OUR NEW ALUMNI In a few weeks a graduating class of over three hundred will join the University alumni, making the total well over the five thousand mark. Their graduation is only another step in the program of education.

There is too much emphasis placed upon the division between the alumni and the undergraduates. The University should have an active influence throughout the lives of the graduates. A degree should not be regarded simply as an indication that one has completed a required course of study, but an indication that the possessor is now ready to become really educated. The function of the Alumni office is to make the University a living factor in the lives of those who started their work on this campus.

This year for the first time Parent's Day will be observed. Mortar Board and Blue Key have made definite plans to entertain parents of graduates and students on Monday, June 12. Invitations have been mailed to the parents of graduates urging them to visit the University and take part in the complete Commencement program. These organizations are to be commended for their addition to our program, and the alumni have pledged cooperation to the fullest extent.

We congratulate and extend our best wishes to the graduating class of 1933. It is the wish of the Alumni association that the new additions to their ranks will continue to be interested in their University.

A PLEA FOR NEWS A newspaper tells its readers what people are doing. To do this, it depends on its reporters and press associations.

Not unlike a newspaper is The U. N. D. Alumni Magazine. Its objective is twofold: (1) to maintain a contact between alumni and (2) to keep alumni informed concerning happenings at the University.

Located on the campus, the alumni office can naturally supply all University news needed, but it is from alumni themselves that we must get alumni news.

With this in mind, graduates and former students are asked to send us more news of their activities. Just a line or two about yourself or another alumni now and then will prove a great help to us.

The magazine is published for you; help make it yours. Tell us what features you would like and any improvements you are able to suggest.

During the past year an effort has been made to provide that news which seemed of greatest interest to alumni. We have attempted to keep up the standards of the magazine despite economic difficulties. Your interest in The Alumni Magazine is our sole means of judging our success.

Graduation Removes Outstanding Students

Class of 1933 Leaves Enviable Record of Achievement Behind; Members Have Been Prominent

BY JEAN PANOVITZ

Four years ago a group of freshmen entered the University, anxious to obtain knowledge and give in return all in their power.

On June 13 this same group of students, now graduating seniors, will leave with a wealth of knowledge gained by their association with the school, and with an enviable record of achievement behind them.

A detailed history of the class cannot be given here, but a brief outline will serve to make permanent the record of their accomplishments.

No officers were elected in the freshman year, but a representative was appointed, Elmer Klipstein, who handled official business of the group. Camilla McLaren was the class chorega. In the sophomore year Gordon Dablow was name president, with David Haney, choregus, Arnold Arndt secretary-treasurer. Lois Chance was the junior president, while Ellis Hatt was vice-president. Leon Jorgenson was choregus and Lucille Coghlan was secretary-treasurer. This year Harold Weller has headed the class, with Lyman Brink serving as vice-president. Barbara Ince is secretary, while Ruth Mulroy is treasurer. Leon Joregenson was elected choregus for the second consecutive year.

Publication of the 1933 Dacotah, sponsored by the junior class, was delayed by financial difficulties, although staff chiefs elected by the class were held over and served this year. Jack Robertson, business manager, resigned because of early graduation, and Donald Peterson, a junior, was named to succeed him. Gilbert W. Stewart Jr. was editor-in-chief of the book.

In the four years that the seniors have been in college they have entered into many activities, and have become leaders on the campus in both scholastic and extra-curricular activities.

C. Wesley Meyer, editor-in-chief of The Dakota Student during the past year has been prominent in journalistic and dramatic circles during his career. A member of Sigma Nu social fraternity, he has also been named to membership in Blue Key and Sigma Delta Chi. He has been active in Playmaker productions.

Patricia Ebert has been prominent in dramatic circles and has held offices on the Women's League Board. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Mortar Board.

Gilbert W. Stewart Jr. is editor-in-chief of the 1933 Dacotah. He has been prominent in journalism fields during his four years in college. Stewart is a member of Beta Theta Phi social fraternity, Blue Key and Sigma Delta Chi.

Business manager of the Dakota Student,

Harvey Gunderson has also found time to be a member of Blue Key, Alpha Tau Omega, social fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa.

Barbara Ince is president of Mortar Board, women's honorary service fraternity, and active in Y. W. C. A. work as well as dramatics. She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Kappa sororities.

Membership in Phi Beta Kappa as well as being active in journalism are two of the activities that have helped Hugh Moore become prominent on the campus. Moore is a Sigma Nu, a member of Blue Key and Sigma Delta Chi.

Carol Lillo is active in forensic work. Miss Lillo is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, social sorority and a member of Mortar Board.

Also a member of Blue Key is David Haney. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and Scabbard and Blade, and was Homecoming chairman in 1932.

Roy Holand is prominent in Y. M. C. A. work, and is a member of Blue Key. He plays in the University concert band, and is a member of Theta Chi social fraternity.

