

2021

Leaving

Timothy B. Dodd

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!

Follow this and additional works at: <https://commons.und.edu/floodwall-magazine>

Part of the Fiction Commons, Nonfiction Commons, Photography Commons, and the Poetry Commons

Recommended Citation

Dodd, Timothy B. (2021) "Leaving," Floodwall Magazine: Vol. 1: Iss. 5, Article 1.
Available at: <https://commons.und.edu/floodwall-magazine/vol1/iss5/1>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by UND Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Floodwall Magazine by an authorized editor of UND Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact und.common@library.und.edu.

Leaving

Is it with loneliness or excitement that I look out into the night from my carriage window, waiting for the train to leave the station, darkness punctured by only a few lights, their dim glow juggling death and eternity and Rembrandt. Rumbling through the station, a coal train on another track, weighed down by industry and its own burning, its wheels screeching with underground screams. Two scraggly dogs hump to the noise and a grey-haired depot worker plugs his ears, logs departures in a tatty book. At my side a pregnant woman stares at me like I did it. Do we head for a new country? Or should I offer a plum to her before we disappear?

About Timothy B. Dodd

Timothy B. Dodd is from Mink Shoals, WV. His writing has appeared in Yemassee, Main Street Rag, The William & Mary Review, and elsewhere. He is currently an MFA candidate at the University of Texas - El Paso.