Our Faithful Faculty

The steady march of the calendar brings us again to Homecoming time, those few days in the fall when the active student body tries to make us feel at home at the University, and the changing faces and surroundings make us feel very much like strangers. However, it is good to come back, if only to recall the experiences of college days and meet some of the friends of those days. Every year the student committee in charge has attempted to out-do the committees of former years. More stunts are planned. More floats and music in the parade. Gayer house decorations and greater hopes for victory in the football games. Reading the program for this year I think you will agree with me that Homecoming 1939 is going to be a banner one. We will be looking for you!

Speaking of changing faces, reminds me, that while there are many new members of the faculty, there are quite a large number who have served long years of usefulness at the U. Here are the figures of the length of service of some of our faculty friends. Of the 120 active teachers of the University, 64 have served over ten years; 33 between ten and fifteen years; 11 have given from fifteen to twenty years of service and 14 have watched from five to seven complete generations of college men and women pass through their classrooms, serving from twenty to thirty years. Six have spent over thirty years in teaching the young people of North Dakota. If Homecoming means nothing more than a friendly chat with some of these, who have given so much to the youth of the state, it will be well worth your time.

I do not have the figures before me of the percentage of students who are paying their way through the University, either wholly or part. Probably many of you who read this spent many hours in work so that you might receive an education. The number has always been large, and I have a feeling that it has contributed greatly to the fine democratic spirit of the University. The government NYA plan is helping over 200 students this year. Many of them work as janitors, help in construction or clerical work or as assistants in grading classroom work. For this they receive 30 cents an hour and work a maximum of 50 hours a month. There is also quite a group who are working from 100 to 120 hours a month for which they receive board, room, tuition, books and $8.00 a month. Naturally these students cannot take full college work and are restricted to an eight-hour course per semester. It will be interesting to watch the scholastic standing of these young people. I have an idea they will really appreciate a college education, and the average grade will be very satisfactory.

Another interesting development this year is the new department of civilian pilot training. The University, in co-operation with the government and the local airfield, will train 40 students for civilian fliers. These young people pay $30 for the training course, receiving their ground work in evening classes, taught by the University professors. The actual flying instruction will be given by special instructors at the airport.

Yes, the University is growing. In spite of difficulties which our state has had in the past few years in the way of short crops, more and more young people have come to the University for college work. The figures as of October 10 for this year and last year are as follows: 1939, 1,736; and 1938, 1,709 students. These figures do not include the large enrollment in the extension department where nearly 10,000 are enrolled. This extension work extends to every state in the Union, coming largely from CCC camps scattered throughout the country.

Once again, let me say "Greetings Alumni." We are planning a big time on October 27 and 28. Take a couple of days off and look over your University.

We Want News

WELCOME Homecomers! We extend a most hearty and cordial welcome and hope that you will thoroughly enjoy every moment of your visit.

THIS SUMMER the editor talked with alumni in several North Dakota cities. He asked for criticism and suggestions for improvements. The sum of these talks seems to be the old adage: "Names Make News." The average opinion was this:

1. Use more news about the alumni, what they are doing, where they are located, etc.
2. Use less campus news, fewer campus features and articles about prominent alumni.
3. Have more class letters, we read every bit of them.

WE WERE able, of course, to interview only a limited number in comparison with the hundreds that read the REVIEW. We want to know, from your experience, just what you want. Criticize. Suggest. Every bit of it will be fully appreciated. This is your magazine—tell us what you want—and we'll try our best to give it to you.

FEW SEEM to realize the difficulty that the alumni office has in gathering news, in keeping mailing lists and records correct and up to date. Most of the alumni news in the magazine has been clipped out of the dailies of the state which we must religiously glean to get our news.

HOWEVER, if each alumnus would bother to take five minutes every two months to write us about what he's doing, where he's located, UND grads he's run across and grads whose addresses and occupations are known to him—the situation would be greatly relieved. Send us a list of names of old classmates and acquaintances whose whereabouts or occupations you would like to know, and we'll do our best to track them down. If you hear of a marriage, a birth, a change in position, or any trivial or important thing about an alumnus—tell us—and we'll tell the world.

SOMETHING else that came to my attention while I was on my way up to school was the fact that many of the University graduates do not have either a membership in the Alumni Association or a subscription to the Review. Like every other organization, the association will give you just as much as you are willing to put into it. The mere possession of a membership card will give you little pleasure or satisfaction, but taking an active part in the association will.