Nellie Bobp was winner of the King Verse Reading contest in 1932, is a member of Zeta Phi Eta, national speech sorority and Mortar Board.

President of Blue Key, Grannison Tharpe was pep king for two years in college, and is active in Y. M. C. A. work. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

Forsythe Resigns English Post

Dr. Robert S. Forsythe, University professor of English since 1926 announced May 12 that he had submitted his resignation to the president and the state board of administration, effective at the close of the present term.

Dr. Forsythe has accepted a position as specialist in book selection for the Newberry Library of Chicago, one of that city's foremost libraries. The new position will permit a continuance of his research and writing. He will assume the position in August, after teaching at Harvard this summer.

The Newberry library is a privately endowed institution founded in 1887. It is a free reference library, designed particularly for research in the cultural branches, especially the humanities, history and geneology. It contains over 460,000 volumes.

Graduating Athletes Leave Vacancies

Many Sport Stars Numbered Among Those Receiving Degrees This Month

BY BOB SCHONBERGER

Ten of the best athletes that have ever representing the Sioux finish their college competition this year, setting up marks that are doped to stand for some time to come. Five all-conference football players are included in this list, with two more from the basketball squad, while conference track records are held by a senior.

Gordon "Boomer" Dablow, a six-letter man in football and basketball, heads the list. Dablow served as captain for both the grid and court teams the past year and was prominently mentioned for the honor of greatest all-time University athlete. He played guard on the football squad for two years, and was honored with an all-conference berth at that position. Last fall he was switched to end and again broke through for a place on the all-loop team.

Dablow made his letter in basketball during his sophomore year, and played regular guard his last two years, winning berths on the first and second all-conference quints. He also played intramural baseball for three years.

Art Malo, voted the outstanding linesman in the conference last fall, occupied a regular guard position on the Sioux football team for three years. He twice rated the all-conference eleven, and also won basketball letters his sophomore and junior years.

Milton Wick, a tower of strength at his tackle post, made a great three-year record for the Sioux. He was one of the most dependable men on the squad, and was twice placed on the second all-conference team.

One of the fastest men that ever wore the green and white of North Dakota is Larry Knauf, football and track star. Larry has run the hundred-yard dash in 9.9 seconds, and placed just a few inches behind Pierce in the dashes in all of the meets last spring. He is conceded seconds in both of the events this spring at the conference meet.

After the football game with Loyola last fall, many New Orleans sports writers hailed Knauf as an All-American. He was the scoring champion for the Sioux from his halfback post, and was a near-unanimous choice for an all-conference berth. Besides his scoring ability, Larry was called the best defensive back in the loop last year.

Three other gridders while not making all-conference records, were nevertheless responsible in a large part for the success of the Sioux. Eugene Revell won three letters at quarterback, and played a good share of every game during his three seasons of competition. William Murray, an aggressive tackle, won two letters for his work, while Art Gustafson, understudy to Knauf, won his letter last fall. All three will be missed next season, as their graduation leaves vacancies to be filled with green material.

Besides Dablow, the Sioux basketball team will be without the services of Ben Jacobson next winter. Ben was the most aggressive member of the squad, and the cleverest ball-handler. He was a regular forward for two years, placing on the second all-conference five last winter. He also is a track man, competing in the pole vault.

Three members of the University track team that is conceded the conference championship this spring are seniors. They are Knauf, Roy Pearson and Roy Mosher. Pearson, last year's captain, holds the mile and half-mile records for the conference, setting them both in 1931. His half-mile record is one minute and 59 seconds, and his time for the mile, which is expected to stand for many years, is four minutes and 22.8 seconds. Roy will run the mile and two-mile races this year, and will go out after the latter record, which the coaches expect him to break. He attended two national intercollegiate meets, placing fifth and sixth in the mile in 1931 and 1932.

Roy Mosher was a hurdler his sophomore year, but switched to the half-mile last spring when Pearson took up the two-mile run. Mosher came through in big style, winning the conference race in a half-second over the record in his first competitive race. He is expected to lower the mark in the conference meet this spring. Both Pearson and Mosher were members of the North Dakota two-mile relay team that broke the Drake Relays record this year.

Minor sports will be hit hard by graduation, as both the tennis and golf teams lose their best men. Bob Fletcher, for two years number one man and captain of the golf team, and Bob Moore, twice number one man of the tennis squad, finished their competition this spring.

Former U Man Publishes Book

George R. Geiger, former University professor of philosophy, has had his book, "The Philosophy of Henry George" published by the MacMillan Co., according to a bulletin received at the University.

Containing an introduction by John Dewey, noted educator, the book presents clearly the figure of "the towering genius whose thought is destined to shake the world," in the words of the reviewer, Joseph Dana Miller.

Mr. Geiger is at present a professor of philosophy and psychology at Virginia Junior college, Virginia, Minn. He left the University at the end of the 1931-32 school year.

