Approve Building Goal

When the 1947 state legislature convenes in Bismarck, the University will request funds for a $1,386,000 special projects building program, most of which will go for long-needed and now desperately essential improvements.

The state board of higher education approved the fund in November. Carrying that approval, it will next be considered by the state budget board and then will be dealt with by the legislature for final D.K.

This fund does not include a $250,000 allotment for a new science building now being constructed. The last state legislature approved that fund and allotted the money. Construction was started a few weeks ago.

TWO TOP LIST

A portion of the new fund being asked for, however, does concern the new science building; $150,000 is being requested for an addition to the building and $20,000 is sought for equipment for the building.

Major portions of the requested fund is covered in two projected construction plans: a new administration building and a new men's gymnasium.

For the former, the figure is set at $365,000, which includes $15,000 for equipment. For the new gymnasium, $750,000 has been set as the total cost, of which $20,000 will go for equipment.

PAVING NEEDED

The total $1,386,200 request is completed with a $40,000 figure for campus paving and $61,200 for reimbursement for veterans housing projects.

The present administrative offices are located in the oldest building on the campus, erected in 1883. The upper stories have been removed from this building and only the first floor, basement and part of the second floor are now in use. This building has cracked up very badly, has had to be tied together with tierods and was condemned two years ago by the state fire marshal.

The present administration building houses the president's office, business office, registrar's office, administrative committee room, alumni offices, buildings and grounds office and telephone exchange, stenographic bureau, correspondence study department, state rehabilitation offices, bookstore and postoffice.

PLANS EXPLAINED

All these departments will be housed in the new building, with the addition of the University printing department, the Dakota Student, the Dacotah Annual and other offices for student organizations, the dean of women and dean of men.

All the offices in the present administration building are overcrowded as well as offices in other buildings to be moved to the new building. The proposed building is 182 ft. x 60 ft., with a total of approximately 450,000 cubic feet and the cost is estimated at 77 cents per cubic foot.

Since the end of World War II the nation has become more conscious of the need for health and physical fitness than ever before. The University of North Dakota has accepted this challenge and has employed trained personnel to organize, administer, and provide instruction in the field of health and physical education. A considerable amount of equipment has also been provided.

SPACE ESSENTIAL

However, it is impossible to conduct a satisfactory program unless a building with adequate space and facilities is made available. Such a building should be planned so it will meet the needs for the next 50 years and should not be built for the present, which will make it inadequate within the next 10 years.

North Dakota is the only state university without a gymnasium specifically for athletics and physical education.

All Class A high schools and many Class B schools in the state have better indoor facilities for physical education and athletics than has the University.

FLOOR INADEQUATE

The present floor used for men's physical education was built for military training, is not suitable for physical education, and will be largely unavailable for physical education due to the expanded R.O.T.C. program.

The present floor, if used for physical education alone, is inadequate to handle the present classes, at a time when veterans are excused from physical education. When all persons are required to participate this inadequacy will be even more pronounced.

Since this floor is the only indoor place on the campus suitable for large student gatherings, a large number and variety of meetings are held here. Because of the time required in preparing the floor for such meetings and clearing and cleaning it after the meetings, a one-hour meeting cancels the entire physical program for half a day. Semester examinations make necessary the cancellation of physical education classes for the last week of each semester when practical examinations in physical activities should be given on the floor.

Wesley College 40-Year Associate of University

For more than 40 years, Wesley college has been associated with the University of North Dakota and its four halls are located on the college campus directly across University avenue from the main entrance to the University campus.

Its departments are a school of religion, a conservatory of music and a studio of expression. In addition to these three departments, offering courses of college rank accepted by the University, the college has two resident halls: Sayre hall for men and Larimore hall for women. These halls are four-story fireproof buildings of a colonial style of architecture. The residence halls are arranged in suites of two rooms with running hot and cold water in each suite.

