Campus Briefs

By A. L. MONROE

Editor, Dakota Student

News-eager eyes on campus are focusing on Carney Sing and Founder's day which will be emceed by William DePuy of Grafton this year. Along with Carney the news will get a different slant when Theta Sigma Phi, formerly Matrix, submits the Lily, from lily white hands to the readers.

Class directors for Carney are Beverly Klemesrud, East Grand Forks, Minn., freshmen; Arlene Bergerrud, Killdeer, sophomores; Margaret Winters, Hillsboro, juniors; and Marion Stjern, Grand Forks, for the seniors.

Tryouts and practice for the 1951 Flickertail Follies will be well underway by February 25, according to Don Gackle, Sigma Delta Chi, president.

James Carrigan, East Grand Forks, Minn., Student Council president, reports that the council has already undertaken the task of selecting chairmen for the 1951 Homecoming and Dad's Day events.

L. C. Harrington, Dean of Engineering College, Dies

Dean L. C. Harrington, 70, head of the college of engineering at the University since 1932, died February 3 in a Pittsburgh, Pa., hospital. He was taken suddenly ill with a heart attack February 2 and was hospitalized.

Dean Harrington had stopped in Pittsburgh en route from Washington, D. C., to Grand Forks. He had left Grand Forks to consult with the United States bureau of mines in Washington on plans for staffing the lignite research laboratory near the University.

He had stopped off in Pittsburgh for a visit at the bituminous laboratory of the bureau.

Dean Harrington had been associated with the University since 1912.

Was U. S. Consultant

Dean Harrington, a consultant for the bureau of mines in Washington, was instrumental in bringing a $200,000 experimental lignite pilot plant and the $750,000 laboratory to Grand Forks.

In his years as dean at the

Sioux Gain .500 Basketball Rating

Battling their way back to a .500 rating in the North Central conference standings, Coach Glenn Jarrett's University basketball team comes up to its annual four-game series with the Bison of N. D. A. C. with a good chance of finishing in the loop's upper bracket again.

Jarrett's veteran club which started the season was broken up when the national guard was called to federal service and the coach has accomplished a great rebuilding job. Around one veteran guard, Fritz Engel of New Holstein, Wis., Jarrett has molded a high scoring aggregation which now is the equal of the best in the conference.

Wolfe Top Scorer

In Chuck Wolfe of Minot, N. D., the Sioux have the leading scorer in the circuit, averaging better than 20 points per game and a good possibility to establish some new conference point records.

Rube Entzel of Sidney, Mont., is the other starting forward with Wolfe while Bob Constantini of Iron Mountain, Mich., at center and Bill McGinley of Minot at guard round out the starting five with Engel, Wolfe, Entzel, Constantini and McGinley are all sophomores.

Engel's all-around ability and leadership has helped the team in the uphill battle and the veteran guard is also one of the conference's most deadly scorers.

Beat Champions

The Sioux climaxed their struggle to gain a five-won-five-lost rating with a 63-57 victory over league-leading Iowa Teachers, who appear on their way to repeating as conference champions.

While the Sioux have a better won-lost record than their rivals from N. D. A. C., the upcoming Bison series is expected to pack the usual thrills provided when the traditional rivals get together. Few here have forgotten that it was the underdog Bison who last year upset the front-running Sioux and cost them a conference title, or a least a share of it.

University, Dean Harrington had seen the accreditation of all the departments in the college of engineering. When he first became dean, none was accredited.

He also was almost solely responsible for the growth of the physical plant of the engineering college and for the recent additions. In addition, he was one of the persons responsible for securing an appropriation from the state legislature for the construction of a new engineering building which, when completed, is expected to be named Harrington hall in his honor.

Excavation for the building, on a site just east of Babcock hall, was started last fall.

On Athletic Board

In addition to engineering, Dean Harrington took an active interest in everything that affected the welfare of the University. At the time of his death, he was chairman of the athletic board, of which he had been a member at intermittent periods. He had served on the board at the time C. A. West was hired for the athletic department.

He also had charge of sur-

● Harrington

plus property since the war and of the NYA shops in what was then called Harrington hall previous to the war.

Dean Harrington was born Oct. 28, 1880, at Ludington, Mich., the son of Jackson Davis and Emma Ada Ink Harrington. He attended high school and grade school at Ludington and entered the University of Michigan in 1905. He was graduated with a degree of science in civil engineering in 1908 and a professional degree in mining engineering in 1909.

Worked in Mines

Previous to entering the University of Michigan, the dean had worked in the copper mines at Hancock, Mich., in 1902 and at Bisbee, Ariz., from 1903-05.