Class of 1927 News Letter

By Alden W. Squires

This is the sixth year in the history of the Class of '27. It has been a year marked by generalized upsets and change. Not the least of these, in its significance for us, are the modifications which our Alma Mater has been compelled to adopt to meet the new conditions of North Dakota life. In the face of these discouragements it is encouraging to note that this year, more than ever before, our classmates speak of "coming home" in 1937. And altho this edition of the 'News' contains less news than ever before—because the class has not responded as well as usual—among those whose cards were returned there is to be found an increasing devotion to U. N. D. and to the Class of '27.

As you know, our class is using its Class Memorial Fund for the task of maintaining a class newspaper, published annually with the co-operation of the U. N. D. Alumni Magazine. This is being sent to all whose addresses are known. However, news items are printed only of those persons who have definitely been heard from or about in the past few weeks.

During the past year, death has taken another member of our class. Chester Mason, a member of the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Service, was shot and killed at Beatrice, Nebraska, on November 12, 1932. He was murdered as he, with a companion, was attempting to apprehend a bootlegger in the act of making an illicit liquor sale. Chester is survived by his wife and three small children. We, his classmates, have been saddened by this tragedy and to his family we have extended our sympathy.

The financial report of our Class is as follows:

RECEIPTS

Balance reported in last News,
April, 1932	$278.73
Interest	5.21
TOTAL	$283.94

EXPENDITURES

Circulation of last News,

Circular letters, and return cards February 28,
1933	5.00 47.00
Balance on hand, May 1, 1933	$236.94

From the above amount, the cost of circulating this issue of the News will have to be paid.

Vital statistics show the following facts about the Class:

Number receiving baccalaureate degrees
June 7, 1927	261
Deaths among the Class of '27	5
Present Members, Class of '27	256
Married Members, Class of '27	96

There still are a large number of the Class who have escaped notice this year. If anyone can contribute news about them, or supply addresses, the Secretary will be glad to hear from you about them.

» » Thomas F. Kane Retires and---

BY JOE LA BINE

BIDDING FAREWELL to the campus which has been his home for the past fifteen years, President Thomas F. Kane will on July 1 conclude his duties as chief executive of the University.

Finishing a long and brilliant career in educational work, Dr. Kane is tied with President Wm. Lowe Bryan of Indiana University, for the honor of being the oldest living state college president in the United States, from the standpoint of years of service.

For fifteen years he has piloted the University; his administration has been marked by prosperity and good will, as well as financial difficulty and adverse criticism from state officials. Despite the severe burden which he has carried, despite the numerous administrative difficulties which have faced him, Dr. Kane leaves the University with thousands of friends, all wishing him a happy future.

Born in Westfield, Indiana, 70 years ago, Dr. Kane received his Ph. D. degree from John Hopkins university in 1895. The expert manner in which he has handled educational and administrative problems during his service at the University is largely the result of actual experience. He has studied at DePauw university, taught Greek and Latin at Lewis Institute in Chicago, studied and taught at John Hopkins, and served as president of two other institutions before coming to North Dakota: the University of Washington and Olivet college in Michigan.

Outstanding in national and state educational circles, President Kane has brought great prestige to the University. In 1913 he was elected president of the National Association of State Universities, while at Washington, and since that time has held other positions with that group. In 1932, he was one of the two honored by the association as having served as a university president for thirty years or more.

His administration at the University has seen the matriculation of 10,000 of the 17,000 students who have enrolled at the institution since it was founded. His signature has been affixed to 3,460 of the total of 4,824 diplomas granted by the University. The enrollment has more than doubled, from 711 in 1918 to 1,610 at the present time. Under his guidance the faculty has been almost doubled and several new courses of study have been inaugurated. Many new buildings have been erected.

Dr. Kane's plans for the future are indefinite, but by virtue of his long period of service, he is eligible for participation in the Carnegie fund for retired college presidents.

The city of Bemidji, Minn., where he and his wife have spent their summers for many years, will no doubt be the future Kane home. They plan to spend their winters in Florida, but the Northland, which has been so vitally connected with Dr. Kane's educational career, still holds an attraction that will keep him near the University.

Coming on the University's fiftieth birthday, President Kane's resignation served to make even greater the closing of an epoch in the school's history. He has recognized this, and has given it expression in inimitable fashion:

"The U. N. D. is a through train, whose schedule is not affected by the change of conductors at division points. Starting the second fifty years under a new conductor, the schedule of the train is for an increase in speed, in safety, and in service, toward the destination that has been the aim from the beginning."

Dr. Thomas F. Kane, who retires as president of the University

Greeting, Mr. President:

To President Thomas F. Kane, the alumni take this occasion to express appreciation for the fifteen years of faithful service rendered by him. It has been a period of great progress, rebounding credit to the University and to him. He retires assured of the love, respect and admiration of all. Alumni hearts follow him where 'er he may go.

To President-elect John C. West, a hearty welcome. He is one of our own boys. He is entitled to and will receive from the alumni friendly support and loyalty. Let's make it a great administration.

