GRAND FORKS, N. DAK.—DECEMBER 28, 1951

U. N. D.  PRESS

NUMBER 7

Here is a portion of the largest crowd ever to watch a basketball game in North Dakota. Some 7,000 fans assembled the night of November 30 to see the huge new $875,000 University fieldhouse opened. The Sioux helped make the opening a success by defeating Montana State, 66-59. (Grand Forks Herald photo).

Giant New UND Fieldhouse Opened

Basketball moved into a new home at the University of North Dakota on the last week-end in November for the third time in the 47 years it has been a major sport here.

For at that time the UND basketball Sioux played their first games on the giant new fieldhouse floor. This building, two years in the making and not yet finished, will provide North Dakota with the finest athletic plant between the Twin Cities and the west coast and will be a landmark of progress for the state.

When the giant structure is finished, students will be provided with recreational and physical development facilities second to none in the country, officials here point out.

One of the new structure's first state-wide duties will be to house the North Dakota class A basketball tournament in March.

UND students first played basketball as an intercollegiate sport in 1904, although the game was played by students from 1899 on. The early varsity teams played in what is now the women's gymnasium and before that in the basement of Budge hall, a men's dormitory. Basketball moved to the newly constructed armory in the

New Fieldhouse Opened

Now, with a fine new home, a considerable expansion of the school's athletic program, basketball, track and minor sports may be expected, according to Athletic Director Glenn Jarrett and Physical Education Director Leonard Marti.

The size of the entire brick and steel structure is 240' x 280'. The gymnasium measures 160' x 240' and the maple-wood court is 60' x 119'. The official playing surface is 50' x 86'.

Filled to capacity the fieldhouse can seat 9,000. There are 3,700 permanent seats in the balcony and 4,000 regular chairs on the main floor. Specially constructed bleacher stands can increase the attendance to 9,000.

There are eight dressing rooms. Five are regular team rooms, one is a woman's room, another is the intramural room and a third is a general large dressing quarters. There are adequate dressing facilities for an eight-team tourney at the fieldhouse. There are four separate shower rooms and 35 shower heads.

Gymnasium classrooms have fluorescent lighting while the rest of the building is illuminated by incandescent lighting.

A feature of the whole structure is the fresh air ventilating system which is in operation all the time, blowing fresh air in and stale air out. The basketball backboards are all glass-constructed and swing upward towards the ceiling. There is not one pillar in the entire building to block a seat-holder's view of the game. Every seat in the building is entirely clear of obstacles.

Training room facilities include two of the most modern whirlpool baths, four heat lamps and specially-constructed foam-rubber surface rubbing tables.

The score-board above the center of the court is of the latest design with 18-inch neon lighted numbers which instantly flash the score to every seat-holder in the building. Together with the scoreboard is a time clock of the latest design which clicks off the last minute to the tone of neon light rings.

An up-to-date public address system will keep the fans informed of the constant progress of the game. Under the permanent balcony seats is found a huge concession bar, together with men's washrooms, ladies' powder rooms, check rooms and other relaxing facilities which add to the spectator's comfort between intermissions of the games.

Immediately adjacent to the fieldhouse is adequate parking room to accommodate a capacity crowd. The new building also includes a quarter-mile running track, handball and badminton courts, a huge indoor swimming pool, classrooms, office space, trophy and lounge rooms.

Study New Processing Of Spuds

A study of dehydration of potatoes may influence expansion of one phase of an industry that is of great importance to the state.

This study, made under a $9,000 grant from the U. S. army quartermaster corps at the University, is being conducted by Prof. A. M. Cooley on the matter of improving quality and improving procedure and efficiency in the mix-back dehydration system now in use.

Cooley said that while present dehydrated potatoes are of World War II, the army feels there is room for improvement in the material.

From a commercial standpoint, development of an efficient process that would produce uniformly high quality dried potato powder could lead to formation of a new or expanded industry in the state.

There are commercial possibilities, for dehydrated potato powder can be mixed into fluffy mashed potatoes in a minute by addition of the required amount of hot water. The powder takes little room in storage and will keep well if kept under seal.