Courses of study are so outlined that students may receive both bachelor's and master's degrees. All instruction in music and expression is private while in the school of religion, both classes and seminars are provided for.

All classes in the school of religion are held in Robertson hall, which is adequately fitted and furnished for classes, seminars and executive work. The school of music is located in Corwin hall and provided with adequate studios and instruments for practice, including a small auditorium seating about 150 and provided with a beautiful pipe organ.

Correspondence concerning registration in Wesley college or residence in its halls should be addressed to Wesley college, University Station, Grand Forks, N. D.

Director of Correspondence Study Division is 'U' Veteran

As keenly interested in the welfare and progress of her beloved University of North Dakota as when she was an undergraduate here in the 1880's, Miss M. Beatrice Johnstone, director and associate professor of correspondence study, is one of UND's outstanding examples of an unselfish, tireless worker.

Miss Johnstone numbers her friends by the thousands and most of these friendships have been built during and as a result of her many years of service to the University.

DIVISION GROWS

She has seen the correspondence division grow from a humble beginning; from an enrollment of 370 in 1925 to 990 in 1946 . . . 990 individual students enrolled in correspondence study and extension classes. This year, the number of courses taken by students was 1,348.

Her division sends out speakers, judges, musical talent, etc., to schools and individuals requesting such assistance. Courses for the North Dakota Federation of Women's clubs and a course in citizenship for those in the state desiring to become naturalized also fall into her varied number of assignments.

GRADUATED IN 1891

Miss Johnstone was graduated from the University in 1891 with a B.A. degree and ranks as one of the oldest living alumni. For a number of years, she was president of the alumni group. She is a member of Adelphi Literary society; Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic group, and Mortar Board, University women's service organization.

MISS JOHNSTONE
Tireless worker.

From 1925 to 1933 she was secretary of the department of instruction of the extension division. Starting in 1933 and continuing to the present time, Miss Johnstone has been director and associate professor of correspondence study, the correspondence study division having replaced the extension division some years ago.

LIFE MEMBER OF P.T.A.

In May, 1945, Miss Johnstone was made a life member of the P.T.A. by the state board. In 1939, she was honored at the 25th annual Grand Forks county Play Day, with a pageant depicting her years of service as county superintendent of schools, from 1913 to 1925.

Her highest honor, she admits, came in 1915, when she was elected president of the North Dakota Education association.

Starting in 1938, Miss Johnstone has been chairman of the Honors Day committee at the University and among other honors conferred on her during her years of service to the school was the commission of honorary colonel of the R.O.T.C. unit in 1938. In 1889, she recalled, she was captain of a girls' military unit.

HEADED TEACHER BOARD

In 1937, Miss Johnstone was named the leading woman educational administrator in North Dakota and in 1940 her picture was presented to the University by the Women's league.

Miss Johnstone was president of the state teachers' retirement board from 1915 to 1940. Recognized widely as a speaker and writer, she lectured in South Dakota from 1927 to 1929 at the County Teachers institute.

Many have enrolled at the University because of her speaking in all parts of the state and in nearby Minnesota centers.

Resumes Work As Rhodes Scholar

Leigh Gerdin of Sheyenne, N. D., a 1938 University of North Dakota graduate, has resumed work under his Rhodes scholarship at Oxford university, England, according to word received from him by Dean W. G. Bek of the UND college of science, literature and arts.

Selected a Rhodes scholar before the war, Gerdin stayed at Oxford as long as he could after hostilities broke out in Europe and was one of the last American scholars to leave England. He served in the U. S. army during the war.

Now back at Oxford's Lincoln college, Gerdin will receive the degree of doctor of music next June.

Social Fraternity Honors Two Alumni

Two University alumni, John Hancock (1904) and Lynn U. Stambaugh (1913) received plaques from Sigma Chi fraternity at its national convention, honoring them for meritorious achievement. Hancock was honored for his work on the atomic bomb problem and for advisory work for the United States government during the war years. Stambaugh was cited for his work as director of the international Export-Import bank and as a past national commander of the American Legion.

