Flickertail Follies

25th Anniversary

1925 1950
All fraternities, sororities, residence halls and other campus organizations are urged to prepare a vaudeville act capable of taking part in an all University presentation, 'Flickertail Follies' . . ."—Dakota Student, Feb. 25, 1925.

From this journalistic acorn of 25 years ago grew the theatrical oak you're watching tonight—an extravaganza with a story which can only be sketched here.

Like many inspirations, Follies was born with a familiar "Why can't we do that?" Roy French, then head of UND's journalism department, and Undergraduates Armin F. Rohde and Charles Evans saw a show at the University of Indiana while they were attending the 1925 national Sigma Delta Chi convention in Indianapolis. They liked what they saw, brought the idea back, secured necessary approval, produced the show and it clicked. Follies number one in the old Orpheum theater was the birth of a tradition.

That tradition grew quickly. The following year Rohde's job as student manager went to Ralph Curry and the list of Follies' managers began. Curry retired in favor of Edward J. Pranta in 1927. From there, the show was managed by Roy Saliberg, 1928; Victor Rose, 1929; Donald Reinoehl, 1930; Joseph Carlin, 1931; John Fields, 1935; Robert Kunkel, 1936-37-38; Russell T. Addison, 1939; John McNamara, 1940; Donald E. Dahl, 1941; Kenneth Carey, 1946-47; Thomas Smith, 1948; and Malcolm Goddard, 1949-50.

Anno Domini 1928 saw the start of a tradition within a tradition. That was the year Professor John E. Howard stepped into Follies' directorship. Since then, the University bandmaster's 22 years of service and experience have come to be counted on as a vital factor in making the show a success.

During one time or another Director Howard and the various student managers have staged the Follies on every adequate stage in Grand Forks. Besides the old Orpheum theater, which is now the Dakota theater, performances have been given in the Metropolitan Opera House (now a recreation center) and the City auditorium. In 1937, the show moved into the Central high school auditorium where it has been staged ever since.

But all wasn't just a matter of booming into a bigger and better show each year. Follies has had its share of hard luck. The great depression of 1932 caused the event's cancellation and attempts to revive it in 1933 and 1934 failed. World War II forced it out again from 1942 to 1945. A scarlet fever epidemic in 1929 almost wrecked rehearsal schedules and it was feared the show would fold. That didn't happen, but illness and uncertain North Dakota weather are still the sponsor's biggest worries in producing the event.

As to proceeds, the type used in printing this program may well have been purchased with Follies profits, for, at its inception, surplus Follies profits went to equip a campus printing shop and to the Memorial Stadium drive. Net proceeds from the show have always gone to aid an ever expanding University. Recently, the bulk of net proceeds has gone to the Memorial Student Union now under construction at the University.

This briefly is the Follies' first 25 years. It's been called a tradition and an all-campus variety show. Yet, whatever its title or history, Follies is an example of co-operation at the University of North Dakota that presents the school in its magnitude and quality.
