Supervising some 300 editors, photographers, writers and researchers (as well as an army of freelance picture-takers), Ed must see each week's issue to press, picture by picture, word by word—as well as make plans for future editions of Life.

A shirt-sleeve type editor Thompson seems to thrive on all of this activity and pressure. At least he's been doing it now since August, 1949, and he says the multitude of decisions he has to make now seem like second nature to him.

Coming from St. Thomas, Thompson was graduated from the University of North Dakota with a major in Journalism in June, 1927, after having served as editor of the Dakota Student (when it was a daily) in 1926-1927. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his senior year.

He worked for the Carrington Independent and the Fargo Forum before joining the staff of the Milwaukee Journal. He was with that publication for 10 years, serving as picture editor and assistant news editor, before becoming assistant picture editor of Life in October, 1937.

Serving with the Air Force in World War II, he edited the confidential air intelligence magazine Impact. He was decorated with the U. S. Legion of Merit and the Order of the British Empire before completing his tour of duty as a lieutenant colonel.

Thompson returned to the Life staff in 1945 as assistant managing editor and took over the editorial reins four years later.
