National Recognition Accorded N. D. University Graduate Division

By DEAN J. V. BREITWIESER

In the educational systems as organized in this country the state becomes the unit. In most of the states the university stands as the apex of the system of public education. North Dakota offers educational opportunities to all its sons and daughters providing for them the common schools, which begin in the first grade and train in the fundamentals. Above the common school rises a group of high schools, which in proportion to our population and income have been developed to an exceptional degree of efficiency. Rising above the high schools are a group of higher institutions that offer training to prospective teachers and those who wish to enter vocations and professions. The normal schools, teachers' colleges, the agricultural college, and the undergraduate colleges of the University, enable those who have graduated from the high schools to go on to higher attainments. Rising above the colleges our University has entered into a field of training that is to prepare the leaders in the arts and sciences. A selected group of brilliant men and women are to be given the opportunity to prepare themselves for the highest service to a progressive humanity.

Graduate Division

The state of North Dakota now has provided the facilities for education beginning at the lowest levels and going through to the highest academic degrees. In the fall of 1927 the graduate work was organized as a division at the University of North Dakota. Up to that time, graduate work had been done under the direction of a committee. The men who served on this committee rendered a labor of love to the University meeting from time to time to direct advanced students. This arrangement proved inadequate for the growing group. The division was therefore organized and the records concentrated in the office of the Director. In December of the same year, plans were made whereby the University 113 students were registered in the Graduate Division. This is the largest enrollment in graduate work that the University has ever enjoyed.

Care in organizing the programs for the graduate students has resulted in the recognition of the University and its degrees by all of the accrediting organizations of the United States. The University is the only institution in the state whose graduate work is approved by the American Association of Universities. It may also be of interest to our alumni to note that because of the number of advanced degrees now granted and the quality of the faculty along with certain other opportunities and faculties that we now have, that we have been placed on the approved list of institutions recognized by the Credentials Committee of the state of California.

Quality Not Quantity

The University of North Dakota is not as large as many other universities, but its graduates can be assured that in those fields in which advanced work is offered and graduate degrees granted the quality of the work cannot be questioned. The degrees from the University will be recognized in all of the institutions in this country and abroad. The administration of the University is not interested in a rapid development of the graduate work nor is it interested in the number receiving degrees. We are more interested in the quality of the work and in the careful selection of those who are to represent us in the higher fields of learning.

Superintendents and principals of schools are more and more being re-could undertake in a modest way the training for the highest degrees.

With the organization of the division there immediately developed considerable interest in graduate work. During the Summer Session of 1928, 94 students holding the bachelor's degree were on the campus; 84 of these were candidates for higher degrees. It was immediately noted that the increase in attendance was largely in the higher levels of work. Last summer, 1929,

Over 3,000 Alumni Return For Most Successful Homecoming in History

Over 3,000 Nodaks returned home to make the 1929 Homecoming one of the most successful. The 14-0 football victory over the N. D. State rivals climaxed the two day visit.

Successful Banquet

J. E. Davis, '99, Bismarck, Chairman State Board of Administration, presided as master of ceremonies at the Homecoming Banquet in the absence of Fred J. Traynor, '04, President of the Alumni Association, who was absent from the state. President Thomas F. Kane bid the Alumni a welcome back to the University. He paid tribute to Presidents Merrifield and McVey who headed the institution when some of the returning Alumni were in school. In bringing out the substantial growth of the University enrollment which totals close to 1800, the president stated that every county in the state is represented, and that 42 per cent of the students were above the sophomore year. This, he said, indicates that University students are coming to school with a definite purpose in mind. Director and head coach, C. A. West, dwelt briefly on the football situation and expressed confidence in the ability of his team to defeat the Bison. Hon. W. L. Nussle, '99, Bismarck, of the State Supreme Court, said that the lives of former North Dakota football players have become woven into the history of our state. The Alumni cheered as the Judge read the scores of the oldest U. N. D. versus A. C. games and introduced many of the old-time players and discussed the old games. Judge Nussle was a former Nodak tackle when in school.

Reminiscences of days at the University were brought in talks by Alumni, including Inez Serumgard, '15, of Devils Lake; Hazel Nielson, '11, Valley City; John Williams, '06, Washburn; Scott Cameron, '08, Bismarck; Dr. Sverre Oftedal, '09, Fargo.

The University orchestra directed by Professor John Howard furnished music before and during the banquet, and snappy group singing was led by Dr. W. Leibler, '22.

The committee in charge of the arrangements of the banquet, and to whom special praise is due for their thorough work, included J. Earl McFadden, '13, Chairman; Hazel Chaffee Thorwaldson, Ex. '24; John Hesketh, '17; Bertha McKechney Johnston, '12; Dr. Ralph Leigh, '22; Vernice Aldrich, '23; and Elroy H. Schroeder, '25.

Pep Rally

The student pep activity started with a bon fire at the University early in the evening, and terminated after a snake dance through the streets of Grand Forks, with a giant pep rally at the corner of 3rd street and first avenue, between Hotels Dacotah and Frederick. Paul Yoder, Pep King, presided at the demonstration. Numbers were played by the University band, and "Red" Tergeson, Rooter King, led the cheering.

Former Nodak football stars who spoke at the rally were: "Mac" Johnson, '22, Hillsboro; Charles Houska, '05, Cando; and Tom Johnson, '08, Kildeer. Charles Houska was responsible for winning a game from the A. C. with a drop kick in '06, and Tom Johnson was one of the lightest Nodaks to ever win a letter in football.

Giant Parade

Pi Beta Phi sorority and Beta Theta Pi fraternity were awarded first prizes for the best floats; Alpha Psi Delta and Gamma Phi Beta, second place; Lambda Chi Alpha, Beta Chi, Chi Omega, and Delta Delta Delta received honorable mention.