*Fred J. Traynor,
Alumni President*

John C. West Takes the Reins

BY JOE LABINE

CHOSEN BY THE state board of administration after consideration had been given to several other nominees, Dr. John C. West, superintendent of Grand Forks city schools, will take over his duties July 1 as new president of the University.

Coming to North Dakota's largest educational institution after a life devoted entirely to education, Dr. West is particularly adapted to his new position by virtue of a wide knowledge of northwest educational problems.

A graduate of the University, Dr. West received his doctor's degree in education in 1931. His experience in rural and city schools has been very diversified. Beginning as a rural school teacher in Minnesota, Dr. West studied at St. Cloud Teachers college and the now extinct Fargo college.

He immediately entered the field of high school administration, in which his success is indicated by his rapid rise in prominence. He has served as superintendent of public schools at St. John, N. Dak., Barnesville, Sauk Center and Bemidji, Minnesota, and at Grand Forks, where he is closing his period of administration this spring.

newly elected head of the University

He will take over his duties at the University at the age of 47, while Dr. Thomas F. Kane, retiring president, is 70 years of age.

Prominent in northwest educational circles for many years, Dr. West has been a member of every educational association in North Dakota and Minnesota and is a former president of the Minnesota Superintendents association and vice president of the Minnesota Educational association.

Since beginning his graduate work at the University several years ago, the president-elect has always shown a deep interest in the school. His son, John, was graduated from the University law school in 1931 and his daughter, Caroline, completed her four year course here last semester and will receive her degree at the June commencement.

His name was suggested to the state board by friends, and Dr. West's familiarity with problems confronting the University, together with the expediency of the choice, led to a unanimous vote by the state board of administration.

His selection has met with the enthusiastic favor of all connected with the University, alumni, faculty and students.

We can scarcely comprehend the significance of today's events, let alone peer very far through the veil which enshrouds the future. Great waves of economic, political, and cultural forces surge and eddy about us and our institutions as never before. The very stability of the national educational structure is menaced. With hope in our hearts we must do the best we can with what we have. Patience and perseverance—that is our main obligation now to the glorious past of the university, to the present trying situation, and to the unknown future. Once before, tradition tell us, the good vessel U. N. D. was assailed by a tempest of difficulties, but manned by a loyal crew it weathered the storm. History must now repeat itself.

At this distance the details of the catastrophe that threatened the university in years gone by are lost, but the lesson learned is a living thing. Economic conditions have forced changes, the result of which is in controversy. Serious though this is, financial loss may be rectified. Not so with the loss of moral tone, local and national prestige, and ability to serve. With the sincere support of the alumni the present stringency is merely a hesitation in a series of years of splendid progress the path of which, though not as clearly marked as in the past, must lead into a future the titles of whose mileposts remain yet undisclosed.

JOHN C. WEST,
President-elect, University of N. D.

Julia Bertine Rue--An Appreciation

BY HOWARD E. SIMPSON

Friends among the faculty and alumni of the University were greatly grieved to learn of the death of Julia B. Rue, '19, on May 17. Some had known that serious illness had kept her from her duties as instructor in Geography at the Minot State Teachers college for some months, but the eager energy and rare courage which characterized her life had veiled the outcome even from her closest friends.

Miss Julia Bertine Rue was a graduate of the Rushford, Minnesota, high school and of the State Teachers college of Winona and had an established reputation as a successful teacher at Warren, Minnesota, and Coopers-town, North Dakota, before entering the University.

She completed the course in the College of Liberal Arts with the class of 1919, receiving Phi Beta Kappa honors and the following year, majoring in Geography, she received the Master of Arts degree and was elected associate in Sigma Xi for ability in scientific research. Her Master's thesis entitled "The Economic Geography of the Lignite Coal of North Dakota" has proved of considerable economic value to the state.

Miss Rue assisted in Geography during her year of graduate work and here developed her interest in meteorology which later led to her appointment as cooperative observer of the United States Weather Bureau in Minot.

A charter member of Delta Zeta sorority she was also an active worker in the war time welfare work on the campus and in religious work in the Lutheran Church in the city, of which she was a member.

After completing her work at the University, Miss Rue served as instructor in Geography in the Southern Illinois Normal University at Carbondale and spent one year in travel abroad with her mother before returning to North Dakota to accept a position on the faculty of the Minot State Teachers college.

Her keen zest for work, her enthusiasm for her chosen science and her appreciation of its values in the cultural life of the youth of this state with whom she so earnestly labored, brought her especial recognition as a teacher and geographer. from the State Department of Education at Bismarck and from her colleagues in the North Dakota Education association and in the North Dakota Council of Geography teachers.

Deepest sympathy is due the aged mother as she remains alone in the home which her daughter had built near the college campus in Minot, but aside from her the greatest loss will be felt by the students and especially by the many young women to whom she gave herself in unstinted service.

