DR. THOMAS F. KANE

Former U President Dies at 89

Thomas F. Kane, president of the University of North Dakota from 1918 to 1933, died April 10 at his home in Seattle. He was 89.

Dr. Kane, long active in American educational circles, had been in retirement from the field since he left the University presidency.

He was born at Westfield, Ind., May 5, 1863, the son of Dr. and Mrs. John M. Kane. Dr. Kane attended Westfield public high school and graduated from De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind., in 1883. He acquired a masters degree in education there three years later.

Leaving DePauw, Dr. Kane entered John Hopkins University, Baltimore, where he received his doctor of philosophy degree in 1895. He was married in 1896.

His first work in the education field was a professorship of Latin and Greek at the Lewis College Institute of Chi-

College of Education Established in 1883

The College of Education was established at the founding of the University in 1883. It was known as the Normal College. Subsequent revisions of the code retained the title until 1907, when the title of Teachers' College was assigned.

In 1909, the sum of $60,000 was appropriated for the first building and dedicated to the professional purposes of the Teachers' College. The code revision in 1913 continued the same title. However, in 1943 the Revised Code approved by the Legislature assigned the title College of Education. The term "School of Education" was used until 1953, when the Board of Higher Education re-established the legal title.

Function Explained

The preparation of professional school personnel is the primary function of the College of Education. This includes preparation at the undergraduate level for secondary teachers and the graduate level for teachers and administrators in schools and colleges. Baccalaureate graduates of the College of Education are issued accredited First Grade Professional Certificates (without fee) by the certification division of the State Department of Public Instruction.

Those who complete the program for the Master's Degrees in administration are qualified to meet requirements of North Dakota, Minnesota and in almost all other states for administrative certificates.

Many Fields Covered

There are sixteen budget departments in the College of Education, including Art, Business Education, Women's Physical Education, Elementary Education, Home Economics, Industrial Arts, Library Education, Music, Philosophy, Psychology, Secondary Education, Student Teaching, and Teacher Placement.

The degree Bachelor of Science in Education is offered with majors in more than 20 broad teaching fields and minors in more than 30 teaching fields.

5 Centers Established

Five off-campus Graduate Education Centers have been established since February, 1952, throughout North Dakota. These centers include Minot, Bismarck, Valley City, Wahpeton and Williston. University professors from the College of Education teach at these centers Saturdays during the regular semesters.

This procedure makes it possible for larger classes and a greater distribution of professional services through the area served. Saturday class credit is limited to 12 semester hours for each student. Each student may enroll in two Saturday class courses each semester.

To Enroll Freshmen

Freshman students will be enrolled in the College of Education beginning with the fall semester of 1953, restoring a procedure followed through 1949. A new four-year advisement program for students interested in teacher education has been developed and will be established immediately.

College of Education

Departments in the College of Education provide courses for more than 1,000 different University students each semester. Education, Women's Physical Education, Home Economics, Business Education and Music have the highest number of class enrollments. More than 125 students complete student teaching courses and are available for teaching positions each year.

200 Graduates Enrolled

More than 200 Graduate Division students are enrolled in courses in the Department of Education alone each semester. During the summer term there are more than 400 Graduate Division students enrolled in courses taught by the Department of Education. The Psychology Department ranks second during the summer session with graduate students.

With the large demand for teachers and administrators, it is anticipated that the enrollment will increase substantially in the years ahead.

Both undergraduate and graduate Education and Psychology courses have been evaluated and re-grouped according to areas of professional work during the current school year.

Courses Outlined

On the undergraduate level the areas include Orientation to Professional Education, Human Growth and Development, The School in American Democratic Culture, Evaluation and Guidance, General Methods, Materials and Curriculum and Special Methods and Supervised Teaching. Twenty hours of professional courses are provided in this pattern.

Graduate Education courses are divided into the area of General Education, Elementary Education, Secondary Education, School Administration, and Higher Education (Teacher Education). Graduate Psychology courses include General, Educational, Experimental, Guidance and Counseling, Applied and Clinical. Curriculum offerings have been expanded during the current year. Other departments offer courses leading to a minor on the Master's level. The Graduate Division offers degrees in Master of Science in Education, Master of Education, Doctor of Education, and Doctor of Philosophy for students taking courses in these departments.

Start New Building

Ground has been broken for the new $600,000 College of Education Building to replace Woodworth Hall.

The new building will be constructed just north of the Engineering Building east of the Mall. Four floors will house the enlarged Music Department, the Administrative Offices of the College and the Departments of Education, Psychology, Philosophy, Business Education, Art, Placement Bureau and Educational services. These departments are now housed in seven different University buildings. Occupancy is expected sometime during the school year of 1954.

To Enlarge Music Work

Plans are being made to enlarge the music offerings in provisions made in the new Education Building. The entire ground floor will be occupied by the Music Department. Fourteen individual practice rooms, three studios for applied Music, and large rehearsal rooms for band and orchestra and chorus are being constructed.

The new emphasis on Music will reflect favorably on the opportunities in Music and Music education at the University. Considerations are being worked out in a proposal made by Wesley College Trustees to relinquish all applied Music to the University.

List Requirements

Professional requirements for academic rank above that of an instructor for all faculty members in the Department of Education include either the Doctor of Philosophy or Doctor of Education degrees. The Master's degree is the required minimum in all other departments in the College. New appointments will be holders of the doctorate whenever properly qualified persons are available. Persons with successful experience in public schools are employed by the College of Education.

The College of Education is fully accredited for teacher education by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. A re-visitation and evaluation has been scheduled for the fall of 1953 as a part of the regular visitation schedule for these associations.

Services Outlined

Professional services provided to North Dakota by the College of Education include: (1) Professional addresses to Civic Clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations, In-Service Education Conferences, Annual Commencements, Professional Organizations, etc; (2) Consultative Services; (3) Community Educational and School Building Surveys; (4) Judging in School Activities; (5) Music Concerts; (6) Guidance Services; (7) Educational Testing Bureau Services; (8) Teacher Placement Services; (9) Clinical Services for Handicapped Children and Adults; and other Special Services available through the Departments of Art, Business Education, Physical Education, Industrial Arts, Home Economics, Nursery School, Music, and Education.