Beta Theta Pi also won first prize for having the most unique float and Macnie Hall received honorable mention.

Over 50 city and campus organizations were represented in the parade which covered over a third of a mile in length. The parade passed through the down-town streets in Grand Forks and East Grand Forks to the tune of music furnished by the University, N. D. State, and Central High School Bands, and the Grand Forks Legion Drum and Bugle Corps.

Captains Honored

"Stew" MacMillan and Stafford Ordahl, rival University and Aggie captains and centers, were honored just before the game, by their home town admirers from McVile and Grafton respectively. Delegations of one hundred supporters of McVile and two hundred from Grafton were in the Stadium to cheer their native sons when Jack Stewart, Ex. '25, presented their respective committees. MacMillan was presented with a solid gold watch by Supt. S. B. Tingelstad, '13, while Mayor Frank Deacon of Grafton honored Ordahl with a gift.

Homecoming Ball

The Armory was packed for the final event, the Homecoming Victory Dance. An Alumni reception committee headed by J. Douglas Leith, '20, was on hand to welcome the Alumni.

Steamship Company Plans Alumni Tours in Europe

THE FLAGSHIP "AMERICA"

The United States and American Merchant steamship lines, recently chosen by alumni of 103 colleges and universities, including women's colleges as the official alumni steamship lines, have placed the North Dakota University alumni headquarters in charge of furnishing information on travel abroad to graduates and ex-students of this school.

The companies have assigned the renowned steamship America on which Captain George Fried, of rescue fame, is commander, as the intercollegiate flagship with sailings to Europe from New York booked for June 4, July 2 and July 30, 1930.

A series of five tours, each of which includes stops in practically every European nation, lasting from 42 to 63 days with rates accordingly, has been arranged by the company for the coming summer.

Besides the intercollegiate flagship, America, other liners including the Leviathan, the Republic, the President Roosevelt, the President Harding and others will be used in the excursions.

Each ship affords not only comforts but luxuries of travel that are made possible at such low rates only through the cooperation of many college alumni.

North Dakota University alumni who are contemplating a trip abroad are urged to write to their alumni headquarters at the University for information concerning the fares and excursions planned for intercollegiate travellers.

quired to do advanced professional work. In some states the Master's degree is now necessary for the holding of administrative positions. Facilities are now being provided for this type of advanced work especially during the summer sessions. All of the important departments are offering graduate courses.

One of the problems facing the University is that of meeting the responsibility imposed upon it by the increased number of advanced students. The provision for graduate work calls for higher salaries, lighter teaching loads, better laboratories, and a larger library.

It must be remembered too that the student with the advanced degree has been trained and is capable of rendering more service to the commonwealth than any other type of citizen. It is the graduate student who conducts the research necessary to the development of our natural resources; advanced students in the laboratories make investigations that contribute to the public health; they search out ways and means for more efficient marketing;—in every way graduate students contribute directly to the wealth and welfare of the commonwealth.

Individual Attention

The alumni of the University of North Dakota are to be congratulated on the splendid facilities that are now available at their University. They can come to the University along with the graduates of other institutions and be assured that the quality of the work and the personal attention they will receive will be equal to that of almost any institution in the country. The University is still small enough so that the graduate work consists in direct cooperation with the faculty. Those who receive the master's and doctor's degrees can be assured, since their number is not so large, that they will have the undivided support of the men who have directed their graduate studies. When this is taken into consideration it means that students from the University will receive as much personal direction as in the very large universities of the country, where mass methods, so deadly to the quality of graduate work, must be employed.

So far the graduate students have been very successful in securing positions. Personal attention and cooperation through other alumni and through the offices of the University make it possible for us to support the efforts and ambitions of all our worthy sons and daughters.

The Graduate Division then will grow and render a service that cannot fail but redound to the glory of the University of North Dakota.

Nodak Supporters Fete Grid Squads With Annual Banquet

Over 300 loyal supporters of the University of North Dakota football team showed their appreciation at a testimonial banquet Monday evening, December 16 at Grand Forks. The occasion was the second annual grid-iron banquet sponsored by the service clubs of the city and 75 football athletes of the varsity and freshman teams were guests of honor. John McGovern, sports editor of the Minneapolis Journal, principal speaker, hit the keynote of the evening when he predicted that the Midwest would be watching North Dakota even closer next year than it had the past two, to see the first Nodak team to play on the Atlantic seaboard defeat the Army. In his address Mr. McGovern stressed the development of football from the days of mass formation through the stormy period of its transformation. He showed how Dr. Henry Williams, the man who had such an influence in Midwest football while a coach at Minnesota for 20 years, helped develop the Army's first teams.

The former All-American quarterback claimed that as the game developed at Army from such a small beginning so it was developing at North Dakota and that the supporters in Grand Forks would marvel at the advancement made during the next two years as they already had over the progress of the past two. He said that two years ago the Nodaks were unknown outside their own territory and today they are recognized nationally as they have scheduled three inter-sectional games for next year.

Commends Sponsors

Mr. McGovern paid tribute to the sponsors of the banquet saying that it was a fine thing for the players and a great thing for the game. He referred to it as a demonstration of public opinion by men who know football, the kind of public opinion which is cleaning the sport of evils that were bound to creep in even as it had forced the transformation from the dangers of the old mass formation to the safer and more spectacular game of today.

In voicing the appreciation of the people of Grand Forks, of the teams and coaches, Attorney C. J. Murphy said that he interviewed several people about town in framing his talk for the evening but that he could not get much information. He claimed that he did, however, find a unanimous opinion that the 1929 team was the greatest in the history of the institution and that Grand Forks was 100 per cent behind the eleven and the school in everything it undertook.

