Memorial Student Union Dedicated

Dedication of the new Memorial Student Union was one of the highlights of the University's 1951 Homecoming celebration. The building was formerly presented to the students Friday, October 12.

Attorney Theodore Kellogg of Dickinson, main dedication speaker and a 1930 University graduate, paid tribute to University leaders in directing the progress and growth of the school. He linked this progress with the development of North Dakota's lignite and oil resources.

In referring to University leaders' participation in oil and lignite research, Kellogg said: "Their alertness in recognizing these obligations has resulted in establishing this University in a position of leadership in providing the training and resources that will be required.

"It is a fortunate thing for the state of North Dakota that they have been so foresighted. We can look forward to seeing native North Dakotans, locally trained, leading in these new fields of development."

J. Lloyd Stone, alumni director and member of the Student Union board of directors, presented the building to the students. Rinehart Ruff of West Fargo, student board of governors chairman, accepted the building on behalf of the students.

Sioux Eleven Prepares For Annual Bison Mix

After suffering two successive defeats, including the Homecoming game, Coach Frank Zazula's University football forces are preparing for their annual battle with the N.D.A.C. Bison, this year to be staged at Fargo.

Losing to South Dakota State, 21-12, the Sioux disappointed some 5,500 Homecoming fans but still turned in a good exhibition in which only a couple of defensive lapses enabled the visitors to roll up their margin. Also, the Sioux offense, which had been developing steadily since the season started, had a hard time moving when inside the S. D. State 20. Four times the Sioux were thwarted down there.

The following week Beloit, Wis., college trotted out a very tough outfit on the turf of Memorial stadium and in a game played mostly in a cold drizzle, the Sioux again went down, 27-7.

Lloyd Hallada, one of the North Central conference's leading backs, had been injured in the South Dakota State game and Zazula did not use him against Beloit. Boom is expected to be ready to go against the Bison.

The A.C. eleven is going to be tough for the Sioux. After South Dakota State had knocked off the Sioux for their sixth straight win, the Bison took on the Bunnies down at Brookings the next week and held them to a 7-7 tie.