AS FOR subscriptions to the Review, the average alumni takes the attitude, "What will I find there to interest me?" Certainly this attitude is justifiable. Right now we are making a definite effort to make the Review a real "alumni" magazine. Every one of us knows the warm feeling we have when reading about an old acquaintance or good friend who we've lost track of. It's the purpose of the Review to re-establish those broken contacts. But—unfortunately we are unable to do much from this office to strengthen our subscription lists. Appeals are weak, letters almost worthless. Any increase in our subscription lists will be due entirely to you—to your efforts. Won't you help us?

IN LINE with our policy of constantly improving our magazine, we are going to try three new features—a president's page; the editor's page and news of the fraternity and sorority chapters on the campus. The president's page will carry news of the Association, announcements of policy, and whatever comment the president of the association, Paul Griffith, may wish to make. The editor's page—well, here it is. Through the Greek columns, we hope to re-establish contact between the chapters on the campus and those who have left our Alma Mater. Through these groups, too, we will be able to obtain news of alumni especially interesting to members of the various organizations that we would be unable to obtain otherwise.

PATRONIZE our advertisers. It is through their staunch support of this magazine that we are able to publish it. They've done their part—now you do yours.

Who will she be? UND's most beautiful mystery, to be known only to Kay Kyser before Homecoming, will be chosen from these five girls.

The usual practice of having class officers eliminate candidates and the queen selected by a general school election has been abandoned. This year a committee of five Grand Forks business representatives, selected by Frank Webb, secretary of the Alumni association, chose these five outstanding beauties from the thirteen candidates.

Pictures, both portrait and full length, of the lucky five have been sent to Kay Kyser, nationally known dance band leader, who will pick one as queen and two as attendants.

As usual the queen will take part in the Homecoming parade, accompanied by her two attendants and an ROTC guard of honor, and will be presented to the Homecoming crowd between halves of the game.

It'll Be the Biggest and Best—This

TWENTY-FOURTH HOMECOMING

By Leslie Gruber, '41

For the twenty-fourth time, UND alumni will return to the scenes of their youthful escapades and studies as the hectic Homecoming days come rolling 'round the calander again.

Dorthea Stinson, chairman of the Homecoming committee, with her assistants, Don Hiestand, J. Allen and Elizabeth Taylor, has been working since school started with the elaborate plans for the "biggest and best yet."

Glamour and mystery will surround the Homecoming Queen this year, for she will be picked by Kay Kyser. Pretenders to the crown are Adelaide Hanson, Beverly Heen, Esther Gislason, Alice McFadden, and Alice Tribur.

The program for Homecoming opens with the pep rally at 8 p. m. in the armory at which the Dr. M. B. Rudd athletic trophy will be presented by its donor, M. B. Rudd to the best all-around athlete-scholar of last year's sophomore class. Prominent alumni, including Paul Griffith, alumni president, will speak to the crowd, and the UND band, directed as usual by John E. Howard will present a concert. The program will be broadcast over KFJM.

FRANK J. WEBB

... Alumni Secretary ...

Another feature of the pep-rally Thursday night will be an exhibition of "jitterbug dancing" to be given by a masked couple.

Friday's festivities begin with the annual alumni banquet at the Dacotah hotel at 6 p. m. Griffith will be master of ceremonies and Governor John Moses will deliver the main address.

House decorations will be judged beginning at 7 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m., an outdoor program and pep-fest will be held on the banks of English Coulee. This will include a tug-o-war, snake dance, and canoe tilt. The bonfire will be lit at 8 p. m. in front of the stadium. The second game of the Papoose-Baby Bison series will begin at 8:30 p. m. The Papoose won the first game at the NDAC Homecoming by a 18-6 score.

The committee has planned what will be the longest parade in history. Over 30 floats have been entered by Grand Forks business firms. The parade begins at 10:30 a. m., Saturday. At noon the law alumni luncheon will be held at the Dacotah hotel.

Visiting musical organizations will present a concert at the stadium at 1 p. m., and the biggest event of Homecoming—the football game—will get unday way at 2 p. m.

Escorted by an ROTC guard of honor and her two attendants, the Homecoming Queen will be crowned by Governor Moses between halves of the games. At this time Captain Evan Lips will be presented with a recognition award given by the officials of the Bismarck Junior Chamber of Commerce.

All fraternities and sororities will hold reunions and receptions from 5 until 6:30 p. m., with banquets following these get togethers.