Mr. Murphy said that the city should stand with the University, its greatest asset in business as well as in culture because whatever was good for the University was good for Grand Forks and that he was certain that a winning football team of the type C. A. West had produced was a good thing for both.

President of the Memorial Stadium board of directors who with others acclaimed the Nodak squad one of the greatest in history.

Ruud Speaks

Dr. M. B. Ruud, '07, Grand Forks, president of the Memorial Stadium Board of Directors and formerly President of the Nodak Alumni Association, in speaking for that organization, said that he was proud of the stadium and glad if it had anything to do with bringing any of the present squad to the University. He pointed out, however, that he would be disappointed if any of the men had enrolled with the idea of only playing football. He stressed the fact that eligibility was an important item and that athletes had no excuse for not being good students.

Dr. Ruud expressed the hope that in the future the memorial stadium would be put to a more extensive use in serving the public and predicts a time when the stadium would be the center of many more attractions.

Director C. A. "Jack" West paid special tribute to the team in reviewing the past season when he declared that he had never coached a team in which he had more confidence nor of which he had been prouder. The attitude of the players, individually and as a group, made the work of the coaches a simple matter. He mentioned several favorable comments that had been made by people on the outside concerning the conduct of the athletes at home and on the trips. The Nodak mentor explained that while he had good material in the past season he was able to make a winning team of it only because the players had worked hard on the practice field, submerging their individuality and working for the team. In closing Coach West said that the attitude of the University and city had much to do with influencing the players and he thanked the service clubs for their support. In a few choice words he gave his assistant Clyde "Buck" Starbeck equal credit for the development of the team.

Gold footballs were presented to members of the championship squad by Coaches West and Starbeck. The director then presented assistant coaches Lee, Stromboe, and Letich, the freshmen coach, who presented the members of the yearling squad.

Jarrett Receives

The climax of the evening program was reached with the presentation of the Captain's trophy when Capt. Stuart MacMillan passed the trophy to Glen Jarrett, Captain-elect for 1930. MacMillan, for three consecutive years all-conference center, told of his pride in having led such a fine squad of grid athletes. He said that he had never played on an eleven that showed better spirit and that not once during the season had he known of any ill-feeling existing between members of the team. Upon receiving the trophy the little speed merchant of the squad, Red Jarrett, said that the honor of being named captain was the greatest that had come to him.

Supt. J. C. West, '26, presided as master of ceremonies in a very fitting

100% All Running, Kicking, Fighting Picture, Directed by Jack West, Will Feature Glen Jarrett, 1930 Captain

In lieu of any news to offer on campus government, or the Wall Street panic, let us consider the case of North Dakota's 1930 football captain.

When Glenn Jarrett, small, freckled, red-haired, came upon the University campus lugging his freshmen books in 1927, everyone said, "He's too small. He'll not do for varsity football." All this in spite of Glenn's excellent reputation as a speedy halfback at Grand Forks high.

And who could blame them for thinking that way. Jarrett weighed scarcely 140 pounds and even medium sized players towered above him.

Well, here we are in 1929. Only a

GLEN JARRETT

1930 Grid Captain

few days ago Glenn was elected captain of the 1930 University squad. How times do change.

The pessimists of 1927 are Jarrett's boosters of 1929. Now they can't invite him over to dinner often enough. You ask the reason. Easy enough. Jarrett is the greatest ball-carrier in modern University history.

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are!
Down below those giants so far,
But my goodness what a runner."

"The bigger they are the easier they fall" is not Jarrett's motto. He changed it himself to "The bigger they are the easier they are to run around." That's what this "Red Rabbit" of the gridiron does—he runs around 'em, and it doesn't matter how far around it is, he always gets there.

Mr. Jarrett, North Dakota's "touch-down kid," chalked up 12 touchdowns this season. No team stopped his goalward journeys except those rampaging Haskell Indians.

He took off at the Brookings airport and landed 79-yards farther along for the winning touchdown against South Dakota State. He created a 75-yard breeze which was a dirge for the dogged but downhearted North Dakota Bison. Superior Normal saw him make two 60-yard touchdown extravaganzas. Loyola and South Dakota watched his heels for 40-yards. And there were other exploits of a lesser nature.

But these are enough for one season. Mr. Jarrett, our "Red Rabbit" is now waiting for 1930 when he will be starred in "Bigger and Better Runs," the nine reel thriller Jack West has in the making.

Chicago Alumni Club Congratulates Nodaks

The following telegram was received by the Alumni Secretary from John P. Conmy, '06, in behalf of the Chicago Nodak Club at a banquet given in honor of the University of North Dakota football team after the North Dakota with Loyola football game November 30th: "More than one hundred loyal North Dakota Alumni braved cold weather to cheer a clever hard driving North Dakota team to victory over Loyola and tonight were hosts to that team at dinner and theatre stop all of us are proud of the team and proud to be Alumni of the institution they so well represented today stop our spirit of loyalty has been renewed and elevated and we all join in a message of thankfulness to our Alma Mater for what it has done for us and is doing for others stop greetings to all in the name of and for the Chicago Alumni of U. N. D."

Attorney Fred J. Traynor, Devils Lake, President of the University of North Dakota Alumni Association voiced the appreciation of the Alumni in the following message to Coach West, after the Loyola Game:

"December 2nd, 1929.

MINOT

By VIOLA STREIMIKES, '29

"I believe that it is time for Dean Breitwieser to do some weeping," calmly remarked Dean P. Squires, College of Liberal Arts, University of North Dakota.