Continual promotions followed Dean Harrington's arrival at the University in 1912. He started as an instructor in metallurgy and assaying, became an assistant professor in the same field in 1913, an associate professor of mining and metallurgy in 1920, professor of mining and metallurgy in 1921, director of the division of mines and mining experiments in 1931, acting dean in 1932 and dean in 1933.

He was married June 13, 1912, at Norfolk, Va., to Alberta H. Amstein. There are no children.

Survivors, in addition to the widow, include a sister, Mrs. Jessie H. Oakley of Detroit.

President John C. West, speaking of the loss to the University of Dean Harrington, said: "Dean Harrington has been associated with the advance of the engineering profession in the state of North Dakota for a quarter of a century. In the last 20 years he has been instrumental in furthering professional engineering training at the University to the extent that the engineering college has risen from a rather ordinary school to a professional school recognized throughout the nation."

"His was a great soul, the like of which will not again be seen. He had only one interest, outside of his family, and that was enhancing the services of the engineering school."

Judge O. B. Burtness, another close associate and friend, said: "I was greatly shocked

Cite Need For More Engineers

An increasing need for engineers, coupled with the decreasing enrollment in this field in U. S. colleges, makes it a good line for interested students, according to college officials.

More than 85 per cent of the 1950 graduating class in this field had been placed in the field.

Enrollment in technical institutions has dropped 11 per cent in the last year, while in the last 10 years it declined 20 per cent.

Industry will need an average of 30,000 engineers a year from colleges while the supply will range in the next few years from 33,500 in 1951 down to 12,400 in 1954.

Freshmen In ROTC Deferred

Under a newly announced ruling freshmen at the University who are enrolled in ROTC may be deferred in their first semester.

Previously deferments were not given until after completion of the first semester.

The army has authorized deferment of 60 out of 112 freshmen in ROTC, 39 out of 82 sophomores, all 28 juniors and 13 out of 19 seniors.

U BAND TO PLAY

The University of North Dakota band will play a series of concerts in Chicago March 10 to 14, Director John E. Howard announced. Several concerts booked a year ago, but postponed because of illness of the director, have been rescheduled. Rehearsals for the program have already begun.

STOCKWELL GRANTS

The late Walter L. Stockwell endowed the University with $1,000 to be known as the Walter L. Stockwell memorial prize in public speaking. Stockwell's will was filed in Cass county, N. D.

and grieved to learn of the death of Dean Harrington for he was one of my closest friends. His passing will be a distinct loss not only to the University but the entire state. His fine contribution to our state will live after him."

3 Men Added to Faculty Here

The University secured one new professor and the U. S. Bureau of mines at Grand Forks secured two new staff members recently.

Added to the University medical school staff was Dr. Reinhard Beutner, formerly with the University of Alabama. He will take over the position of visiting professor of pharmacology during the second semester.

At the bureau of mines lignite research laboratory will be Donald E. Hurd, who will work under Alex C. Burr, chief of the fuels technology division, and Edward F. Golov, who will work in the pilot plant under Dr. Walter H. Oppelt, chief of the utilization section.

Graduate Has Book Published

Dr. Carlton A. Pederson, who received his B. A. degree in 1934, is the co-author of a book, "Principles of Salesmanship and Methods," which has recently been published by the Richard D. Irwin company of Chicago.

After Dr. Pederson left the University, he secured his master's degree at the University of Southern California and his doctor's degree at Leland Stanford university.

At the present time he is on the staff of the graduate school of business at Stanford. He is married to the former Goldie Law, 1934, of Grand Forks and they now live in Mt. View, Calif.

TO RETURN

H. H. Russell, former head of the English department at the University, returned to this country in January from Germany, where he has been stationed with the military government. He will be stationed in Washington, D. C., with the U. S. state department.

New Men's Dean Appointed To U

The University named a new dean of men to replace W. W. Renke, who left last month with the national guard.

The new dean is Charles W. Bullard, assistant professor of economics. Renke was appointed to the position last fall.

Bullard came to the University in 1948 from the University of Ohio.

ARTICLE PUBLISHED

Publication of an article in the American Journal of Medical Research by a University of North Dakota professor has been announced. The report by Dr. Christopher Hamre, professor and head of the department of anatomy in the school of medicine, was on his studies on bile duct obstruction and jaundice carried out at the institute of experimental medicine at the Mayo clinic., Rochester, Minn.

● Sioux Gains

Purpur's skaters have a seemingly impossible road ahead in their attempt to land a place in the N. C. A. A. four-team national championship tournament at Colorado Springs next month.

Face Tough Games

The Sioux handled Michigan Tech and Michigan State and split two games with Minnesota on the home rink but they must hurdle Minnesota, Michigan and Michigan Tech in road series and try to check Colorado college here to have a chance at a play-off berth.

The national guard call-up also hit the hockey squad when Captain Bob Krumholz left in mid-season.
