Educator Honored

Miss M. Beatrice Johnstone, left, veteran University educator, is shown here being presented a service award in recognition of her 58 years of service to UND. Making the presentation is Mrs. Ethel Halcrow Cooley of Minot, N. D.

Campbell Sells Great Wheat Farm

Thomas D. Campbell, North Dakota native known as the "world's greatest wheat king," has sold his 65,000-acre Montana wheat farm to the United States Wheat corporation of Nebraska.

Gordon Diesing, Omaha attorney and president of the corporation, announced a purchase price of 2 million dollars for the Campbell Farming corporation of Hardin, Mont. The 20-mile long farm lies at the foot of the Bighorn mountains.

Campbell, head of the farming corporation, will stay on as manager, Diesing said.

Diesing said Campbell will retain 400,000 acres of land in New Mexico together with other mining and farm interests there.

The Omahan said the seeding of 30,000 acres of the Montana land to winter wheat has just been completed.

Campbell was born Feb. 19, 1892, in a sod hut near the Uni-

Veteran U Educator Given Service Award

Miss M. Beatrice Johnstone, director of the University division of correspondence, was presented a service award in recognition of 58 years of service by the alumni association at the alumni banquet October 21.

Miss Johnstone was introduced as "Queen of the Alumni" by Mrs. John Cooley of Minot, a member of the University board of directors.

As an expression of the gratitude and high esteem in which Miss Johnstone is held, the award was signed by the officers of the alumni board and President John C. West.

Miss Johnstone entered the University in December, 1886, and was a member of the graduating class of 1891.

Named as one of the 10 leading women in North Dakota, her list of achievements in the state are great. Recently she was appointed on a state industrial commission, representing the University, along with President West.

She has directed the correspondence study division at the University since 1933. Previous to that she was secretary in the department of instruction, extension division from 1924-33 and was Grand Forks county superintendent of schools for 12 years.

In 1914 Miss Johnstone was a rural school nurse, the first person in the U.S. to hold that title.

She also has written several articles for the University Quarterly Journal, and edited the first county school bulletin in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Evans (Grace M. Olmanson), 1940 and 1944, are living in Renton, Wash., where Mr. Evans is a civilian employee of the Navy. He graduated from Texas College of Arts and Industries in July, 1948. They have two children, Donna Jean, four years, and Carol Grace, three months.

Sioux Win Two Big Victories

The University football team, an up-and-down eleven all fall, heads for its final game against Toledo university in the Ohio city with the knowledge that two big games have been won and that the over-all picture may be regarded as successful.

Head Coach Dick Miller and his assistant, Frank Zazula, turning out their first Sioux team, have satisfied the big majority of fans with their method of work, the style of football they taught and the results.

The Sioux won three, tied one and lost two to finish midway in the North Central conference standings but of great satisfaction to football fans here, they finished on top in two games they wanted to win the most.

The outlook—both from the standpoint of weather and actual football success—was grim for the Homecoming clash with South Dakota State. The Jack-rabbits were undefeated in the conference at that time and deserved their rank atop the heap. The previous week the Sioux had absorbed a horrible 10-0 shellacking from Iowa Teachers at Cedar Falls and there was little hope of a comeback.

But the 5,500 who looked on in Memorial stadium saw the Millermen stage a complete form reversal to earn a 19-7 triumph over the tough S. D. S. club on a soggy field. It capped a successful Homecoming celebration.

The following week, Homecoming activities were being observed at North Dakota A. C. in Fargo and the Sioux had a big score to settle down there. A year ago, the underdog Bison had ruined the Sioux, 19-7. They were gunning for another upset but it wasn't in the cards. At the end of a blustery afternoon, the Sioux had gained revenge, 13-6, and the Bison, having a poor season, had still to turn in a triumph in 1949.

● CAMPBELL

 versity of North Dakota campus. He is a graduate of the university and has received an honorary LL. D. degree.

In 1913 he leased 100,000 acres in the Crow Indian reservations in Montana from the department of interior, secured financial backing from J. P. Morgan and began large-scale mechanized farming.

Peggy E. Paupst, former student 1930, is a department clerk typist with Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in Burbank, Calif.

Miss Olga Overn of Grand Forks, above, a former University student, has written a story of early life in the Badlands of Dakota which was published last month. "Challenge" depicts the struggle of pioneers against the rule of political bosses. Miss Overn attended the University in 1937 and 1938.

● FOOTBALL

Miller was pleased with the results, although he admitted the Sioux weren't too consistent, either on attack or defensively.

To the hundreds of fans who followed their team to Fargo, however, a victory by even one point would have sufficed. In the more than half-century of rivalry between the state's two biggest schools, you take victories when they come and are thankful.

Here are the results of the first seven games this season: Morningside 12, University 0; University 6, Moorhead Teachers 0; University 7, South Dakota U 7; University 21, Augustana 0; Iowa Teachers 40, University 0; University 19, South Dakota State 7; University 13, N. D. A. C. 6.

Take out the 40 points scored by Iowa Teachers and the defensive record is excellent. Miller's only explanation of that heavy score was that the team just fell apart and had a bad night.

Brother of U Faculty Man Dies

Dr. Paul A. Wheeler, 46, brother of Dr. George A. Wheeler, University professor of biology, died October 1 at Rochester, Minn., after an illness of several months.

Dr. Paul Wheeler, who received his B.Sc. in medicine from the University in 1930, was an assistant in the biology department here from 1927-30 and was an instructor at several summer sessions. At the time of his death he was associate professor of pathology at Baylor University medical school in Houston, Tex.

He had been a pathologist at St. Louis City hospital and taught pathology at Washington University medical school.

Dr. Wheeler received his B. A. degree from the University of Texas in 1925 and his M. D. from Vanderbilt in 1932.

U Madrigal Club Makes Fall Tour

The University Madrigal club will make a tour through northwestern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota and an appearance at Winnipeg this month. The club, including 61 singers and director Prof. Hywel C. Rowland, will leave here November 15. It will appear at Warren, Minn., November 16; Thief River Falls, November 17; Cavalier, N. D., November 18; and at Grace United church in Winnipeg November 19 and 21; and at Pembina and the school for the blind at Bathgate, November 22.

Christine Finlayson, 1912, state supervisor of home economics education, received a life membership in the American Vocational association in recognition of her services to schools and the state at a meeting of the association in Minot recently. Miss Finlayson has been state supervisor of home economics education since 1922.
