New Medical Building

Here is the architect's drawing of the proposed new $600,000 addition to the University medical building. Wells and Denbrook of Grand Forks are the architects.

Sioux Fourth In Conference Football Race

Coach Frank Zazula's football team stowed away its gear after dropping the season finale to University of South Dakota, 35-13.

The Coyotes won the North Central championship with an unblemished record in six games. The Sioux were fourth with a record of two wins and three defeats.

Following their unexpected but thorough trouncing of the North Dakota A. C. Bison, 33-14, the Sioux had hopes of finishing above the .500 mark but the Dad's Day game with Augustana here was canceled because of snow and cold and then the loss to South Dakota ruined the hopes.

Had Hoped to Win

The Sioux were confident of victory over Augustana, which finished last in the circuit, and the chances are that the Zazula forces could have downed the Vikings with a Dad's Day throng to cheer them on and their own squad in top condition for the game.

The high spot of the season

Medical School Accredited

The University of North Dakota two-year medical school is now accredited by the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Sanction of the school by the association was voted late in October and eliminates the probationary status imposed in 1937-38.

Announcement of the association's action was made at the annual meeting in French Lick, Indiana. Dean W. F. Potter, head of the medical school, attended the three-day convention.

Efforts Blocked

Dean Potter said that accreditation is the essential step in establishing the proposed four-year medical school here.

Efforts toward initiating the four-year plan were blocked until the association's stamp of approval had been given the two-year course.

Difficulty in placing graduating students here in other institutions would be modified by the sanction, Dean Potter said, as would acquiring and maintaining a permanent, competent staff.

H. E. French, dean emeritus of the medical school, said the probationary status was inflicted in 1937 mainly because of inadequate financial support by the state.

Criticize School

In addition, the report by the association effecting the probation, criticized the school's staff, library, equipment, quality of students and insufficient room space.

The work that University medical students did here and at schools accepting them as transfers was hit by the report, Dean French said.

In 1933, during the height of the depression, the legislature halved University appropriations and the school began a decline that ended in probationary status with the association.

On North Dakota Bar Board

CHARLES H. SHAFER

HERBERT G. NILLES

Two University law school graduates, Herbert G. Nilles of Fargo, 1917, and Charles H. Shafer of Hillsboro, 1926, are members of the North Dakota state bar board.

The bar board is the law examining unit which helps the state comply with the standards of the American Bar association. One of the standards is that candidates for admission to the bar should be given an examination to determine their fitness. In addition to Nilles and Shafer, the board includes Charles L. Foster of Bismarck.

Nilles was appointed to the board for a six-year term December 7, 1938, and has served since that time. From 1947 he has been state delegate to the American Bar association and since 1948 he has been president of the North Dakota Law School Alumni association.

Shafer, now Hillsboro city attorney, was states attorney of Traill county from 1936 to 1940. He has been prominent in activities of the North Dakota League of Municipalities.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold L. Baxstrom, 1935, reside at Mylo, N. D., where they are engaged in farming. Mrs. Baxstrom is the former Alveda Backstrom of Adams, N. D.

Commander George Carter, 1936, is commanding the 17th air group at Jacksonville, Fla. Appointed to his command last summer, he taught two years at Annapolis following World war II service. His brother, Commander R. W. Carter, was recently named commanding officer of the naval supply facility at Rodman, Canal Zone.

Ernest K. Read, 1913, of Pittsburgh, Pa., wrote to the alumni office on returning from a vacation trip to North Carolina and Tennessee. He says that he visited with S. R. Rhodes, who taught engineering at U. N. D. in 1911-12-13 and who is now head of the department of electrical engineering at his alma mater, Clemson college. Read also stopped at Lexington, Ky., where he called on Frank McVey, who was president at U. N. D. from 1909 to 1917.

The Rev. Carroll E. Simcox, 1933, is the author of a book, Living the Lord's Prayer, recently off the press, a sequel to Living the Creed by the same author. He is rector of the Episcopal church at Manchester, Vt., and is doing a considerable amount of religious writing. He also teaches courses in Greek at Bennington college for women, Bennington, Vt. Dr. Simcox received his Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in the field of classics.

OPEN NEW CHAPEL

Impressive services marked the opening of the $265,000 Newman Foundation chapel adjacent to the University campus.

The chapel, built for University students, will seat 280 persons. It also includes rooms for meetings and dining room, club room for students and a class room.

A formal dedication program will be held later in the fall after all parts of the building have been completed.

Hockey Prospects Appear Excellent

From Vancouver, B. C., to Boston, Mass., come players for what University Hockey Coach Fido Purpur believes will be his best Sioux team.

In contrast to a year ago, when Purpur often wondered if he'd have enough players for a game, the current University team will be well-stocked in manpower.

Including those back from last year's Sioux and Amerk teams, Purpur has 24 players from which to choose his 1951-52 sextet.

