Medical Project Speeded

A resolution to allow purchase of equipment and supplies for the proposed $600,000 addition to the University medical school building was passed at the executive meeting of the state medical center advisory committee here.

Under the resolution, school of medicine personnel would be allowed to speed purchase of equipment and supplies due to the urgent need for the addition.

Plans for the addition are now being prepared.

The resolution will be submitted to the state board of higher education and to UND President John C. West for action.

The council also urged the state to appropriate a budget sufficient to maintain the recently won accreditation of the state medical school.

Members of the council attending were W. W. Murrey of Fargo, president, labor representative; Dean W. F. Potter of the medical school; A. F. Arnason, state commissioner of higher education; G. S. Bakke, Grand Forks, hospitals; Dr. Leonard W. Larson, Bismarck, medical association; and R. H. Sherman, Bismarck, board of administration.

Basketball, Hockey Teams Battling for Top Honors

Basketball and hockey fans of the University Sioux, cheering for title contenders at the moment, should know within a few days whether their championship hopes will be realized or whether it will be another case of "wait until next year."

Louie Bogan's basketball team, now operating in the fieldhouse, pulled into a tie for first place in the North Central conference by upending South Dakota, 63-58, for a five won, two lost loop record. The two defeats were suffered at the hands of Iowa Teachers, a loss which was later avenged here, and Morningside, on the Sioux court.

Face Tough Trip

The Sioux have a tough road trip coming, playing at Morningside and University of South Dakota, and it is essential that they gain at least a split in those games if they are to have a chance of winning the title. After those two clashes, all that remains are the traditional battles with the North Dakota State Bison.

The Bison have been in the title chase all the way and when the Sioux beat South Dakota it knotted the North Dakota teams in a tie for first. The season-ending series with the Bison is the usual four-game affair, two here and two at Fargo. If one team sweeps the series or wins three of the four games, it counts for two loop victories. An even split means each team gets credit for a win and a loss.

Bogan did some shifting of personnel before arriving at a settled starting five and although the team has made hard work of winning on occasion, it has proved capable of stopping the best. Chuck Wolfe, last year's conference scoring leader, is back in his old form at one forward spot. Harvey Burkholder, a senior has taken over the center job and Rube Entzel, another veteran, gets the other starting forward assignment.

George Razook, a freshman, and Bill McGinley, a letterman, have won the regular guard spots. Strong reserves however, have played a vital role in bringing the club into its present lofty position.

Hockey Team 3d

Cliff Purpur's hockey team, drawing packed crowds into the Winter Sports building, is in third place in the Midwest Hockey conference with a fighting chance of winning one of the two places allotted the western zone for the NCAA championship tournament in the spring. Michigan and Denver are ahead of the University six.

The Sioux broke even with Michigan and Minnesota in two-game series with each club here, swept a pair from Michigan Tech here and won three of four from Michigan State and Michigan Tech in a long road jaunt.

They have the toughest part of their schedule left and it may prove too tough. February 15 and 16 they play at Minnesota, then move west for two games each with Colorado college and University of Denver. The latter four games will undoubtedly be the deciding one as far as championship aspirations are concerned.

At this writing, the Sioux have the nation's leading collegiate point-maker in Ben Cherski of Edmonton.

University Historians Collect N. D. Papers

A project initiated by University of North Dakota historians will preserve North Dakota history in a way that the life and spirit of the times will live on in future studies.

The University department of history and the University library have started a collection of the letters, manuscripts, and other papers of important people and businesses in the state from the days of the first settlers to the present. The collection is housed in the UND library.

Such a collection of papers offers historians and others seeking fuller understanding of present events through past happenings the most vivid recreation of past times.

A gift of $2,000 was received by the University geology department from the Hunt Oil Co., for the purchase of books relating to petroleum geology.

Dr. Wilson M. Laird, head of the department and state geologist, received word of the gift from William Herbert Hunt.

In his letter to Dr. Laird, Hunt stressed the position of the UND department in training qualified geologists and technical men especially familiar with the Williston basin.

ON OLYMPIC TEAM

A former All-American defenseman for the University of North Dakota hockey team was named to the U. S. Olympic hockey team for 1952. He is John Noah of Crookston, who played four years of hockey with the Sioux. The 1952 winter games will be held at Oslo, Norway. Gordon (Ginny) Christian of Warroad, another former Sioux star, also tried out for the Olympic team.

Add Names To List of Fund Donors

The following names were unintentionally omitted from the New York list of contributors published in the January 16 issue of the ALUMNI REVIEW:

George Talbert '41, Brooklyn; Marian Hagen '25, Rochester; Martin Markowitz '31, Brooklyn; J. J. Garguilo '50, Cairo; Alice G. Loe, '33, New York City; Emerich Robitschek '49, New York; Anne M. Uglum '32, New Rochelle; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Flaten '28 (Gladys Dahle '26), New York City; Mrs. Elmo Christenson (Kathryn Goddard) '26; Warren T. Harpster '42, Kenmare; William S. Holmes '51, New York City; Mrs. L. M. Call (Dorothy Upham) '26, Niagara Falls; R. W. Graham '13, Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Boyce '17 (Jennie Gale '17) Manhasset; Lt. Col. and Mrs. Donn Robertson (Elaine Swiggum) '38, APO New York City; Harry Nyquist '14, New York City; Abram Silvers '32, Elmhurst; Emerson Church '23, New York City.