The closing event of Homecoming, the annual ball, will begin at 9 p. m., with Allan Castle and his orchestra playing. The queen of the day will rule the ball which will be enlivened with several entertaining features.

All returning alumni and University friends are invited to visit the alumni office, Room 109, Old Main. A special housing committee will have rooms listed in case hotels are filled up.

With Father Time Through

HOMECOMING HISTORY

Homecoming is here again! "The Home of the Civilized Sioux" will open its gates to the hundreds of alums returning to help this University celebrate its twenty-fourth Homecoming as the Nodaks clash with their traditional foes, the NDAC Bison.

Carrying on the tradition that backed the first Homecoming in 1916 "whose purpose is to foster closer relations with the alumni," the 1939 Homecoming promises to be bigger and better than ever. Compared to our whirl of parades, banquets, floats, house decorations, Homecoming queens, bonfires, pep rallies, balls, tug-of-wars, and snake dances, the first Homecoming was a comparatively simple affair, but it carried all of the spirit that has characterized Homecoming ever since. In '16 the students united in supporting the idea, and as the Flickertails won a 20 to 0 triumph over the University of South Dakota, Homecoming was established as an annual event.

BEGIN ALUM DRIVE

The fall of 1917 saw the first serious effort being made to bring back the alums to their old tramping grounds. A huge mass meeting was held, with Governor Lynn Frazier, Judge R. A. Nestos and Mrs. E. C. Haagenson as principal speakers. The Flickertails went down to defeat before a strong South Dakota State in a whirling snowstorm.

The influenza epidemic which swept the country in 1918 keeping the University closed until January, 1919 prevented the Homecoming activities that year, but in 1919, the year that the 1,000 mark was passed in enrollment, Homecoming was resumed with a bang.

An R.O.T.C. review and a 28 to 6 victory over Hamline made the 1920 Homecoming a real triumph, and in 1921 South Dakota University fell before the Flickertails, 21 to 0. The first Homecoming parade was held that year, with over 700 alums returning to their Alma Mater.

SPIRIT ESTABLISHED

In '22 and '23, the University went down to defeat, but the spirit of Homecoming had been established, and more and more alumni were returning to the annual event.

Memorial services for Old Main

PRESIDENT WEST
... Welcomes ...

Homecoming is the time when "old grads" greet each other and regale each other with tales of the past, some of them grown mellow with age. Old games are re-played and old pranks are re-lived.

I am most happy to represent the University in extending you a most joyous reunion. Homecoming is also an occasion on which the President of the University may engage the attention of the thousands of graduates in presenting not only the honors that have come to the University, but also the needs of the institution.

The first problem affecting the University lies in the fact that the enrollment has increased more rapidly than financial support. All other problems grow out of this one fundamental situation.

If the young people of North Dakota are to have the same high-grade education that you enjoyed, the faculty must be composed of outstanding men drawn from all parts of the country to bring cosmopolitan culture into the campus.

Perhaps we may pause in the midst of our joyous reunion to recall our faith in our University. As we recite the glories of the past, let not the glories of the future be forgotten.

JOHN C. WEST,
President.

marked the 1925 Homecoming with Mrs. John M. Carrol, who taught in the old building in 1883, as the principal speaker. The next day on a mud soaked field and in a drizzle of rain, the Sioux edged out SDU, 3 to 0, giving 5,000 fans a real thrill.

In 1926, snow and sleet combined with a strong aggregation from SDS came to dampen the ardor of the Nodak's Homecoming celebration. Memorial stadium, commemorating the University's World war dead, was dedicated in 1927.

Three thousand alumni returned for the 1928 event, making up a large crowd of 8,500 that witnessed the Sioux defeating SDS, 6 to 0. In 1929, the Sioux defeated their ancient rivals, the Bison, 14 to 0, while in the following year, William Lemke presided over the alumni banquet.

Election of a Homecoming queen, Edith Countryman, was the big feature of the 1932 Homecoming festivities when North Dakota defeated Howard University. Helen Fodness, Charlotte Reite, Justine Rand, Margaret Foss, Edith Asheim and Lenore Ulvedahl have been queens in years following 1932. In 1933 the Sioux played the Bison to a 7 to 7 tie, and in 1934, the South Dakota State team finished on the short end of a 7 to 0 score. John Hancock, prominent financier, and a University alum, returned to preside over the banquet and pep rallies. The Bison played the Sioux to a 20 to 20 tie in 1935, and in 1936, St. Louis was defeated by a 13 to 6 score.