As potatoes contain 80 per cent moisture, 2 pounds of the University Basketball Has Fine Record

UND basketball can stick out its chest and point with pride at the record compiled since 1904.

During 47 years of competition, North Dakota has played 709 games, winning 469 and losing 240. UND has scored 27,298 points against opponents for a game average of 38.5 points and has had 22,266 points against them.

UND has enjoyed four unbeaten seasons. These were in 1907 with five wins, 1908, with four wins, 1918 with 15 straight wins and 1920 with 16 consecutive victories.

The largest score ever piled up by any University athletic team was in 1908 when they trounced Mayville Teachers college, 118-5. Another lopsided count was recorded in 1906 when UND whacked a now-defunct Fargo college five, 94-9.

Seasons in which UND lost only one game were 1905-06-09-12-17-21-33-35-36. North Dakota Agricultural College has been responsible for four of these losses.

University basketball was finally rewarded with a proper playing court when the Armory was first used in 1922. That date marks the beginning of "big-time" basketball at UND and also the birth of the North Central conference.

Although North Dakota played its first two games in powder is equivalent to about 10 pounds of fresh potatoes.

Test Described

With a beater made in Grand Forks to mix fresh cooked potatoes and an equal quantity of dried potatoes Cooley mixes his batches for tests. These are fed into a hopper and augured into the start of 50 feet of drying pipes. Air warmed to 250 or 300 degrees blows the the potatoes to a settling container, meanwhile drying the product to about 7 per cent moisture content from its original 40 per cent. The dried powder is taken off through an air lock.

Object of the experiment will be to take the "bugs" out and maybe to come up with a better process of dehydration. Meanwhile a considerable body of knowledge concerning methods, potato varieties, etc., will be assembled.

1899, it was not until 1904, after considerable student-faculty bickering, that the school sanctioned a men's varsity team. The team was known as the Flickertails until 1930, when they were first called the Sioux.

Basketball is the oldest major sport in the 68-year-old span of the school. North Dakota opened its door of learning in 1889 but it wasn't until 1899 that basketball was born here. According to existing records in the athletic department, the Sioux played two contests that year and lost both. The Ontario store team won the first game, 8-4, and Grand Forks Y triumphed, 6-1.

Athletic Director Glenn (Red) Jarrett, who coached the Sioux last year, will now have the time necessary to devote to the school's greatly expanded athletic program. Red a former-all-around athlete here, has been the guiding light behind basketball and hockey which have attained national prominence in the last few years.

The school will gain even greater recognition with the opening of the fieldhouse-gymnasium. Jarrett explains: "Our basketball team will now have the advantage of playing and practicing on a regulation floor. Our officiating, likewise, will not encounter small-floor handicaps. Our football team and track teams will have a place to work out during inclement weather. Our gate receipts should increase tremendously. We now have the seating capacity to invite high school teams as our guests, which will, no doubt, help us attract athletes. Our entire physical education program will benefit through the facilities which will be adequate to teach all phases of our program. Our intramural program, which ranks second to none in the United States, will also expand. Minor sports like boxing, wrestling, handball and archery will receive more attention, along with tumbling and other gymnastic activities.

Head Coach Louie Bogan is in his first year as the Sioux mentor but there's nothing new about UND to Lou.

Before last year's coaching stint with the Sioux freshmen, Bogan was one of the outstanding Sioux performers before he graduated in 1950. He won four letters in the sport and was elected captain of the 1946 Sioux.

Lous' career began at Grand Forks St. Mary's parochial school in 1935. He attended South Junior high and enrolled at Grand Forks Central in 1937.

His high school career was highlighted by his winning-all-state honors in 1939 and 1940, before he left for a five-year hitch in the army as a member of North Dakota's 188th field artillery.

While in the army at Fort Lewis, Wash., Bogan played for the Battery "F" quint which won the post title and lost out in the final of the All-Service tournament at Paine Field, Wash., in 1942. He was selected as the tournament's most valuable player.

A great student of the game, Lou practically lives basketball and his players will be instilled with the same spirit and drive. Bogan is also director of UND intramural sports.