The remark was made at the University Alumni Banquet held during the North Dakota Educational Association meeting at Minot, November 7 in the Palm room of the Grand Hotel.

Previous to the assertion made by Dean Squires, Dean J. V. Breitwieser of the School of Education had complimented the Arts head on the fine development which his school had shown in recent years and also explained that the College of Liberal Arts had served as a pattern for the School of Education. "So extraordinary a pattern did we have," he said, "that we have equaled in many ways and surpassed in many others, our fine example!"

Immediately following Dean Breitwieser's address, Dean Squires recalled that incident which refers to a historic personage who had attained a goal and then declared that he could weep because he could see no further goals to be attained. This parallel illustration prefaced Dean Squires oratorical denunciation of Dean Breitwieser's remark. The two speeches seemed to provide an incentive in humor to all the speakers who followed them. A number of jokes were made at the expense of the Arts dean in relation to the New Liberal Arts Building at the State university, which for quite some time seemed an impossible dream.

Taking his cue from all Minot residents who seem to get soaked in a "Why not Minot?" solution, former congressman P. D. Norton complimented the association on its choice of the state's northwestern city for the annual meeting of the N. D. E. A.

John Urness, Williston, presided at the banquet. He extended a "Welcome home" to John E. Howard, formerly of Minot. Mr. Howard responded in adequate silence as far as speech went, then played two violin solos for an appreciative audience. Hywel C. Rowland, also of the state university, sang two vocal solos.

VIOLA STREIMIKES, '29

"Can there be school sessions at the U. N. D. education department?" demanded one of the guests, noting the delegation of representatives which included, in addition to those named above, C. C. Schmidt, M. E. Nugent, Howard Simpson, Della Marie Clark, Alice Richardson, and P. T. Nerhus. R. D. Cole also attended the convention, but were not present at the banquet.

Perhaps one of the most popular speakers was Dean Emeritus Joseph Kennedy. He touched briefly on N. D. E. A. work, commented on the teaching profession and urged all those present to grow with their work.

"A larger room next time," said Frank Webb, alumni secretary, after explaining that fully 20 persons could not get into the banquet hall. More than 85 people were in attendance, all representatives of schools in North Dakota. A number of superintendents and principals were there, all graduates of U. N. D. John Page, state director of secondary education, attended. So did Elsie Cook, Minot State Teachers' College. Others included Tilda Natwick, I. R. Plummer, H. Moyer, Harold Wakefield, Elroy Schroeder, and Duane Squires.

'06 Helen Sullivan of the University English faculty attended the meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English at Kansas City, Mo., November 28-31. Miss Sullivan represented the English Teachers Association of the State at the Meeting.

NEW YORK

The Nodak club of New York City held one of its three-times-a-year dinner meetings, recently, according to information received from Vera Kelsey. About 45 University people and wives or husbands were present.

William S. Holmes, '15, president of the club, presided, and Ruth Soule was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Elizabeth Gaulke, who was forced to turn in her resignation because of illness.

Nodaks, as they introduced themselves at the meeting were: Jean Fraser, Grafton, now teaching at White Plains and doing graduate work at Columbia; Mrs. O. M. Fraser, Grafton, living with daughter Jean; Grace Dunlap Bacon, Michigan, located in New Haven, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. M. Thomson living in Brooklyn; O. P. Pearson, Hampden, statistician and economist; Ethelwyn Martz, Sarles, teaching; Rudolph H. Gjerness, Reynolds, librarian in Fifth Avenue public library; Mrs. T. E. Simonton, (Beulah M. Hulsebus), Heaton, with F. G. Shattuck company, in charge of experimental cooking; Martha Crabbe, Fargo; secretary to Anne Morgan; Vera Kelsey, Grand Forks, Theatre Arts magazine; Harold A. Holmes, Towner, manager Hoover Brothers; Arthur B. Eielson, Hatton, brother of Ben Eielson, electrical engineer with Western Electric Co.; Florence and Clara Purdon, Wahpeton, Morristown, N. J., have an art shop; Jessie DePuy, Grafton, taking graduate work at National Recreation school and executive training in recreation; Edna Twamley, Grand Forks, teaching English in Morris high school; Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Crouch, formerly dean of college of mechanical engineering, University of North Dakota, now with E. L. Phillips and Company as mechanical engineer.

Wm. S. Holmes, Grand Forks, food brokerage business; Franklin J. Lundberg, Hope, with federal trade commission; Eleanor M. Pratt, Grand Forks, nurse; Mildred Corliss Andrews; Dorothy Perrott, Grand Forks, with M. F. Meehan and Company, 61 Broadway; Dr. Kirby A. # Nodaks End Successful Grid Season With Nine Victories

(By JACK STEWART)

In 1925 North Dakota played 10 football games. Nine losses were marked down and but one contest resulted in a victory. Now four short years later memories of that gridiron rout are wiped away by the greatest record in all University history. Exactly reversing 1925 doings the 1929 juggerant catapulted to nine victories and only one defeat. Here are the figures:

U. N. D.	14
St. Mary's	7
U. N. D.	26
Superior Normal	6
U. N. D.	6
Haskell Indians	13
U. N. D.	27

S. Dak. State	6
U. N. D.	54

From the above it can be seen that North Dakota's impressive record this autumn was not gained at the expense of football "stumblebums." The two final victories over Creighton and Loyola of Chicago were real accomplishments, victories over two outstanding midwestern elevens.

Proceedings Reversed

Year after year North Dakota has played Creighton, losing regularly each time save once back in 1919. How sweet then has the music of that unmerciful 54 to 0 tattoo Jack West's men beat on the blue jerseyed backs of the Bluejays this time. Going into the fray "an underdog" the Flickertails played inspired and perfect football, rolling up 27 points in each half while Creighton was held powerless.

