Throngs Attend Reunion

Despite the fact that the big attraction wound up with a University setback, the throngs which returned to the campus for the 1947 Homecoming celebration enjoyed their visit, highlighted by reunions, parties and all the traditional trappings of the colorful fall spectacle.

That the Bradley university Braves subdued the Sioux, 39-15, in the football feature was a sad climax but some 6,000 fans at least saw their home favorites revive after a horrible first half to give the invaders a battle in the final two periods.

Among the visitors was a group of some 40 North Dakota state legislators and they were entertained at luncheons and dinners and were guests of honor at the big functions.

Homecoming queen was fittingly the daughter of a University graduate, Henry C. Knudson of the class of 1921. His daughter, Betty Ann, now of Washington, D. C., was crowned queen of the 1947 celebration.

Among out-of-town alumni who visited at the office of Alumni Director Lloyd Stone were the following:

Mrs. Kenneth Brown (Pat Ebert, 1933), Bemidji, Minn.; Harvey B. Saldin, 1939, and wife (Lois Van Camp, 1938), Springfield, Pa.; Arley Bjella, 1941, Williston, N. D.; J. Paul Herzig, 1940, Janesville, Wis.; Paul D. Smeby, 1940, Minneapolis, Minn.; Ralph Stewart, 1920, New Ulm, Minn.; Wm. A. Tompkins, 1944, Grafton, N. D.; W. E. Braxmeyer, 1938, Solen, N. D.; Dr. E. J. Beithon, 1921, Wahpeton, N. D.; Palmer Thielges, 1940, Jamestown, N. D.; William S. Murray, 1939, Bismarck, N. D.; Howard A. Moun, 1945, Beach, N. D.; Scott T. Rex, 1926, and wife (Cora Wiseth, 1932), Fargo, N. D.; A. D. Mac Master, 1930, and wife (Neva Hyde, 1929), Williston, N. D.; Vernon F. Malley, 1942, Devils Lake, N. D.; Mrs. Dean Piper (Dell Scott, 1933), Minot, N. D.; James F. Spilman, 1947, Devils Lake, N. D.; Wm. McEnroe, 1943, and wife (Eunice Curry, 1930), Fargo, N. D.; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. $10,000 Contributed As Union Drive Is Launched

Almost $10,000 was contributed in the first three weeks of the newly-launched drive for funds for the University's Memorial Student Union project, according to Alumni Secretary J. Lloyd Stone.

And to consolidate the "at home" work, a group of Grand Forks alumni met November 3 and voted to launch a local drive to boost the Development Fund drive for the Student Union.

Elmer Hanson, Radio Station KILO executive, was elected chairman of this group and has appointed four lieutenants to assist in the drive.

Aides appointed were John Hesketh, 1917; Carroll Day, 1932; J. B. Bridston, 1920; and Ernest Simmons, 1938. Mrs. Helen O. McClure, 1940, was appointed publicity chairman for the Grand Forks drive.

Attending the meeting were Dr. R. E. Leigh, 1922, president of the Alumni association; J. B. Bridston, 1920; Mrs. Reinhold

Jacobi, 1920; Mrs. Helen O. McClure, 1940; Mrs. Eleanor Healy Booth, 1919; Dr. L. J. Alger, 1921; Wallace Butler, 1927; President John C. West; Dr. R. Goehl, 1927; D. J. Robertson, 1933; Carlton Nelson, 1939; John Falkanger, 1924; and Stone.

The largest contribution to date in the general drive, Stone said, was from a member of the class of 1896. He gave 100 shares of Paramount Pictures stock, currently valued at $23 per share. A Fargo attorney sent a check for $1,000, the secretary added.

"We have received many $100 donations," Stone pointed out, "and we appreciate them. At the same time, those who are in position to give only smaller amounts have been responding splendidly. Every single contribution, regardless of size, helps build toward our goal. I want to thank each contributor for the fine early response."

Many University Alumni Hold High N. D. Positions

By Carlyle D. Onsrud

This is a piece about what U.N.D. alumni are doing in the city of Bismarck.

Do all the fighting Sioux turn statesmen when they graduate?