Editor's note: The Alumni office and the Review editor were collectively red-faced after the January 16 issue appeared minus the name of A. H. Flaten, colonel in charge of the New York state Development Fund drive. Flaten did one of the outstanding jobs in the country in taking charge of the New York drive. He was one of the first contributors and a generous one. Also, the New York drive was one of the first to be completed. The editor and publisher apologize for their error.

ELECT OFFICERS

Officers of the University Student Union were elected at a meeting at which plans were also made to set up a replacement fund for furniture and rentals for facilities of the campus social and recreational center were discussed. George Longmire of Grand Forks, University alumnus, was named president. Harvey Jacobson, Langdon journalism student, was named president and Sandra Stangebye of Mott secretary-treasurer.

● University Historians

When historians, biographers and other analysts can study the letters and papers of people or businesses concerning a specific subject or period, they can obtain a fuller understanding of the true thoughts concerning the subject or period.

With such information it becomes easier to evaluate past events in their proper perspective and to follow the chain of events from the past right down to the present.

University historians say, "We'll take the papers with any strings the relatives or friends care to attach. Our idea is to see these papers are preserved and not destroyed, even if they cannot be used immediately.

Want Letters, Memos

"We are interested in letters, memos and records of any kind that families or firms in the region may have, as it is from this information from ordinary people that the true skein of background patterns can be reviewed."

They would like to inspect records of firms for possible historical value. Files of potato, sugar beet, wheat, and livestock firms as well as records of old industries and businesses may prove to be of great historic value, they emphasized, in illustrating the agricultural business history of the land.

Significant to the social historians are letters and papers of the state's early immigrant population.

North Dakota has a vivid, living history that has long been relegated to the background. For the benefit of present and future residents of this state, this history should be brought into the open where it can be of value.

Inquiries regarding use of the manuscript collection or with regard to donations or loans should be addressed to Professors Louis G. Geiger and Elwyn B. Robinson of the department of history or to Miss Della Mathys, University librarian.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Ryerson, 1948 (Audrey Overby, 1949) are living in Hunter, N. D., where he owns and operates the local Gamble store. They have a baby daughter, born January 4, 1952.

Students at University Represent All Counties

Students of the University hail from all North Dakota counties and 21 states, besides Alaska, Hawaii, District of Columbia and eight foreign countries, the registrar's office reported.

Distribution of 2,152 of the school's 2,162 students was shown in a report prepared by Registrar Ruby McKenzie which indicated 1,666 of the students come from North Dakota and 347 from Minnesota.

Forty students registered from foreign countries with 30 of these coming from Canada. Norway, Turkey and Chile are represented by two students each, and Bolivia, British Guiana, China and Korea by one each.

Of other states represented, Illinois has 18; Wisconsin, 16; Montana, 11; California, 7; Connecticut and South Dakota, 6 each; Indiana, and Pennsylvania, 5 each; Massachusetts, 3; D. C., Iowa, Michigan and Ohio, 2; and Alabama, Idaho, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Oregon, Tennessee and West Virginia, 1 each. There are five from Hawaii and one from Alaska.

Leading North Dakota counties are: Grand Forks, 667; Cass, 77; Burleigh, 63; Walsh and Ward, 62 each; Pembina, 58; Ramsey, 44; Williams, 38; Stutsman and Mountrail, 34 each; Cavalier, 30; Nelson 28; Morton, 27; Richland, 25; Benson, 23; Traill and Barnes, 21 each; Bottineau and Towner, 20 each; Dickey, 19; McLean and Stark, 18; Foster and McHenry, 17 each; Rolette, 16; Pierce, 15; and Steele and Divide, 14 each.

Others represented are: Burke, 13; Griggs, Hettinger, LaMoure, Mercer, and Ransom, 12 each; Wells, 11; Renville and McIntosh, 9 each; Sargent, Dunn and Eddy, 8 each; Logan, 7; Golden Valley and Kidder, 6 each; Adams and Sheridan, 4 each; Billings, Emons, McKenzie and Sioux, 2 each; and Bowman, Grant and Oliver, 1 each.

RATE HIGH

In a nation-wide accounting student testing program conducted by the American Institute of Accountants to furnish a placement service on a national basis, University of North Dakota students rated higher than the national average based on the 1949 normal.

Graduate Services Expanded

A new program of off-campus graduate classes will be inaugurated by the University of North Dakota this semester at Minot and Bismarck as an expansion of the institution's state-wide service.

The program, approved by the state board of higher education and the University council, will be directed by Dean Garold Holstine of the University school of education and Dr. Daryle Keefer, director of the graduate division.

Organized like the Saturday graduate classes at the University, the program will offer courses that require a minimum of library research work, due to the distance from the University library.

They will, however, make it possible for many persons to take up to 12 hours of graduate credit work without having to go to the expense and time of traveling all the way to Grand Forks.

Dr. James H. Hoskins, ex 1918, is in private practice in Sioux Falls, S. D.