This amazing score was the worst defeat Creighton has ever received and led critics in Omaha to class North Dakota with Omaha, Nebraska, Minnesota and Notre Dame. No doubt North Dakota could have played with the best in the country on that fitful November Saturday.

Jarrett Scores Against Loyola

Jarrett Scampers Across

Glen "Red Rabbit" Jarrett, the nimble footed halfback, dashed 38 yards for a touchdown in the final clash against Loyola at Chicago, bringing the Nomads of the North their only score. Lloyd Richmond, the extra-point expert, added his meed with a successful placekick, making the final score 7 to 0.

Some 300 North Dakota alumni braved zero weather to watch the combat, North Dakota's first football appearance in the Windy City. Reports from some of these ardent fans indicated that they were of the belief that the University had "Some team."

Coaches Successful

Coaches Jack "Last Minute" West and his good man Friday (Buck Star-beck) had a hard row to hoe this season. They started the season with only three lettermen in the regular lineup. These were MacMillan, Aus Smith and Jarrett. Piece by piece they improved the green ones, tinkered and tinkered, until the result was the smoothest team machine in years. How those boys played together. All for one, and one for all characterized the execution of every play.

The story of the season shows how the Nomads developed.

St. Mary's champion of the Minnesota conference, proved a tough nut in the opener on Sept. 20. In fact some "Last Minute" work was required by the Nomads to break a 7 to 7 first half tie, and give North Dakota a 14 to 7 win. This contest was played under night lights to the complete satisfaction of all concerned.

Superior Normal, Champion of the Wisconsin Teachers conference, counted a touchdown and led North Dakota 6 to 0 at the end of the first quarter in the season's second game. But Jarrett unloosed a couple of long touchdown gallops and these with the aid of two other scores gave the Nomads a 26 to 6 decision.

MARY HETHERINGTON ATTENDS NATIONAL PRESS CONFERENCE

Mary Hetherington, '26, now teaching at Mankato, Minnesota, took six of her students to the National Interscholastic Press convention in Chicago last week end. Mary writes that the convention was very valuable to high school papers.

The antics of her six young students include getting kicked out of the boiler room at Marshall Fields; bribing a janitor to take them to the top of a 34 story Palmolive building, which was strictly against orders since the building is not yet complete; and riding for two consecutive hours up and down the revolving stairway in the Boston store.

'08 T. H. Burke writes an interesting letter from Hardin, Mont., where he practices law. At the time he wrote the Alumni office he was busy probating the estate of Frank M. Heinrich, Montana's millionaire cattleman. Mrs. Burke will be remembered as Effie L. Lindstrom, '10. Mr. Burke is serving his second term as County Attorney of Big Horn County, Montana.
'10 Major Ansel Wineman is commanding the second battalion of the Eighth field artillery of the U. S. Army located at Schofield Barricks, Honolulu, H. I.

CHICAGO

By KEN HOLMES, '25

After seeing North Dakota's greatest football team perform on the afternoon of the thirtieth of November the Chicago Nodaks were hosts to the team and visitors at the luxurious quarters of the Medical and Dental Club which is housed on the top floor of the Medical and Dental Arts Building on Wabash and Lake streets. 125 North Dakotans shook hands, spun yarns, and relived the good old times at U. N. D.

Ron Taillon, '25 had all arrangements made and the whole party went off with a bang. He spared no efforts in seeing that everything was done to have every Nodak in the metropolitan area of Chicago out—and had it not been for the arctic wave many more would have been there.

Bill Miskella, Ex. '01, was master of ceremonies and called upon the captain of the team, Stew McMillan, to tell how they did it. Coach West thanked the Chicago Alumni for the reception they had tendered the team. Tom Chrishold, '03, long the sponsor and old original of the Association here gave a brief resume' of the founding and activities of the Nodak club.

Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted in Elmer Grandson, '20, Bank magnate, being chosen unanimously as the next president. Ron Taillon, wholesaler, got the vice-presidency and the secretaryship fell to the capable hands of Paul Boyd, '29, tea merchant. Banker Grandson outlined his program, stating that the new big pow-wow would be called in February at which time the secretary would receive dues.

All Alumni in and about Chicago should arrange to make this get together and the best way to be notified of the time and place is to see that Paul Boyd has your address. Paul receives mail at 5 North Wabash, % Jewel Tea Co., Chicago.

'11 Clarence Stee is a mining engineer and lives at 254 S. 3rd. East, Salt Lake City, Utah.

'22 Dr. George Waldren is now practicing medicine at Pembina, N. Dak., George announces a future Nodak in the person of Charles Henry Waldren, born in February.

Frozen North Holds Fate of Famous Nodak Aviator

Considerable anxiety has been felt in the rank of Nodak Alumni over the welfare of Col. Carl Ben Eielson, '21, noted Arctic Aviator, who has been missing since the middle of November.

Ben was engaged in playing the hero role in the transporting of passengers and valuable furs from the ship-wrecked Nanuk which is ice-bound in the Arctic Ocean off the extreme eastern coast of Siberia. The Nanuk was making its way back to its home port in September when an early Arctic winter overtook it off Cape North.

Col. Eielson had rescued five men and a girl from the ice-bound boat along with the quantity of furs in his first trip and was making his second trip when the plane was wrecked.

Early reports indicated sight of the plane about six miles from the Nanuk. No word whatever has been received from Eielson or his mechanic, Borland.

The heavy storms that have continued in this area have made it impossible for rescue ships to make the trip.