Another true teacher, as one of her most intimate colleagues characterizes her, "with an ever present sense of humor, a rare courage and a staunch true character" has passed, leaving a rich influence among the youth of North Dakota with whom she lived and worked.

U Professor's Articles Published

Several articles on Bjornstjerne Bjornson, famed Norwegian poet-statesman, written by Dr. Richard Beck, professor of Scandinavian languages and literatures in the University of North Dakota, have won praise from Norwegian-American papers throughout the country.

Historical and critical in nature, the articles were written in connection with the Norwegian poet's centenary and published during December and January in Norwegian-American papers in Grand Forks, Duluth, Minn., and Superior, Wis.; in the Grand Forks Herald, University of North Dakota Quarterly Journal, and North Dakota Parent-Teacher, in the Icelandic Weekly Logberg, Winnipeg, Man.; and in the monthly Sonner af Norge, official organ of the Sons of Norway Lodges of America, published at Minneapolis.

These articles, as well as Dr. Beck's work for the preservation of Scandinavian culture in America, was made the subject of special commendation in Nordisk Tidende of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Decorah Posten of Decorah, Iowa; Western Viking, of Tacoma, Washington, and Nordmanden, Fargo.

Speaking editorially of several of the articles, the Minneapolis Tidende characterized them as "excellent." Also commenting on them editorially, Skandinaven of Chicago and St. Paul said with special reference to Dr. Beck's article in the Grand Forks Herald that it was "authoritative and exhaustive," adding that it was "one of the most satisfactory on the subject which has appeared in any of our English language papers."

"The Golden Book," a national monthly devoted to selected literature, prints in its June issue Dr. Beck's translation from the Icelandic of the short story "God and the Soul," by Einar H. Kvaran, a noted Icelandic writer. Another national magazine, "The American-Scandinavian Review," which specializes in subjects dealing with the Scandinavian countries, recently contained Dr. Beck's translation from the Norwegian of the story, "The Conscience of the Sea" by Kristmann Gudmundsson, one of the prominent younger writers in Norway.

²⁹ MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR MEIDINGER plan on returning for a visit on the campus in September. Their daughter is now nine months old.

²⁹ VIC ROSE, who holds a responsible position with the National City Bank of New York at Batavia, Colombia, South America, will enjoy a few month's vacation in the United States.

Jack Stewart Writes From Arizona

Former North Dakota Publicity Director Comments on Sioux Football From the Southland

BY JACK STEWART

ALTHOUGH my battered L. C. Smith has strayed some 2,200 rock-bound miles from the wheat-lands of the Red river valley, the distance has not been such to keep my weather-beaten eye from straying back to see what the old fox of the prairies, "Last Minute" West is doing in a football way at North Dakota.

Ever since I was a meek freshmen at South Dakota State in 1922 I have been wont to marvel at the football deeds performed by Mr. West's rough men.

He always was a jump or two ahead of the enemy. One of the best things he did at South Dakota State was to bring to the campus in the spring of 1922 a big boy who parted his hair in the center but who tied his football shoestrings in a knot, named Clyde "Buck" Starbeck. Clyde had been busy teaching Indians how to make rugs, playing baseball, farming, and had found time to do a little country football playing at Hamline university.

Mr. West's judgement in bringing Buck to State was upheld in seasons to come when Starbeck developed into perhaps the greatest linemen the Jackrabbits ever had known. Of course Buck is now at North Dakota where he may smile as he reads these lines.

Buck has developed into about as good a coach as he was a player and with West the two form a coaching combination which I believe is the equal of any in the country.

It is little wonder then that North Dakota has placed both feet under the brightest rays of the football sun. Now instead of losing nine out of 10 as was the case in 1925 the Sioux reverse tradition and old scores by winning nine out of 10 games just about every campaign.

Which brings us to the question, "can they do it again in 1933!" North Dakota's amazing schedule has come to hand and of course I was greatly surprised and pleased to see our boys pitted against Texas Christian.

We of Arizona are more or less down in the cow-country of which Texas is also a part, so we know quite a bit about the longhorns of the pampas country. In meeting Texas Christian, West will lead his charges against the football eleven which in 1932 was conceded to be the finest organization in the southwest between Los Angeles and New Orleans.

Texas Christian is located in the bustling but somewhat grimy city of Fort Worth (let us hope the Fort Worth chamber of commerce never gets to see the word grimy as I have used it.) Fort Worth is one of the oldest cities in the country, an old cow-town during frontier days where hard beverages and blood flowed most freely. Blood ceased flowing after such boys as Davey Crockett passed in their chips, but the flow is once more in progress now that Texas Christian has taken to the football field in such deadly fashion.

Last fall T. C. U. had a forward wall averaging 200 pounds from end to end and all the boys were six feet or over.

That to you would be seven Ed Showers playing side by side (do you remember big Ed?) However before Starbeck's locks turn gray I hasten to write that practically all of these giants have graduated. But the star backs are all to be in school again as well as very capable new players in the line, so the Christians will undoubtedly be almost on a par with their wonder team of '32.

