WHAT ABOUT The

Little Guy?

HOW DO

You

MEASURE UP?

You're one of 14,000.

Numerically, you're a little guy, but you're more than a statistic to your University of North Dakota!

The past four years have been years of remarkable progress for the Development Fund—the strong right arm of the University of North Dakota. And, your contributions have played a major role in this period of expansion.

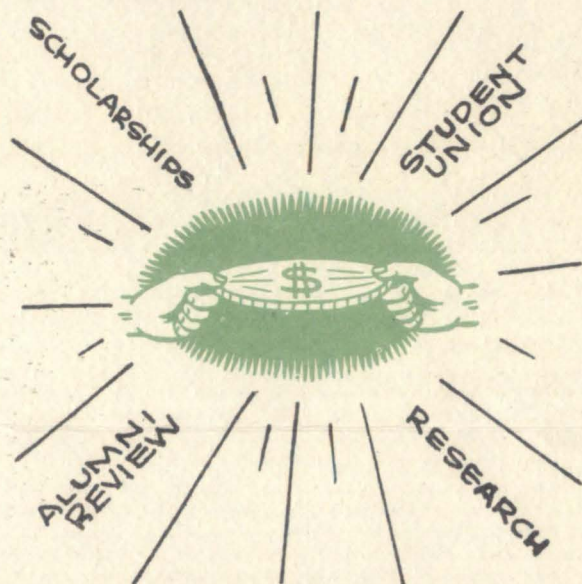

On the cover of this special edition of the Alumni Review, you'll see tangible evidence that UND is "big time." We beat Harvard!

Your contribution will help the University to keep on growing . . . to achieve even greater success.

We may be "little guys" from a "little school." But, your contribution — as much as you can reasonably give — will build a Greater University of North Dakota in the decade that lies ahead.

YOUR SHARE IN UND IS NOT MEASURED BY HOW MUCH YOU GIVE.

Your DOLLAR GOES A LONG, LONG WAY!

● ALUMNI REVIEW

. . . Your Development Fund dollar provides the funds for publishing and mailing the Alumni Review. Published a minimum of ten times each year, the Alumni Review reaches alumni and former students in every state and in many foreign countries.

● STUDENT UNION

. . . Your Development Fund dollar has made possible the new Memorial Student Union. To date, $250,000 has been given by Alumni and friends for this structure. A few rooms remain to be furnished, and Development Fund dollars will make these possible.

● RESEARCH

. . . Your Development Fund dollar will provide funds for research in medicine and engineering. New funds must be provided to further research into new problems.

● SCHOLARSHIPS

. . . Your Development Fund dollar will provide scholarships for many worthy students. We now face the problem of providing funds to match the gift of approximately $250,000 by J. F. T. O'Connor. Work must start on this project immediately.

YOUR DEVELOPMENT FUND DOLLAR IS ALLOCATED AND BUDGETED BY THE UNIVERSITY ALUMNI BOARD OF DIRECTORS WITH THE ASSISTANCE OF THE PRESIDENT, SO THAT IT WILL BEST SERVE THE INTERESTS OF YOUR UNIVERSITY.

"1951 To Be Another Big Year at Our University!"

ALTHOUGH the outlook for the student body here, as well as for the people all over the world, is uncertain for 1951 we are going ahead with plans toward making this another big year at our University.

Already this year has been one of drastic change in the routine of campus life. First, the mobilization of the 47th national guard division has taken about 100 men from our campus. The medical unit on the campus, commanded by Dean W. W. Renke, made up the bulk of this loss, the uncertain draft laws have prompted others to enlist bringing the total estimated 10 per cent drop by the second semester according to Miss Ruby McKenzie, registrar.

With the new year we are also coming to realize the advantage of the close alumni cooperation with the student body. We can proudly direct our attention to a nearly completed Memorial Student Union. Also, in the realm of post-war accomplishments, which are not "so wild a dream" but reality, is the appearance of our completed Medical building, Lignite lab, and the construction on the engineering building, field house, men and women's dorms, bearing out the advantages of a spirit of close cooperation.