In the mean time President Hoover and the Army and Navy departments at Washington have been besieged by thousands of telegrams coming from individuals, newspapers, service clubs and legion posts through-out the northwest. It has been difficult for the friends of Col. Eielson here in the northwest to realize climatic conditions in the Arctic regions at this time of the year.

The authorities at Washington have assured Col. Eielson's friends that everything humanly possible is being done to locate the prominent Nodak aviator.

Three planes will leave Seattle soon, including pilots Croson, Young, Dor-badt, Barnhill, Gillam, and Niemenen with mechanics Cope and Moller, in skii-equipped planes.

Friends of Col. Eielson who are familiar with the conditions in this region feel that he is safe unless an aeroplane accident resulted in injuries to the two men.

tems the Nomads settled down to a grind that terminated with the devastating 54 to 0 steam roller act at Creighton university's expense, the seventh victory in a row for West's men.

Manitoba the first of the seven proved weak and Starbeck called on the second eleven to furnish the power for a 27 to 0 conquest. Then came South Dakota university fresh from a 6 to 0 verdict over Carleton, the team which tied us in 1928. The Coyotes were undefeated and confident but the Nomads took them in turn, 13 to 7. Jarrett ran for both North Dakota touchdowns on a gridiron made muddy and slippery by a three-day rain.

Burma Gets Away

fullback made two 60-yard runs from scrimmage, added another shorter touchdown run, and thereby furnished most of the momentum when Morningside was humbled October 20 at Sioux City, 26 to 0.

Homecoming with the North Dakota State Bison October 26 at the Stadium found the largest turnout of alumni in history on hand. They were treated to a wonderful football exhibition in which Jack West made the Bison jump through his hoop, 14 to 0. Jarrett broke loose for a 75 yard jaunt in the first quarter and another touchdown was added by Lowe on an intercepted pass in the final period.

Take N. C. Title

The championship of the North Central league was decided November 2 at Brookings when Jarrett sped 79-yards through the entire South Dakota State team for a touchdown and Lloyd Richmond, kicker par-excellence boot-ed the extra point to gain us a narrow 7 to 6 victory.

The two non-conference victories closed the season. Snow is piled a mile high here at this writing but the football fires still burn brightly. Coach West has assembled a squad of 21 North Central conference players who will go to Denver New Year's day to play a team of Rocky Mountain All-Stars in a game which will attract nationwide attention. Incidentally 11 University players are on the All-Star lineup and no doubt West will start them as a unit.

This clash may be broadcast New Year's afternoon over Denver Radio Station KOA so tune in and hear how the Nomads make out.

'28 Merle Elmslie, Devils Lake and Warren J. Harman were married Nov. 2 at Lewiston, Idaho.

The bride taught at Rowan, Mont. last year and this year is a member of the faculty of Wilson Creek, Wash. Mr. Harnam is principal of the school there.

'26 Announcements have reached here of the marriage of Carl L. Rudser of Grand Forks and of Elizabeth Healy.

Dr. B. A. Dean, who has been located at Crookston, Minn., is now at the Hot Springs' Hospital, Hot Springs, S. Dak.

Sam Groth, Ex. '29, was elected president of the Civic Club, Mayville, N. D. Dec. 10.

Guy L. Elken, Ex. '13, is Chairman of the agricultural committee of the club.

NODAKS END SEASON WITH NINE VICTORIES

Coaches West and Starbeck were bothered with injuries and switches in the lineup. New men were starting slowly and although the power appeared to be present it was not making itself felt.

This was the situation when Haskell's renowned Indians came to camp and throttled the Nomads 13 to 6 in a sparkling clash played under the lights before a fine turnout in the Stadium Oct. 4. Haskell proved to be strong and tricky and deserved her triumph.

CARNEGIE FOUNDATION REPORT

The recent report, "Bulletin 23," of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, on American College Athletics has been the subject of much discussion. The report includes a study of athletic conditions made over a period of 3½ years for colleges and secondary schools with special attention paid to 112 educational institutions studied specifically for traces of professionalism. Of these colleges only 28 were listed as free of subsidized athletics. Of the eastern or mid-western universities; Yale, Cornell, Chicago, Illinois, Wesleyan, Williams and the United States Military Academy were found free from professionalism.

One athlete out of every seven engaged in inter-collegiate competition is "subsidized" to a point bordering upon professionalism according to the report. The policy of granting of bounties to athletes for no other consideration than athletic ability constitutes, "the darkest blot upon American college sports," the report asserts.

The fact that even 28 institutions were free of paid athletes the report declared "disproves the notion that inter-collegiate competition is impossible or it is at least impracticable without subsidy. In concluding the report sets forth," two prime needs of our college athletics one particular and one general.

"The first is a change of values in a field that is sodden with the commercial and the material and the vested interests that these forces have created. Commercialism in college athletics must be diminished and college sport must rise to a point where it is esteemed primarily and sincerely for opportunities it affords to mature youth under responsibility to exercise at once the body and the mind and to foster habits both of bodily health and of those high qualities of character which, until they are revealed in action, we accept on faith.

"The second need is more fundamental. The American college must renew within itself the force that will challenge the best intellectual capabilities of the undergraduates. Happily, this task is now engaging the attention of numerous college officers and teachers. Better still, the fact is becoming recognized that the granting of opportunity for the fulfillment of intellectual promise need not impair the socializing qualities of college sport. It is not necessary to include athletics in the curriculum of the undergraduates or to legislate out of them their life and sport in order to extract what educational values they promise in terms of courage, independent thinking, cooperation, initiative, habits of bodily activity and, above all, honesty in dealings between man and man. Whichever conception of the function of the American college, intellectual or socializing agency, be adopted, let only the chosen ideal be followed with sincerity and clear vision, and in the course of years our college sport will largely take care of itself."