News Notes

Charles Emerson Murry, 1948, of Rugby, N. D., has been appointed research director of the North Dakota legislative research committee. Murry, originally from Dunseith, has been practicing law in Rugby with Roland Heringer, 1937, for the past year. Murry is a World War II veteran. He is married and has one daughter.

Muriel Hildemyr of Petersburg and Carl E. Flem, 1951, exchanged marriage vows recently in Petersburg. After a trip to the Twin Cities, Flem entered the army. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Shirley Hemming, ex 1951, was married in Rolla, N. D., to Robert Wayne. They have left for the west coast. The bride is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Wayne attended State college at Fargo.

Manville J. Anderson, 1951, is now residing in Santa Monica, Calif. He is employed by Sears, Roebuck company there.

Sioux Win Skaters Opener in Split 1st New Home 4 Games

The largest crowd ever to watch a basketball game in North Dakota saw the University of Sioux open the new $875,000 fieldhouse with a 66-59 victory over Montana State.

More than 7,000 turned out to get their first look at the huge new athletic plant and also their first view of Coach Louis Bogan's 1951-52 squad.

The invaders came back the next night to cop a 77-74 game in which the Sioux piled up a big first-half lead, then faded toward the finish.

List To Hamline

Bogan's club opened the season against Hamline, a national power each year, and lost, 64-62. After the Montana State series, they beat Moorhead Teachers, 68-48, then lost to Gustavus Adolphus, 73-70, again sagging late in the game after having a good lead most of the distance.

With those games as conditions, the Sioux looked with some optimism toward the first game of their North Central conference schedule, against Iowa State Teachers. But the result was a disappointment to Sioux followers. The Panthers turned in a 74-53 rout at Cedar Rapids.

Hope To Improve

Bogan, however, is confident his squad will be a factor in the title scramble when action picks up in the new year. He has experience in Bob Constantini, Chuck Wolfe, last year's league scoring champion, Harvey Burkholder, Bill McGinley, Rube Entzel and Doug Larson and some excellent first-year talent.

The newcomers who have proved their value include Emil Carlson of Valley City, Jon Haaven of East Grand Forks, Chuck Aakhus of Bemidji, Dale Cox and Bob Doda of Grand Forks and Ron Lackie.

Lee T. Bollinger, ex 1915, died recently at a Rugby, N. D., hospital after an illness of several years. He had farmed in the Wolford vicinity for 35 years. He is survived by his wife, his mother, and a sister.

Hampered by the annual trouble—a late practice start because of no ice—the University hockey team gained an even split in its first four games and Coach Cliff Purpur is cautiously predicting that he may have the best Sioux ice team in history.

The Sioux opened with a two-game series at Sioux City, Iowa, against the Suhawks of the American Amateur league. They went down to 9-7 and 7-6 defeats after having skated only three times before going into action.

The following week-end, opening the home schedule, the Sioux knocked off the Winnipeg Blackhaws of the Winnipeg Junior league twice, 5-0 and 7-3. The first-game shut-out, the first by a Sioux goalie since 1947, was authored by Sophomore Al Finkelstein of Winnipeg, who shoved out 47 drives.

Improvement was seen in all departments of play over the shaky work of the Sioux City series and although there will be some disruption of practice over the holidays, Purpur hopes to have his squad in top condition for the first vital series of the new year, a two-game home stand against the University of Michigan, last year's national champion.

Havig Gives Scholarship

A $100 scholarship will again be presented this year by Henry Havig of Grand Forks, a 1931 graduate.

Havig makes the award each year to a sophomore, junior or senior athlete who has demonstrated proficiency of high caliber in sports.

The award is also based on scholarship, character and need. James Bischke of Grand Forks received the award last year.

Tax Law On Gifts Explained

A University alumnus, sending a large gift to the Development fund, passed along this idea, which may be worth the consideration of all alumni.

Income tax laws provide that one does not pay a tax when no gain or loss is realized on any property given to the University.

Here is an illustration of the point:

A man purchased 10 shares of stock at $10 a share in 1940. Today that stock is valued at $100 per share. It has increased 10 times in value. He has made a profit of $900 on the stock. He may give the securities to the University and receive credit for a gift of $1,000. He does not pay income tax on his paper profit.

Alumni at Kansas City Name Mehus
