Sioux Ice Team Wins; Basketball Squad Hit

The University's winter athletic picture has its bright and dark side, with the possibility that by the time the last hockey puck is fired and the last basketball is tossed along in early spring, the Sioux will be able to look back on two successful campaigns.

Coach Cliff Purpur's hockey team must be rated the best chance of bringing home an outstanding record. The Sioux six has won three of four games against college opposition. After dividing a series here with Harvard, the Sioux took two games from Michigan State, also on the University ice sheet. Harvard's appearance here marked the first time an Ivy league team had appeared in the state.

Beat Canadian Teams

In early games, the Sioux rolled up a good record in exhibitions against Canadian teams. In their latest start the Sioux dropped a 7-2 game to the Amerks, Grand Forks independent team. The latter, however, also coached by Purpur, is composed chiefly of University freshmen, which makes the outlook even better for future U. N. D. hockey activity.

Coach Glenn Jarrett started the basketball season with prospects for a North Central conference title contender but was forced, almost as the season started, into a rebuilding job. The national guard call-up early in December took two veteran regulars, Jim Bischke and Pete Simonson, and left Red with only one letterman, Fritz Engel, sharpshooting guard.

Rebuilding Started

Jarrett started his rebuilding at the conference tournament in Sioux City in December, working four sophomores into the lineup with Engel and shifting his men to develop the strongest scoring quint possible. The first few games were tough but the new team is now starting to come.

After losing conference starts to Iowa Teachers, Morningside and South Dakota, all on opposition courts, the Sioux scored their first loop victory by defeating Augustana. Jarrett and his squad are confident they will yet have something to say about the outcome of the North Central race.

Florence Fontaine and Frank Richard Steckle Jr., 1950, recently exchanged marriage vows in Grand Forks. Steckle is enrolled at the University for graduate work. The couple will make their home at 112 Tenth ave. S.

JOHN M. HANCOCK

MAXWELL UPSON

Two More Big Gifts Received

Two more large gifts to the University development fund were received recently following the $10,000 contribution of Chester Fritz, previously announced.

John M. Hancock, 1903, New York banker and industrialist, forwarded a $15,000 gift and Maxwell Upson, 1896, sent stock certificates valued at $4,500.

In addition to his wide business interests, Hancock has been called often to handle important assignments for the federal government. The most recent was to study the recent automobile price cutback order and work out a new price formula for the economic stabilization agency.

Upson is chairman of the board of the Raymond Concrete Pile company in New York.

Following his graduation from U. N. D., he attended Cornell university, where he received his M. E. degree in 1899. In 1931 he was awarded his doctor's degree from the University of North Dakota.

From 1899 to 1905 Upson was with Westinghouse, Church, Kerr and company of New York, advancing to the position of project manager. In 1905 he joined the Hauckanum Mills company of Rockville, Conn. and was with that firm two years as chief engineer and assistant to the president.

Upson became affiliated with Raymond Concrete Pile company in 1907 as general manager and chief engineer. From 1931 to 1946 he was president of the company. He also served as an officer and director of several other corporations and organizations. He was on the board of directors of the American Concrete Institute for 15 years and was president two years. He is trustee of the