They play hard, driving football in Texas, and the teams are especially adept with the forward pass. Off hand I should imagine that Texas Christian would measure up fully as strong as Minnesota, so in playing the southwesterners North Dakota's true strength can be gauged in comparison to the Gophers.

In regard to the home schedule, I should say that George Washington will present the strongest and most versatile team which has ever shown at Grand Forks. The easterners took Iowa 21 to 6 last fall and are now considered to be one of the coming teams in the east. A graduate of the Naval academy whom I met out here recently saw the George Washington freshmen trounce Navy's plebes, 66 to 0 a few years ago and he stated that the G. W. frosh (now on the varsity) were the best freshmen team in the east at that time. George Washington will be an attraction which should make the box office play tunes which will be welcome to Frank Webb, the coaches and others who have worked hard to put North Dakota on the gridiron map in such startling fashion.

MUZETTE WILLIS, '31, a member of the Langdon high school faculty, was re-elected president of the Langdon Business and Professional Women's club.

Gleanings From the Campus

Many Attend U 'Hobnobs'

University students are attending fortnightly "Hobnobs," informal dancing parties, without paying an admission charge during the second semester, as a result of action taken by the committee in charge.

Expenses for orchestras and other features are being handled with a portion of the incidental and athletic fee paid by each student at the beginning of the semester.

With the exception of free admission, the "Hobnob" policy remains unchanged. Seven-piece orchestras are furnishing music at each informal and entertainment specialties are being presented.

Sigma Xi Holds Election

Sigma Xi, honorary scientific research fraternity at the University, recently announced the election of three faculty members, two graduates and 15 students to associate membership.

Moses Gordon, Frieda Hammers and Arthur W. Koth, faculty members; Joseph Bergmeyer and Edgar H. Wells, alumni who were honored by the group.

Students named to associate membership are Erwin H. Amick, graduate student; Edgar E. Berg, Peter R. Billey, William E. Denk, Donald H. Grangaard, William Haney, Merriam A. Jones, Robert Moore, John S. Peder-son, Harold M. Scholberg, Carl Selenberger, Ray Thompson, M. Jordan Thorstad, Edward E. Tufte and Viola E. Woods.

Margaret Thompson Chosen U Beauty

Margaret Thompson of Cando, a freshman at the University, was announced as the "golden anniversary" queen of the 1933 Dacotah, as a feature of the first annual journalism week held on the campus recently.

Five coeds remained in competition after a previous student ballot had eliminated other contestants. Ruth Mulroy, Virginia Best, Frances Rogers, Harriet Helquist and Miss Thompson were left in the running, after which the honor was accorded to Miss Thompson.

A freshman in the college of liberal arts, Miss Thompson is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and is active in campus vocal organizations. Her picture, as a result of the contest, has appeared recently in many major national papers.

Journalism Week Held On Campus

College journalists from the entire north-west gathered at the University April 20-21 as the school held its first annual "Journalism Week."

Featuring a convention of the North Central Interscholastic Press association, the week end also marked the annual founders' day banquet of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity.

Delegates from Creighton university, South Dakota State, South Dakota university, Morningside college and North Dakota State college gathered at the University on Friday, remaining in session until Saturday afternoon.

The annual Sigma Delta Chi convocation was held Thursday, at which W. P. Davies of the Grand Forks Herald was the main speaker. The assembly also marked the unveiling of portraits of two pioneer state journalists, the late Norman D. Black of the Fargo Forum and George B. Winship of the Grand Forks Herald.

Margaret Thompson of Cando was announced as the "golden anniversary queen" of the 1933 Dacotah, and the annual Who's Who selection was announced. Students winning this honor were Roy Holand and David Haney of Grand Forks; Hugh Moore of Carrington, Wesley Meyer of Detroit Lakes, Minn., Barbara Ince of Kingston, R. I., Carol Lillo of East Grand Forks, Ralph Pierce of LaMoure and Gordon Dablow of Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

Six men were initiated into Sigma Delta Chi at the banquet Saturday evening, closing the journalism celebration. Initiates were Dell Wade of Fargo, Richard Westley of Coopers-town, Farnham Dudgeon, Jack Fields and Joe LaBine of Grand Forks and Gordon Stefono-wicz of Devils Lake.

NEXT FALL'S
ENROLLMENT

Our enrollment for the past two years has shown a falling off. To offset this decrease for another year, an alumni program to interest more students in attending the University, is being mapped out. Especially interested are we in the brilliant boy and girl. This type should receive a higher education. Our nation suffers every time a boy or girl of merit is denied an education. Now is the time to check on the graduating class of your community. Prepare to sell the graduates interested in going away to school, and the merits of attending your University.

It is well known that the older institutions of the East depend upon well organized alumni efforts. The University is appealing to her alumni as a whole to cooperate with her in this program of recruiting new students.

