ALIMNI REVIEW

VOLUME XXXVI

GRAND FORKS, NORTH DAKOTA - October 6, 1958

Number 3

Athletic Director On Leave

GLENN JARRETT

Glenn Jarrett, University athletic director, has requested and has been granted a leave of absence for the first semester of the 1958-59 school year because of illness.

Leonard Marti, director of physical education, was named by President George W. Starcher to serve as acting athletic director during Jarrett's absence.

A star athlete at Grand Forks Central High School and an all-time athletic great at the University, Jarrett obtained his degree in 1931 and became football coach at Minot High School. He was brought back to his alma mater in 1938 by the late C. A. West, head coach of the Sioux, as an assistant.

West retired as football coach in 1942 to give full time to his duties as director of athletics and Jarrett became head coach. A year later he was commissioned in the Navy, returning to the University as coach after his discharge.

Jarrett was made director of athletics in 1945, when West retired, and gave up football and basketball coaching in 1949.

Game, 25-8

After two straight non-conference defeats, the University football team opened its North Central Conference campaign with a 25-8 victory over Morningside at Sioux City, Ia.

The team lost its opener to Bemidji State, 13-6, and looked very bad. The following week the Sioux dropped a 15-8 decision to Montana State in the season opener in Memorial Stadium but showed vast improvement in all departments.

Against Morningside, the Sioux started slowly but after a stumbling first half came back to dominate the Maroons completely and won easily.

Coach Mary Helling and his aides are working with the biggest squad in several years and the week-to-week improvement in last year's reserves and this year's sophomores is figured to make the Sioux a contender in the conference race for the first time in many seasons.

Sioux Win U Enrollment Totals First Loop 3,721 for New Mark

Enrollment at the University has reached an all-time high of more than 3,700.

A total of 3,721 students registered, showing a rise of 171 over the 3,550 enrolled at the same time a year ago. Although somewhat lower than previous estimates, since regi-

$5,000 Available For Research

In April, 1958, the North Dakota Board of Higher Education made available $5,000 to be used during this fiscal year for the support of research or creative projects undertaken by members of this faculty.

A faculty committee was subsequently appointed to establish procedures for allocation of these funds, to receive applications, and to recommend grants-in-aid for worthy projects. Approximately half the money allocated for this fiscal year has been assigned in grants made during the past spring and summer.

stration continues through Oct. 1, the final semester total will not be available until later.

Of the 3,721 students, 2,760 are men and 961 are women.

Enrollment by colleges and divisions is as follows (over-all total is followed by the men's total and the women's total):

University College (freshmen), 1,090 (697 men-393 women); College of Science, Literature and Arts, 702, (460-242); College of Education, 409, (214-195); College of Business and Public Administration, 478, (453-25); College of Engineering, 534, (531-3); School of Law, 100, (99-1); School of Medicine, 75, (74-1); Division of Nursing, 42, (1-41); Special and unclassified, 62, (28-34); and Graduate School, 229, (203-26).

The previous enrollment record at UND was 3,673, the final figure for the first semester of 1957-58.

To meet the enrollment rise, the University is making several adjustments, President George W. Starcher stated. He said that the staff is being increased and time schedules are being arranged to permit handling of the enrollment, with some classes meeting at night due to limited classroom and laboratory facilities.

Starcher said the University's expansion has created several needs, some of the most crucial falling in the following areas:

1. Facilities for administration. The administration building, "Old Main," has been in use since 1884, when the student body consisted of only 75 students.

2. Laboratory space. Research is hampered by lack of facilities, such as in the chemistry department. The Chemistry Building, built in 1919 to accommodate 400 students, is now forced to handle more than 800.

3. A geology-mineral industries building. Related depart-(Continued on Page Four)