NICKEL TROPHY

Minnesota and Michigan have their little Brown Jug, St. Olaf and Carleton have their rag goat, but the Sioux and Bison now have their Nickel Trophy to battle over. The trophy offered by the Blue Key service fraternity in 1937, goes to the winner of the annual Bison Sioux clash. In 1937 the Sioux ran away with the game, scoring a 28 to 0 stampede over the fighting Bison. Meeting the highly-touted Montana Grizzlies in 1938, the Sioux pounded out a 7 to 0 victory, the climax of the extensive Homecoming celebrations.

How Things Stack Up in Our

SIoux SPORT SUMMARY

By Guy Campbell, '41

COACH WEST
... Sioux Strategist ...

With a fighting Sioux eleven again on the rampage, athletics are once more on the up-swing at the University of North Dakota. The Nodaks, with three games already under their belts, have shown far greater promise of becoming conference champions than did last year's team at this time of the season.

Head Coach C. A. West, with the able assistance of Glenn Jarrett and Jack Macinroth, has done almost the impossible in putting a team on the field which shows as much polish and poise as the 1939 Sioux. With the loss of seven regulars from last season's eleven, Coach West has had to mold a team out of unexperienced sophomores and a few reserves. The material on hand was below par and the majority of the sophomores were a disappointment in the spring drills.

LIGHT AND FAST

The team averages 165 pounds to the man in the backfield and 175 pounds from end to end in the line. It is an unusual team in that it is not only one of the lightest teams in the last ten years but it is also one of the fastest. With Mike Brenkus and Walter Dobler at the half-back posts the Sioux have speed to burn.

Only two seniors are holding down starting positions on the team. Captain Evan Lips is playing his last year for North Dakota at quarterback and Bill Richards, largest man on the squad with his 220 pounds, has been playing a very nice brand of ball for the Sioux at left tackle. Lips, who under the Notre Dame system is the blocking back, the lad who opens the holes in the line and leads the interference on end runs, is largely responsible for the success of the Sioux running attack.

Big Bill Richards, who only saw service as a reserve last year after playing as a regular when a sophomore, has really come into his own this fall. His play on defense has been outstanding and he has helped to bolster the light Nodak line. He also is adept at opening holes through which Dobler and Brenkus break away for very nice gains.

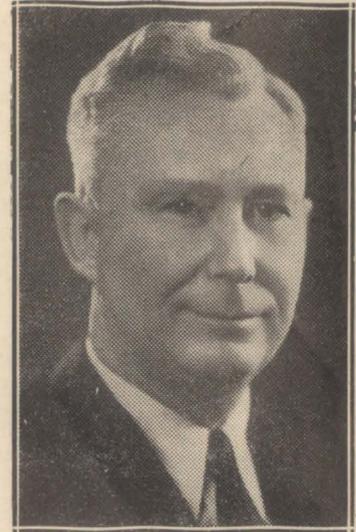

PASSING ATTACK

has proven himself to be one of the truly great Sioux ends of recent years. His pass receiving is little short of phenomenal. With Dobler throwing strikes, Leafe has been a constant threat to North Dakota opponents. He is also a very capable man on defense, frequently smearing plays behind the line for big losses. At the other end position we find Mike Doyle and Allan Dragge sharing the honors. Doyle, a sophomore, has performed surprisingly well and is also a very fine pass receiver.

COACH FINNIGAN
... Bison Braintruster ...

Dragge, a junior, plays a smashing and consistently good game both on offense and defense.

Another sophomore, Ed Rossmiller, holds down the right tackle position. Pushing him hard for starting honors we find LaVerne Paul, also a sophomore, who was switched from end to help strengthen this position. Both boys, although only sophomores, have shown plenty of promise and have relieved Coach West of a lot of worry about finding some one to fill the vacancy left by Wilbur Gerke who graduated last year.

GUARDS STRONG

The guard positions are very well taken care of by Senechal, Setterland and Rashick. Senechal, who is playing his last year for the Nodaks, is the lightest man on the team. He tips the scales at 155 pounds dripping wet and for the past three years has been one of the outstanding guards in the conference. Setterland and Rashick, lettermen from last season, have seen a lot of action so far this season and have done a nice job. They have performed well on defense and have opened holes in lines that have had a very decided weight advantage over them.