The University of South Dakota was the only member of the North Central Conference included in the list of schools visited. There are arguments pro and con, but nevertheless the report gives food for thought for the rise of football in the last ten years. In some of the schools it suggests that possibly the tail is wagging the dog.

SUCCESSFUL SEASON The 1929 football team, by winning the second North Central Conference championship and defeating Creighton and Loyola on their own fields by very decisive scores, marked the Nodak team as a highly perfected organization.

Nodak alumni from practically every state in the Union have voiced their appreciation of this fine piece of work. Director C. A. West and his assistant Clyde Starbeck are to be congratulated for developing this fine organization. The members of the team, throughout the season, have shown themselves to be thorough gentlemen off the field as well as on, the numerous reports from alumni and friends of the institution, have commended the men upon their fine conduct.

With three intersectional games scheduled for next year, Davis-Elkins, Army, and Dequesne, the University of North Dakota will face national competition. The Nodak Alumni in the East will have an opportunity to watch their team perform in 1930 at New York and Pittsburg.

IMPORTANCE OF ALUMNI The following is taken from a radio talk given by Chas. E. Strickland, Pres. of the Chicago K. U. Club over Station KYW:

"Inasmuch as the days actually spent in attendance at college are so few in number, as compared to the years that follow our departure therefrom, it is obvious that our relations as alumni are normally of much longer duration than those maintained as undergraduates. Hence, our relations with the University after leaving college are of the utmost importance and should be constantly fostered and developed.

The tendency of the average student, upon leaving college, is to drift away from his Alma Mater and it becomes the duty of our organized alumni bodies to prevent this drift and to maintain contact with the hundreds of former students scattered throughout the world.

It is a well-established fact that the strength of our great institutions of learning is not so much in the make-up of any one set of undergraduates, or in the fact during any given period of time. These and other similar factors are more or less variables. The place the college or university occupies in the minds and hearts of its graduates and former students is what really determines the ultimate success or failure of that school. Without the constant support and loyalty of its alumni no institution can forge ahead and develop to its fullest measure of usefulness."

Campus Briefs

DRASTIC CHANGES MADE IN U ELECTION SYSTEM

Drastic changes in the system of conducting class elections and the number of class officers have been instituted at the University by a Student Advisory council sitting in joint session with the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

The new plan provides for only five elective offices, the presidencies of the three upper classes, the junior and senior prom managers. Choregi for all four classes are to be appointed by heads of the music department after competitive tryouts and there are to be no freshman officers whatsoever or upper class officers with the exception of prom managers and presidents.

The Student Advisory council, composed of four students selected by the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs, will elect a nominating committee composed of representative students. This committee will in turn nominate candidates for the five elective offices, keeping the names of nominees secret until the day of election. The election date is to be announced only the day previous to balloting.

The new election system has been inaugurated to eliminate the evils of "framing" which have heretofore caused ill-feeling among various campus groups, according to those who instituted the plan.

Student sentiment against the action is being recorded in a petition to the two groups which are responsible for the plan, asking that the matter be dropped until some more general satisfactory means of conducting elections can be drawn up.

The Dakota Student is conducting a survey among other universities to discover what election methods have been found satisfactory in their schools.

U DELEGATES ATTEND Y CONGERENCE IN FARGO

Lloyd Williams and Charles Finch together with Prof. H. E. Simpson represented the University Y. M. C. A. at the State Student Council meeting held in Fargo, Saturday, November 16. At the meeting Williams was elected secretary of the council.

SIGMA DELTA CHI RANKS HIGH IN CONTEST FOR NATIONAL EFFICIENCY

Carlyle Mathison, president of the North Dakota chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary professional journalism group, attended the national convention of the fraternity, held at the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., November 20 to 22.

At the convention the North Dakota chapter was given third rating in competition with all other chapters for the national efficiency award. The chapter has been accorded high ratings at previous conventions. Among the projects undertaken this year in competition for next year's honor are the publication of a monthly news letter Flicker Flashes which is being sent to all alumni members of this chapter and the presentation of a cup in the N. I. P. A. contests. Henry Frank, '31, is in charge of the news letter.

JUNIORS GIVE SUPPORT TO DACOTAH OF 1931

Members of the junior class at the University of North Dakota will give unanimous support to the public action of their yearbook, the Dacotah of 1931. The decision was reached at an all-class ballot at which only one dissenting vote was cast.

In this plan the junior class is following the example set by last year's juniors.

The price of the yearbook will be paid at the time of registration of the second semester.

Y. W. C. A. FURNISHES NEW ART BUILDING RESTROOM

Complete furnishings for the woman's rest room which is located on the second floor of the new Liberal Arts building have been supplied by the University Y. W. C. A.

The outer room is equipped with study tables and the rest room proper is completely furnished with lamps, davenport, rugs and desks. A piano is being supplied for the rest room by the University.

At ceremonies held recently the room was formally dedicated. Joseph Bell DeRemer was the architect in charge of arranging of the furniture.

N. I. P. A. MEMBERSHIP SHOWS BIG INCREASE

With 112 delegates in attendance at the convention and 87 publications entered in the contests, the Northern Interscholastic Press Association increased its membership 20 per cent this year under the direction of Bertha Turner, '30.

Representing four states, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana, delegates attended the annual two day convention at the University, November 22 and 23. Round table discussions of problems which the delegates presented themselves were conducted by heads of the University journalism department, members of the Grand Forks Herald staff, printing authorities, and students who have been prominent in directing publications at the University.

M. M. Opegard, publisher of the Grand Forks Herald gave the main address at the annual banquet held at the Dacotah Hotel, Friday evening of the convention.