CARLYLE D. ONSRUD

Not quite. But enough do to make it at least half-ways prima facie.

Let's start at the top of North Dakota officialdom, with North Dakota Governor Fred G. Aandahl, 1921, presiding over a state government which is truly a big-time business. Flanking him as secretary is Walter (Babe) Mohn, 1926, lawyer, and former campus baseball luminary. Nels G. Johnson, 1926, is present Attorney General and Alvin C. Strutz, 1930, former Attorney General, is a Bismarck attorney, as is former Governor George Shafer, 1912, who married a fair Nodak by the name of Frances Kellogg, 1915. Supreme Court Justice William L. Nuessle, 1899, and Mrs. Nuessle, 1899, are both UND alumni.

A cup of coffee in the Capitol Restaurant at a table facing the door will probably net a fair batch of former Nodaks coming in for this famous Norwegian stimulator, such as: A. F. Arna-

Three Old Grads Meet In New Mexico

A happy reunion of three old U. N. D. graduates occurred in Hurley, N. M., a couple of weeks ago, when J. R. Besse, 1905, of Silver City, N. M., David Boise, 1906, of Hurley, N. M.; and B. P. Sandlie, 1906, of Malta, Mont. were reunited for the first time in 40 years. All three were members of the famous Bungalow club and all three became charter members of Beta Zeta chapter of Sigma Chi when that chapter was formed at N. D. U. in 1907. That was the last time Sandlie saw either Boise or Besse until the recent reunion. Practically the sole topic of conversation was reminiscences of those days at N. D. U.

BLANDING WRITES

Art Blanding, who attended U. N. D. 1918-1920, marked his 25th year in the nursery business in Santa Ana, Calif., by building a modern type building featuring Arizona flagstone and plate glass. He writes, "Would enjoy seeing anyone from, or who attended the 'U.'" While at the University he was the first president of Kappa Psi Beta fraternity, now Kappa Sigma.

Dean of Women's Job Is Complex

DEAN ALICE M. HANSON

Miss Alice M. Hanson, a native of Minneapolis and University of Minnesota graduate, handles the complex problems of U. N. D. dean of women with an understanding and tact that have made her work here an outstanding success.

Probing slightly into history, Miss Hanson recalls that 28 years ago, many were alarmed because the 20-year-olds were stepping "out of line"—the line arbitrarily laid down by the "old folks." Not only had the younger ones adopted queer fads, she recalls, but a few girls were even smoking on the sly.

During that postwar era, Miss Hanson was starting as a teacher of French and Algebra in Central high school, Grand Forks. "The young people seemed normal in every respect at that time," she says, "and have seemed so ever since and I have had the opportunity to watch closely some 20,000 of them through the years."

Was high school dean
Miss Hanson accepted in 1935 the position of dean of girls at the high school and the next four summers attended Teachers college at Columbia university. There she studied counseling while earning her M. A. degree.

She was selected with a small group to join the staff of the Lincoln Demonstration school and changed her major study to student personnel administration.

Miss Hanson continues her story:

"In the fall of 1938, when our now fruitful state was experiencing several lean years in succession, my time and devotion of thought were transferred to the University. Our women students survived those lean years when each harvest seemed threatened with tragedy of one kind or another. Many of them supported themselves wholly or in part. Hundreds of student loans were made.

Then suddenly new and strange years were upon them. The air was filled with the rhythm of marching feet and voices united in song. For a time there was dismay, and even some resentment at the disappearance of the civilian male population and the steady influx of men in uniform. No longer did the coed puzzle over what course of study to pursue.

Worry About Marriage

"Almost daily someone was asking whether "to marry now or to wait" or whether to stay in school or go to work. As one student said, "The salary is so good, I can't afford to stay in school." Nevertheless, the majority of our women students remained.

"Glancing back over the calendar of those days, I find memoranda such as these: Arrange assembly for Cadet Nursing Corps—pick up sewing bundles—class in first aid—rules for Signal Corps residence hall—visit welding dormitory—assembly for Wac, Waves, etc.—hostesses for dance—nutrition course—canteen course—party for Barracks 6—civilian defense projects—pack Christmas bags—meet trains Christmas Eve.