One of the outstanding sophomores on the squad this year is Bud Monnes who has come through in grand style to fill the shoes of Jack West, co-captain and center of last year's eleven. His play on both offense and defense has been one of the deciding factors in the success of this season's team. The remaining position in the backfield has been very capably filled by Bernie White, who was one of the sophomore sensations of last year's eleven. Bernie has done very well in the ground gaining department, showing lots of drive and power in hitting the line, and he has done just as nice a job in aiding the Sioux secondary with his defensive play.

Of the reserve material on hand, we can only say that it has shown a lot of improvement since the spring workouts and that there are very capable replacements for every position on the team. With the addition of two new transfer students, Montgomery and Newton, who are two promising backs and also with such players as Don and Guy Campbell in the backfield, Simpson at end, Emanuel, guard, Dick Johnson, center and others, replacements have ceased to be a worry to Coach West.

DEFEAT OMAHA

The Sioux started their season as the under dog against a favored Omaha eleven who not only outweighed them in every department but also boasted a more experienced aggregation. The Sioux ground out a 13-0 victory which convinced the pessimists that this team had many possibilities. Richards and Monnes played outstanding ball for the Sioux.

The following week-end North Dakota faced another more experienced and heavier Luther team from Decorah, Iowa, and unleashed a surprising running and passing attack to win 19-0. Dobler provided most of the inspiration for the victory with his running and passing. Mike Brenkus, diminutive right halfback, scored two touchdowns on passes from Dobler.

Facing a team which was coached by a former Sioux mentor, "Buck" Starbeck, in their third game of the season, the Nodaks had little difficulty in winning 19-6. North Dakota was forced to play without the services of Bud Monnes, sophomore center who was injured in the game against Luther, but captain Lips was switched from his blocking back position to fill the gap. Don Campbell was moved into the starting line-up at quarter back. Leafe, at end, led the attack with his pass receiving, scoring two of the three touchdowns.

Freshman prospects for this season are brighter than they have been for the last three years at North Dakota. Head freshman coach, Clem Letich, is getting fine support from Jack West, last season's co-captain, and James Hallen, who played guard for the Nodaks last year. Between fifty and sixty candidates reported for freshman football this fall and competition for positions has been very keen.

YEARLINGS WIN

The Sioux yearlings defeated a Wahpeton Science eleven in their opening game by a score of 13-6. This is the first time any team has beaten the Wildcats in three years and it gives a good indication of the calibre of the freshman team. Followers of Sioux football teams in the next few years are going to hear a lot about such linemen as Feh, Moon and Whellans, tackles; Howe and Danner, ends; Astrup, Moore and Michaelson at guards will also be right in there. In the backfield, Haymaker, Huntley and McAdams perform very nicely at the halfback positions while Lynn has shown lots of drive at fullback.

The fall intramural program is well under way with touchball and volleyball teams fighting it out for the coveted positions in the play-offs. The Phi Delta Theta team is a favorite to repeat for the touchball trophy and Tau Kappa Epsilon looks like they have another championship team in volleyball. "

MIN HIN LI

The following editorial is clipped from the Maui News of Wailuku, Territory of Hawaii:

"Election of Dr. Min Hin Li as department commander of the American Legion is a signal honor to an Island born youth who has made a high niche for himself in the Territory over the past two decades.

"While he may not be so well known outside Legion circles on Maui, Dr. Li's personal popularity is widespread in his own Honolulu and his legion of friends outside the organization which honored him yesterday will rejoice with him in his election.

"As one of the outstanding members of Kau-Tom post, Dr. Li has been extremely active in Legion affairs and has played an important part in the development of Kau-Tom post into one of the strongest units in the department of Hawaii. There is every promise that, with his energies and interest extended to the broader field of the department, a like accomplishment will be realized a year hence when he relinquishes his command to another.

"Leadership in the American Legion, such as that bestowed on Dr. Li places a burden and responsibility upon the man which cannot be taken lightly. While there is time for play in the Legion program, the requirements for work and serious thought and application are great and unlimited and the commander of a department as active as Hawaii's quickly discovers that his is a huge and important task requiring many personal sacrifices. His comrades who elected him are confident that their new commander will be equal to the task and his public and private record bear out this confidence in the highest manner."

Dr. Min Hin Li received his bachelor's degree from the University in 1920. He offers twenty-five dollars each year in prizes for the Min Hin Li extemporaneous speaking contest on the general subject of "China."