Regardless of the hazy outlook for 1951 we are still moving forward into the possibility of constructing an artificial ice plant on the campus to increase the effectiveness of our "Fighting Sioux" hockey team, which ranks with the top teams of the nation. The hockey team started the year by splitting a series with a strong Harvard club, and has gone on to set Michigan State two straight, and whip Michigan Tech two in a row.

Despite the loss of Captain Bob Krumholz, a guard member, the Sioux sextet is looking forward to the King Kold Karnival series with Minnesota. The Karnival, sponsored by Blue Key, is being held for the second time this year, and should rank high on the social calendar, with snow sculpting, queen selection, "face-off party" and dance.

This year should find us taking steps in the direction of making the field house the home of one of the biggest athletic plants in the upper mid-west with the possible addition of a much needed swimming pool.

Coach Glenn Jarrett's basketball team has also felt the impact of mobilization with the loss of two regulars, Jim Bischke and Pete Simonson. Even under the handicap of armory facilities and the loss of these key cagers, students are predicting a four game sweep of the AC series for the Nodaks.

Frank Zazula, head football coach, will look toward next fall minus the assistance of Roy "Rocky" Hausauer, a lieutenant with the guard. Zaz's 1950 Sioux were picked the number one team in North Dakota by AP pollsters, even after the Kentucky Derby. The 1951 Sioux will be riding the "dark horse" toward a conference championship.

The cover for the 1951 Dacotah annual will bloom with a wild rose design. Editor Elaine LeTourneau's publication will display the close tie between state and University as its theme.

The Dakota Playmakers will round out their season with the scheduling of "Night Must Fall," and "Ah, Wilderness," to be shown this spring. The players presented six plays selected to give variety to their program; works of playwrights from Chekov to O'Neil.

Plans are underway to make the 1951 Flickertail Follies, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, as great as last year when Life magazine covered the show. The show is scheduled for April 30, May 1 and 2. Even with the decrease in male enrollment, remaining students are anxious to continue the Follies tradition, which this year will mark its 26th anniversary. Last year, under the profit sharing plan, the show contributed about $2,000 to the Student Union, bringing the three year total to nearly $5,000 dollars.

The little things, which combine to make the memory of the University a long lasting pleasure still remain. . . . Carney sing, the Lily, house decorations, queens, inter-fraternity sing, convos, pep rallies, dream men, Shadow Ball, Band Blare, Greek-Independent elections, Law Banquet, Engineers Day, Sigma Taus, Phi Betes, Spinster Skip and AC Series, all hold their place in the orbit which revolves around . . . registration, classes, finals and all important graduation at UND.

The Dakota Student, which mirrors the life on the campus of your University, looks forward to the new year with the hope that it will be another year of continued progress.

Best Wishes,

A. L. MONROE

Greetings From the University President

Your steadfast and ever generous support has helped to make the past several years outstanding ones for the University. Thanks to your unflinching efforts the University of North Dakota is a larger and finer institution than ever before.

Now we glance ahead to a time of threatening war. Many of our students are in the National Guard, others are even now preparing to defend the ideals and the way of life which are part of our country and our University.

I cannot foretell the hardships and trials the future may bring. But whatever comes, I do know this. We need each other. Now, perhaps more than in the past, the support of loyal alumni will help to brighten the way and shoulder to shoulder we will emerge from this test a little wiser and a little bigger and a little better than we are now.

My good wishes are yours for 1951 and all the days ahead. Thank you for your continuing support and encouragement.

Cordially yours,

JOHN C. WEST

Greetings From the Alumni President

As this is written, 1951 is just barely started, and — like most businessmen — we find ourselves taking inventory, and weighing the factors that confront us with the event of a new year.

So far as your Alumni Association is concerned, 1951 will be a year when we face an even greater task in keeping UND on the expansion pace of the past few years.

You can be very proud of the progress that has marked the post-war period of the University. The physical changes have been great, and these improvements have made UND one of the finest institutions of higher learning.

Your contribution in 1951 will enable us to maintain this period of growth, and to be of vital assistance in the solving of uncertainties that your University faces on a clouded horizon.

Give to your Development Fund! It's a deductible item from your tax report, yet it adds up to new strength for UND!

Sincerely,

J. B. BRIDSTON,
President,

Alumni Association,
University of North Dakota