Sees Transition Period

"It is inconceivable that the present period is more than one of transition. The interrupted college experience, especially on the part of the men students, is being resumed. The question is asked, "How are the women getting along?" They are doing very well. It is possible that their salvation lies in their ability to choose the right way rather than merely follow the crowd whether or not it is to their advantage to do so. Students are attending school under such differing circumstances, nothing seems unusual. In spite of the change, the groups, residential, social, fraternal, honorary, and professional remain much the same. Although for many students, interests are broader and more mature, group projects, including the philanthropic, are being continued.

Harmony Needed

With the dormitory accommodations inadequate at present, the women must be aware of the need for some sort of compensation for this lack. They must devote thought to the achievement of greater harmony in the daily experiences of living together. They have to be more thoughtful of each other, more generous and kind. At the moment, although we are bursting at the seams, we are still a small school.

"For the last ten years, the percentage of women who live at home while enrolled has varied from about 24 per cent to 40 per cent. This means that the majority of our women live away from home and must be housed. When the majority of the women live on campus, regulations are made with their welfare in mind.

"At the University of North Dakota the women through their association for self-government make their own regulations, which to some seem somewhat restrictive and to others most generous. At a large school where 75 or 80 per cent of the students live at home, the regulations best suited to that situation are established and are as a rule, among the more lenient.

Identities Not Lost

"There is another fact which conditions conduct to some extent. At a university in a large city, the student loses her identity as such when leaving the campus. Here, on the contrary, the student is always identified with the University whether in a downtown restaurant, at a party held off campus or just shopping. The student's failure to justify the trust of parents, church and school is more conspicuous in the smaller community.

"There are those who call education an industry and even the greatest of all industries. No doubt, it is second to no other instrument in the preservation and development of human resources.

Are Buying Insurance

"Those who invest in education in any one of the many ways in which this may be done are really buying insurance. As each of our students is on her way to economic security, to the fullest use of her potentialities as a citizen, any contribution which you or I may make to establish the best atmosphere for training constitutes our assurance of peace and prosperity for the coming years."

Miss Hanson is a member of the University administrative committee and chairman of the attendance committee. She serves on the health committee and eligibility committee and is advisor to the Women's league, Pan-Hellenic council, Mortar Board and Sigma Epsilon Sigma, honorary scholastic group. She is a member of Lambda Alpha Psi, honorary languages and literature organization.

Erma Lee Axtell, 1946, Portal, N. D., and Robert Trimble, Denver, Colo., were recently married and will make their home in Denver while the groom completes his senior year at the University. Mrs. Trimble is a registered dietitian.

Among North Dakota visitors at their home have been Jeanne Lund, 1945, and Ruth Lerud, former Lutheran student counsellor at U. N. D.

CORRECTION: Waldemar Westergaard is professor of European history at U. C. L. A., Los Angeles, not at Pomona college as stated in a recent issue of the Alumni Review.

Editor's Aide Doing Nicely; So's Daughter

Fred J. O'Neil, 1935 U.N.D. graduate who assists Alumni Director J. Lloyd Stone in editing and publishing the Alumni Review, developed a lame arm and crushed hand recently but recovered.

The reason, of course, was simple—he's a father for the second time. The latest addition is a daughter, who joins a four-going-on-five brother in the O'Neil home.

Acting on orders from above, O'Neil reports that since his graduation in 1935, he has been employed at the Grand Forks Herald, North Dakota's outstanding newspaper. For seven years he toiled in the sports department, then during the war shuffling was moved to the night editors' desk where he has been holding out since, except for a few months in 1946 when he worked on special writing assignments.

When the wartime manpower pinch cut into the University's journalism department in 1942, he started teaching and is still at it, trying to turn out well-trained newspaper reporters, copy readers and editors.

LAW SCHOOL ALUMNUS GETS STATE POSITION

1933 Grad Press Man On UN Staff

GILBERT W. STEWART

Gilbert W. Stewart Jr., 1933 University graduate, is on the public relations staff of the U. S. delegation to the United Nations, serving as liaison man with the press.

Stewart's work is concerned primarily with the economic and financial, humanitarian, social and cultural, administrative and budgetary and international law committees.