Holdovers from last year's Sioux team are Ken Johansson, high scoring center from Edmonton, Alta.; Goalie Rudy Lindbeck, South St. Paul, Minn.; Wing Swede Lund, Thief River Falls; Wing Ken Wilkie, Neepawa, Man., and Wing Gaylord Elliott, Minneapolis.

Up From Amerks

Up from the Amerks are Rog Goodman, classy defenseman from Winnipeg; Goalie Al Finkelstein, Winnipeg; Forward Wilf Shannon, Winnipeg; Wing Don Bourdeau, Duluth, and Center Kenny Purpur, Grand Forks.

Purpur is assembling a promising group of freshmen. First-year men will be eligible to compete this year.

Two boys who played with the eastern all-stars in the U. S. junior hockey championship game at Sioux City last April are Center Dick Burns and Dan DiFuria, forward or defenseman, both from Stoneham, Mass., a suburb of Boston.

Four From Edmonton

Edmonton contributes four more players — Defensemen Elwood Shell and Bob Dunswoth, and Wings Ben Cherski and Bill Trimble. Shell and Cherski played in Scotland last season, Shell gaining all-star honors in the Scottish league.

Four new players from Winnipeg are enrolled. They are Wings Ray Huot, Charlie Waks, John Novak and Roger Hebert. Novak was a star member of the Winnipeg Monarchs, who won the western Canada junior championship last spring. Waks played with Morden of the States-Dominion league last season.

Was at Minnesota

Other forwards are Marcel Beaulieu, Emerson, Man.; Frank Morgan, New Haven, Conn., and Walt Pederson, Greenbush, Minn. Pederson is a transfer from the University of Minnesota. He played a leading role in the west's victory over the east in the Sioux City junior title contest.

Another defenseman, Bill Boone, Vancouver, B. C., has not arrived yet but is expected soon.

First home series for the Sioux will be a December 14-15 set with the Winnipeg Blackhaws of the Manitoba Junior league. The schedule:

Dec. 14-15—Winnipeg Blackhaws, here
Dec. 21-22—Saskatchewan U., here (tentative)
Jan. 4-5—Michigan U., here
Jan. 8-9—Michigan Tech, there
Jan. 11-12—Michigan State, there
Jan. 18-19—Michigan Tech, here
Jan. 25-26—Minnesota, here
Feb. 8-9—Brandon U., here
Feb. 15-16—Minnesota, there
Feb. 19-20—Denver U., there
Feb. 22-23—Colorado College, there

After 1937, appropriations began to increase "slowly," Dean French said, and in 1945 the present Medical building was appropriated. Before that medical school classes were held in the old science building.

The one-mill levy established in 1948 by initiated law for the construction of a state medical center here was a big point in favor of accreditation, Dean French declared.

One of the avowed purposes of the medical center is the accreditation of the two-year school.

Questions Ability

The probationary report criticized the combined departments, such as pathology and bacteriology being under one man and the lack of personnel, Dean French said. One examiner questioned the state's ability to hire competent personnel to replace the 1937 staff if they left the University for the salaries then extant, he added.

With only two exceptions, every graduate of the medical school has been placed in other schools to continue his studies, but accreditation should make it easier for graduates from here to get in the schools of their choice, Dean French declared.

A better school in every way, Dean French concluded, was the probable reason for accreditation.

But, he warned, it will be necessary to select students carefully from now on to keep accreditation since we are judged largely on their work here and in other medical schools.

Name Inspectors

Inspection of the medical school for the association was completed October 1. Inspectors included Dr. Francis R. Manlove, associate secretary of the American Medical association; Dr. Dean F. Smiley, secretary of the Association of American Medical Colleges; and Dr. Stanley W. Olson of was undoubtedly the victory over the A. C. The teams had been rated even but the Sioux, after trailing, 7-6, early in the game, didn't give the Bison a chance as they turned in their best performance of the season.

Backs Run Well

The running of Boom Hallada, Cy Ducharme, Art Halpin, Chuck Aakhus and others, strong defensive play and an outstanding job of pass-grabbing by Freshman End Dick Ryan were features of the contest.

The Sioux scored first in their game with South Dakota and were giving the Coyotes a bad time through most of the first half. However, a series of penalties, a few costly mistakes and bad breaks let the new champions pull away to their triumph in the last half.

Zazula loses his two top backs, Hallada and Ducharme, plus the few experienced linemen he had this fall and he expects to find himself faced with a complete rebuilding job when spring practice starts.

the University of Illinois, representative of both groups.

Association sanction is tantamount to approval by the American Medical association, although that organization has not issued formal approval to date.

A survey team of medical school deans inspected the state's medical facilities viewing the establishment of the four-year school but has not yet issued a report.

A step toward the four-year medical school accreditation was made recently when the medical school disclosed plans for a $600,000 addition to the present medical building.

According to Dean Potter, the extension is "not necessary" to the proposed four-year medical school but it is needed badly "to provide facilities to attract the calibre of men necessary for accreditation."