The Sweepstakes cup for the best all around publication in the contests went for the second consecutive time to the Wild Rose magazine of St. James Academy, Grand Forks, N. D. while the Cooper High Record, Cooperstown, N. D., won the Mary Hetherington cup for the best high school paper coming from a school with less than 200 students enrolled. The Cooperstown paper also won this cup last year.

The Sigma Delta Chi cup, given for the first time this year to the best high school section of a town newspaper went to the Yellow Jacket Journal, Mohall, N. D., Viola Streimikes, '29, is advisor of this paper. She accompanied two delegates to the convention.

The Thomas Hetherington cup, awarded for the best editorials was won by the Hi-Eye, Park River, N. D. Fahe Nelson, '29, is faculty adviser for this publication.

The Matrix cup, given to the best woman-edited paper was awarded the Maroon and Gold News, Grafton, N. D. This paper has Marion O'Connor, '26, for its faculty adviser. She accompanied four delegates to the convention.

Letich Moulds Nodak Basketball Team From Unpromising Material

By CARLYLE MATHISON

Starting the season with only two lettermen back from last year's famous globe-trotting Nomads of the North, Coach Clem Letich has lightened considerable clouds of gloom which swathed North Dakota's prospects for the 1930 basketball season by quickly building a Flickertail basketball machine of surprising efficiency from material which had been classed as unpromising.

The ball-flinging North Dakotans will get away to their fifth start of the season against a rough-riding squad from the University of Montana in a two-game series which will be played at the Armory December 31 and January 1.

Captain Vic Brown and Red Jarrett, forwards who earned letters last year, have composed the nucleus of Letich's rebuilt squad, Gillson, Hanson, and Felber have alternated at the center position, while DuChene, Lowe, Wexler, and Webster form the corps of guards.

Letich had counted on the services of Vern Smith, expert guard, and Curt Schave, all-around athlete and star member of last year's squad. Losing these men through injuries and absence from school, the Flickertail court chief was forced to look in other directions for his material.

Another factor which has made the Flickertail sphere tricksters late in reaching full form is the fact that a long football season kept a number of valuable two-sport athletes occupied at the gridiron pastime until several weeks after the basketball squadmen had begun their daily drill. Jarrett, Wexler, Lowe, and Felber did not trade helmets for trunks until two days before the Concordia series, in which all of them saw action.

With both teams exhibiting a peculiar blend of basketball, football and soccer, the Flickertails' two-game engagement played at the Armory, December 5 and 6 resulted in a victory for each. Letich's hurriedly organized quint dropped the first tilt to the invading Cobbers after a ragged game featured by frequent substitutions on the part of the Nodaks due partly to the fact that his men were unused to the sport and tired quickly, and partly to the desire of Coach Letich to give all the members of his widely assorted squad a tryout.

Rallying in the second game with the Moorhead outfit, the Nodaks made a brilliant comeback, scoring consistently to pile up a decisive 41-14 victory.

Playing their first road engagement of the season, the Letichmen fought persistently the onrush of a powerful Carleton college quint at Northfield, Minn., December 12, only to lose by a score of 29-14 after holding the lanky Carls on even terms for nearly three-quarters.

The Flickertails made their most impressive showing against the University of Minnesota in a game played at Minneapolis, December 15. Vic Brown scored heavily against the Gophers, while Jarrett, DuChene, and Gillson turned in a good performance which gave North Dakota aggregation a two point lead previous to the last five minutes of play when the Minnesotans broke through for a series of baskets which ran up the score to 34-25 against the Letichmen.

Coach Letich has been looking to Vic Brown, captain and forward, who had a big year as a sophomore but was unable to find himself consistently last year to again develop the form which has made him a dazzling floor man and basket marksman in past years. Thus far, Vic has shown high promise of reaching or surpassing former heights during the season. The clever forward's points have formed a substantial part of the Nodak score.

Glen Jarrett, who ran away with the North Central conference on the gridiron this fall, takes a leading role in the Flickertail's offensive and defensive floor play. Red has not yet regained his eye for the basket because of insufficient length of time spent at the hoop sport. Jarrett will not be on the lineup during Letich's year-end series with Montana because of a conflict of dates which will take him to Denver for the all-star intersectional football contest, New Year's Day.

FORTUNE

TIME, INC. Publishers

NOW, after two years of investigation and preparation, TIME, Inc., announces the publication on January 25th of a de luxe monthly magazine. Its subject is Business. Its purpose is to reflect Industrial Life in ink and paper and word and picture as the finest skyscraper reflects it in stone and steel and architecture.

The magazine's name is FORTUNE, since it deals with the factors which control the fortunes of every man. Its price is $10 the year.

Business takes FORTUNE to the tip of the wing of the airplane and through the depths of the ocean along be-barnacled cables. It forces FORTUNE to peer into dazzling furnaces and into the faces of bankers. FORTUNE must follow the chemist to the brink of worlds newer than Columbus found and it must jog with freight cars across Nevada's desert. Fortune is involved in the fashions of flappers and in glass made from sand. It is packed in millions of cans and saluted by Boards of Directors on the pinnacles of skyscrapers. Mountains diminish, rivers change their course, and thirty million people assemble nightly at the cinema.

Into all these matters FORTUNE will inquire with unbridled curiosity. And, above all, FORTUNE will make its discoveries clear, coherent, vivid, so that the reading of it may be one of the keenest pleasures in the life of every subscriber.

The first number of FORTUNE will be sent only to Original Subscribers in the order of application. Subscription orders ($10 the year) should be sent to TIME, Inc., Subscription Department, 350 East 22nd Street, Chicago, Illinois.