Joyce Roberts, '31, Moves to Hawaii

Joyce O. Roberts, 1931, Beta Theta Phi, is moving to Honolulu, Hawaii, in December, where he will handle agricultural information and editing for the Pineapple Research Institute. Since graduation he traveled several years in western United States for the department of agriculture and was three years in Washington. He was with the Ford-Ferguson tractor company in Detroit from 1943 to 1945 and since that time has been with an advertising firm in New York City.

A son, Joseph Frederick, was born July 20, 1946, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Foster Jonas of Sacramento, Calif. Mrs. Jonas (Dorothea Ann DuBois) was graduated from the University with an A.B. degree in February, 1943.

Rev. I. S. Corn, professor at Wesley college from 1924 to 1934 is pastor of the college church in Normal, Ill., Wesley Foundation director at Illinois State Normal university and teaches part time at the university.

Ernest V. Estensen, '43 is a member of the NDAC faculty, being associate professor of psychology and education.

Muriel Fursteneau '45, is concocting recipes for General Foods in New York.

Eugene L. Hough (electrical engineer, 1922) is still at St. Louis, where he has been for about 20 years, most of the time with the Union Electric Light Co. of Missouri, of which he has become the chief design engineer. 1442 Hawthorne Place, St. Louis 17, Mo., is his residence, with Mrs. Hough and their two daughters.

William S. Soule (civil engineering, 1918) has been at San Mateo, Calif., since 1923. He has usually been the city engineer, and since 1939 also city manager, until January, 1946. At that time he refused further official position because he was continuously busy as the head of an engineering firm of half-dozen men that he had formed to carry on private practice.

Martin E. Scheece (civil engineer, 1918) who in his student days used for his name the spelling Schiess, has been since graduation located in the state of Washington. After a few years as instructor in high schools, about 20 years ago he made Walla Walla his permanent residence. Except for three years during the war when on war projects or in shipyard work, he has through the whole time been in charge of parts of or the whole work of the county engineer at Walla Walla, which is especially important with the present rush of post-war construction. His daughter graduated from the University of Washington in 1945 and is now on the editorial force of the Seattle Star.

Enrollment Hits Peak Of 2,683

Nearing the end of the first semester of the 1946-47 school year, the University has an all-time record enrollment of 2,683 students squeezed into over-laden classroom and housing facilities.

Reversing the recent wartime trend, men have "usurped" their former role as percentage leaders, showing a 1,941 to 742 edge over the frail sex.

By classes, freshmen are far in the lead. The first-year group shows 1,217 students, divided, men to women, thus: 1,014 to 203. Sophomores total 554, of which 376 are men and 178 are women.

Junior students account for 401 of the grand total, 280 being men and 121 women. In the senior class are 284, of which 193 are men, 91 women. There are 78 graduates enrolled, 30 nurses and 119 special students.

In line with the huge freshman total, the over-all figure for schools shows arts, literature and science far ahead with 1,481 enrollees. Four hundred ninety-one are in the college of engineering and 218 in education. Next comes the school of law with 118 students, then commerce with 99 and medicine with 49.

Registrar Ruby McKenzie, one of the busiest school officials since the present term started, is turning down applications for second-semester enrollment steadily, but she anticipates an increase of some 300 when the 1947 second semester rolls around. This, too, is figuring in the normal "mortality" among less eager students and those who will graduate. She points out, however, that no North Dakota residents are being refused.

Laureas J. Wehe, B.A. 1899 and president of the law class of 1902, has been practicing law in Bismarck, N. D., since 1919. Appointed commissioner of the workmen's compensation bureau by Governor L. J. Frazier in 1919, he established the first standard of wages and working conditions for women and minors in North Dakota. He secured passage for the Wehe "Uniform Act for Administration of Trusts" and the "Act for Prevention of Nepotism."