Visit with the graduates—talk University of North Dakota—sell your institution. If we can be of any assistance in providing information write us. Let us know the names and addresses of your best prospects.

OUR NEW PRESIDENT

Announcement was recently made of the selection of Dr. J. C. West, superintendent of the city schools of Grand Forks, N. Dak., as president-elect of the University to succeed President Thomas F. Kane who resigned, to be effective July 1.

Dr. West has taken a heavy assignment but the alumni, students, faculty, and friends of the University have signified their willingness to cooperate in meeting the present situation. With the present reduced budget, the problem for the coming biennium will be financial in a large part. It will demand a unified faculty, alumni and student organization to maintain as effective an institution as possible under existing conditions.

The president-elect has spent twenty-five years in secondary education in Minnesota and North Dakota. His position in Grand Forks has enabled him to become well acquainted with the University and its problems. The alumni, through their president, Attorney Fred J. Traynor, have pledged their support to the new executive. Congratulations and a pledge of cooperation in the fullest sense is the message of the alumni to the new president.

PLACING OUR GRADUATES With a marked decrease in the number of positions available to our alumni and graduates, it becomes necessary for our alumni family to lend every possible cooperation in our problem of placement. The Alumni office has been cooperating with the Recommendations committee in the placing of teachers. Many alumni have cooperated in informing us of vacancies and in aiding our graduates in securing positions. We need more cooperation. Do not confine your positions to the teaching positions, let us know of any vacancy in your community in business or professional fields. We have a large number of trained and experienced graduates out of employment at present.

When you hear of an opening or the possibility of one, let us know.

VISIT YOUR ALUMNI OFFICE

Whenever alumni or friends of the University are on the campus they are urged to call at the Alumni office, your office on the campus. If only for a greeting, don't forget to call. We would appreciate having a visit with you.

RETURN

June 11 and 13 are the dates set for Commencement. The Commencement speaker will be one of our most prominent alumni, John Francis Douglas, '96, famed Seattle builder, now Vice-president of the Carnation Milk company, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. Many alumni are looking forward to renewing their acquaintance. It is hoped that Mrs. Douglas, (Neva Bostevick, '96) will accompany her husband.

The Commencement will be the last major event in the fifteen year administration of President Kane. Plans are to make the Alumni banquet on the evening of June 11 a farewell to President Kane and a welcome to President-elect West.

fall to change present opinions about the comparative merits of the two teams. But we venture to say that the difference between the two teams will not be decided by a goal kick after a touchdown.

This new shift that West has developed for next fall received the applause of the fans in its first public demonstration. It's tricky, explosive, elastic and exciting. It was satisfying to see how effectively thrusts to the weak side of the line caught the defense by surprise and baffled them.

Anyone who might still question the effectiveness of the "sports for all" program at the University should take a stroll past the nine-hole golf course almost any hour of the day or evening. Hundreds of students and numerous faculty members find here their only attraction for getting out into the open. Despite financial curtailment, the athletic department is doing its utmost to give students and faculty inexpensive, pleasant and healthful sport.

Miss Alida Gunderson '31 of Grand Forks left February 1 for Washington, D. C. where she has accepted a position as laboratory technician.

Anderson Given Pulitzer Award

Maxwell Anderson, '11, noted American playwright, has been awarded the $1,000 Pulitzer prize for the best original American play to be shown in New York during 1932, according to press dispatches received here.

"Both Your Houses," the prize winning play, was judged to best represent "the educational value and power of the state." It is a satire based on the United States Congress.

Excerpts from a New York Times review of "Both Your Houses," by Brooks Atkinson, Broadway critic, were presented in the last issue of the Alumni Magazine.

Mr. Anderson was graduated in 1911 and was a member of Alpha Kappa Zeta fraternity, forerunner on the campus to Alpha Tau Omega. His wife, Margaret Haskett, also a graduate of the class of 1911, died three years ago. Both were former editors of The Dacotah, University yearbook.

S. banking moratoria and Chinese political troubles, although not long ago Ed O'Harrow (B. A. '24) did receive a couple of old Grand Forks Heralds."

"The warm cordiality of host and hostess soon put everyone at ease, and immediately reminiscences of student life transported us in memory to happy days on the banks of the English Coulee.

"The meeting was very informal. Mr. Bacon acquainted us with recent events at the University. Mr. John Selby, '00, regaled us with stories from '94 to '00. Tribute was paid to the high character and devoted work of our Pioneer Faculty.

"Drs. Ratner, Kneeshaw and Paxman; and Messrs. Bacon and Challoner, all of whom have traveled widely over the United States and have compared alumni from the best known institutions in this country, agreed that the character and high quality of educational attainments at our U. N. D. was something to give us the greatest pride.

"After this we broke into song and gave the Odz-Odz-Zi war whoop. The war was then carried into the dining room where delicious buffet refreshments were served.

"A motion was made for a permanent organization by John Selby and carried. William Bacon was named president, and Catherine M. Wright, '98, secretary.

