Notes

1. Morpheme division is indicated by a hyphen; word division, by a space.
2. Key to symbols used in text (first line) is as follows:
/comma; //period; ///colon; ? glottal stop
3. Key used in literal translation (second line) is as follows: *
Af - affix; meaning unknown
C - concentrated or deliberate action
CM1 - indicates a dependent substantival construction.
CM2 - indicates attribution within a construction or between constructions.
CM3 - a verb particle, indicating that verb has been moved out of normal position to give emphasis to another construction.
CM4 - location marker
D - determined or purposeful action
E - emphasis
F - action has not yet begun
Loc-locative voice
M - modifier marker
Ob - objective voice
P - action has begun
Pl - pluralizer
R - reduplication of initial CV
4. The third line is the free translation.
5. Sounds are symbolized as per Pike's Phonemics, except that ts is a digraph representing /tʃ/, and ng is the velar nasal as in sing.
6. Stress is not written.
7. Glottal stop, vowel medial, is predictable and not written.
8. When an initial consonant of a reduplication or of a stem is not marked, it has been separated from its following vowel by an infix. Infixes are inserted between the first consonant and vowel of the stem. Reduplication occurs before infixation:
g-in-awa?: gawa? is the stem; -in- is the infix.
s-um-u-sunod: sunod is the stem; -um- is the infix; and su is reduplication.
(there are exceptions to this, such as ni-li-litson, where the affix does not come within the reduplication.)

*Unc - uncertain