An editor of the University annual while an undergraduate, Stewart worked for the United Press in Washington, the Washington Star, Wall Street Journal and Newsweek following his graduation. Last year he was awarded a Nieman fellowship at Harvard, where he specialized in economics, finance and taxation.

Stewart is married and has two children, Gilbert W. III and Mary Jo. The family lives in Jamaica, Long Island.

Jeanette Stewart, Gilbert's sister, graduated in 1936, and worked for WPA for three years. She married Kenneth C. Lauster, formerly of Bismarck, now with the U. S. public health service. They have two children, Carolyn Jean and Sally Ann.

ney with the veterans administration Fargo since 1946, Donahue served more than four years in the Canadian army in World War II. He is married and has one child.

FOUR MEMBERS OF FAMILY IN SAME 'U' CLASS

To have four members of the same family at the University is unusual, but to have four brothers and sisters in the same UNL class is even more unique.

Quadruplets? No, Helen, Donald, Harriman and Ruth Neal are 24, 23, 22 and 20 years of age respectively. Uncle Sam and the teaching profession delayed their college work until this year when they began as freshmen together.

Helen, the eldest, is planning to enter the field of journalism. Donald is enrolled in the school of science, literature and arts. Harriman is taking engineering and Ruth is one of the students in the University's new nursing course.

They are sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bigelow Neal of Garrison. Mr. Neal is author of "The Last of the Thundering Herd."

While attending classes at the University, Neals are living at apartment K-2 in the Park hutment village north of University avenue. With everyone going and coming at different hours during the day, co-operation is very necessary. All four help prepare meals, wash dishes and keep the apartment in order.

Both boys served in the army air corps during the war, while Ruth and Helen taught school until they returned.

MEMBER OF FIRST U.N.D. CLASS DIES

Mrs. May Travis Shaw, a wife of the president emeritus of Michigan State college and a member of the first class to graduate from the University of North Dakota, died recently in East Lansing, Mich.

Mrs. Shaw, then Miss May Travis, was a member of the class of 1889. She had been at Michigan State college 39 years when her husband retired as president June 30, 1941.

Mrs. Shaw was born in Newton, N. J., May 8, 1865. After graduating from U. N. D. she went to Oregon and then to Montana State college as head of the mathematics department. She was married in 1900.

The week prior to Homecoming, the Sioux ruined the annual celebration at Fargo by outlasting the N. D. A. C. Bison for a 25-20 football victory that climaxed the A. C. week-end, thus gaining partial revenge for the 31-0 lacing inflicted on them by the down-staters last year.

University Grad Visits In City

Dr. O. Myking Mehus, chief vocational rehabilitation and education division, Veterans Administration, Kansas City, Mo., visited friends in Grand Forks Tuesday on the way to Devils Lake to visit his sister, Mrs. Leo Studness, and to Bismarck to visit another sister Miss Belle Mehus. He was accompanied by Mrs. Mehus. A University graduate, Mehus is a former president of the Winona, Minn. State Teachers college, and former member of the Mayville State Teachers college faculty. Dr. Mehus received his M. A. from the University in 1920 and his Ph. D. in 1931.

Dr. Guy L. Hilleboe On European Trip

Dr. Guy L. Hilleboe, 1916, supervising principal of public schools in Rutherford, N. J., will go by air to Europe November 15, to be a member of a five-man commission to arrange an exchange student program with school heads in Norway, Sweden and Denmark for this winter at Rutherford high schools.

A Latin-American exchange program was featured earlier this year at Rutherford schools. The new program is to be in conjunction with the New York Herald-Tribune's annual forum, and the Metropolitan School Study council, of which Dr. Hilleboe, as chairman of the publication committee and chairman of the international committee, has been invited to participate in the program.

Dr. Hilleboe served as president of the Council in 1945-46.

The 15-day trip will include 39 flying hours. 18 young visitors are scheduled to arrive Dec. 28 for a two-and-a-half month stay, during which time they will be guests in the homes of American high school pupils in the New York area.

The visitors, six from each country, will attend school, visit civic and industrial cultural institutions, as well as the United Nations.