"In the small hours of February 23, we reluctantly left for our homes after voting Mr. and Mrs. Bacon royal entertainers, and the meeting a great success.

Elizabeth Merrifield Writes From Pasadena

The following letter was received by Mr. Wilkerson, business manager, and will be of interest to many alumni:

My dear Mr. Wilkerson:

"I have failed to show my appreciation of the report you sent me on the 8th of September, 1932, in regard to the Webster Merrifield Student Loan Fund. I was in the East at the time it was received in Pasadena, and in the confusion of my absence, followed by the pressure of many interests both at home and abroad, it has been set aside. I feel that this is a very lame excuse, but I hope in the goodness of your heart you will accept it.

"I think it would be a great joy to Dr. Merrifield if he could know the many students this small fund has been able to assist, and that in the years it has existed it should be increased in value instead of diminished.

"It is with regret that after the many years spent at the dear old U—among the happiest of my life—I have never had the courage to return since the perfect visit of Dr. Merrifield and myself, in 1915. Neither time nor distance can ever lessen my interest in the dear students whom we both have known. The Alumni in Los Angeles gave a beautiful party on the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the U. It was a delightful gathering of fine young people, nearing middle life. I was greatly touched by the tribute payed their dear old "Prexy," after the many years which have passed since their college days. They were very kind to Mrs. Prexy, and the many sweet things they said would have ordinarily embarrassed me, if it had not been that I liked them.

"I was surprised to hear of the resignation of Dr. Kane, and regret so much that the University is passing through deep waters at this time. I hope there will be a happy and successful solution to the problems, and a worthy man found to succeed Dr. Kane.

"It is not an easy job for anyone under present conditions. I would love to see the campus which everyone tells me is so beautiful, and the fine new buildings which have been put up in recent years; and the few old friends who are still on the faculty.

"With most cordial greetings to all who still maintain an interest in me, and with best wishes for your success and happiness.

Sincerely yours,

Elizabeth Merrifield."

Rebuke at Manila Bay

Into torpedo-ridden Manila Bay at midnight May 1, 1898, steamed America's Asiatic Fleet under Commander George Dewey. Fifteen minutes later the flashing thunderclap of Dewey's first salvo opened the battle of Manila Bay. By noon that day Spain's inferior fleet was crushed, two vessels were sunk, eight were in flames. Still untaken was the fortress of Manila. Withdrawing to the outer harbor, Dewey waited ten weeks for ammunition and troops before storming the city.

As TIME, had it been published in July, 1898, might have reported subsequent events.

Louder than Concord musketry, the thunderous fanfare of Dewey's naval ordnance still re-echoed in Europe last week. Plowing foamy wakes, pouring black smoke, dreadnaughts from England, France, Germany, Japan full-spied to Manila Bay to guard Philippine investments, to observe the newest naval power in action. Last week with blockade law established, enforced, Dewey, recently promoted to Admiral, still awaited marine reinforcements, watched foreign men-of-war drop anchor around him, manoeuvre in the outer bay. Plainly friendly were English, Japanese vessels. Cold-neutral non-committal were the French. But all observed Dewey's blockade.

Last to arrive, German cruisers, ignoring customary blockade regulations, chose their own anchorage sites, flaunted open enmity towards Dewey's rulings. After refusing Dewey's traditional right to board them for inspection, they soon established communication with Spaniards in Blockaded Manila. To Dewey's polite protests, black-whiskered, stiff-backed,

Vice-Admiral Von Diederichs curtly replied, "I am here by order of the Kaiser, Sir!"

Inevitable final straw taxing Dewey's tolerance of misconduct came last week when the German Cruiser Cormorant calmly proceeded into the blockaded inner harbor. Ignored were Dewey's quickly hoisted flag signals requesting communication, but not ignored was an American shell that whined viciously, burst emphatically over the Cormorant's bow. Water foamed as the Cormorant reversed her propellers, backed water, left the inner harbor.

Next day to Dewey's vessel came a smartly clad German officer, requesting explanation for the shot. Thru his own Flag-Lieutenant Brumby, Dewey sent his compliments to Von Diederichs, called his attention to extraordinary discourtesies. He termed the harbor incident a gross breach of neutrality, closed saying "And Brumby—Tell him if he wants a fight he can have it right now!" Brumby saluted, cracked heels, delivered.

To Captain Sir Edward Chichester, English Squadron Commander, hurried the enraged, bristling, Von Diederichs, demanding "What would you do, Sir, in event of trouble between Dewey and myself?" Replied Chichester, "That, Sir, is a secret known only to Dewey and myself."

So, too, TIME would have reported how a month later, when Dewey stormed Manila, the English Squadron anchored squarely between the American and German vessels, let Chichester's secret out; as his musicians played Dewey's favorite march, how Dewey's conquests put America in Spain's place as a Pacific power.

SPICY leaves of
are strung to dry and cure in the sun.

Well, that's something about cigarettes I never knew before

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!
