ALUMNI REVIEW

VOL. XXXVII

GRAND FORKS, NORTH DAKOTA, DECEMBER, 1959

NO. 7

REPORT FROM THE CAMPUS

By J. Lloyd Stone

This is my Christmas Greeting to you for this year—another Yuletide "Report from the Campus."

Many UND alumni and friends told me that they liked last year's Holiday roundup of latest happenings in the land of the Sioux—so here goes again.

I had some real thrilling news to report in last year's edition—the University football team had just won its first North Central Conference championship in 21 years. Things didn't go so well this fall.

Coach Marv Helling and his gridders started off the 1959 campaign with high hopes. They defeated Montana University, 27-19, in the opener. Then they tied Augustana, 22-22, in the second game. (That was the same night that NDAC and South Dakota U played a similar 22-22 tie at Fargo. How about that?)

After that the roof sort of fell in, injuries and weather conditions especially unfavorable to the Sioux resulted in five losses—but the UND forces did come out on top in the big one, beating NDAC, 20-15. (And the Sioux freshmen walloped the NDAC frosh, 84-0. Wow!)

Hockey Prediction Rings the Bell

Last year's Christmas column predicted that the Sioux varsity hockey team would bring home the national NCAA championship. And that is exactly what it did.

So here's another prediction:

This year's Sioux ice squad, under its new coach, Barry Thorndycraft, should repeat by winning, not only the title in the new Western Collegiate Hockey Association, but the NCAA national crown as well.

More on the sports picture, and the basketball and hockey situations, a bit later.

Expansion, Progress Key Words on Campus

The UND physical plant expands, the student enrollment increases, and the stature of the institution grows noticeably year by year.

President George W. Starcher summed it up in a talk to a Grand Forks service club the other day.

Three major structures, he said, now in the planning stage, are:

A new $1,000,000 library building, to be built with a gift in that amount from Chester Fritz, international investment banker and UND alumnus;

An $850,000 administration building to replace Old Main, to be built with a state appropriation;

An $830,000 chemistry building, for which the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare added $84,027 for research facilities to $750,000 provided for construction by the state legislature.

A $600,000 construction program, now in progress on the campus, includes 62 housing units for married students.

Construction of another women's dormitory in the near future is on the University "must" list. Others high on the list are geology and engineering buildings, and a fine arts-theater structure.

"The quality of our students is improving and the faculty is the best the University has ever had," President Starcher said. As the biggest problem for the future, he listed: continued strengthening of the faculty.

Running UND Is 'Bia Business'

Financial operations of the University rank with those of the largest businesses of the state.

More than $5,000,000 is spent annually through the UND Business Office.

Of this, approximately $3,-750,000 comes from state appropriations, including student fees. About $1,350,000 additional is derived through auxiliary enterprises, such as dormitory fees, Student Union activities and the University Bookstore.

Enrollment Goes Up and Up and Up

Approximately 3,900 students are enrolled for the current semester at UND—marking an increase of 54 per cent in the past five years. The ratio of men to women is about the same as always, though, 2,800 men to 1,100 co-eds.

About 2,600 of the students now are housed on the campus, many of them in five new dormitories built in recent years. The other 1,300 reside in the city of Grand Forks.

It's 'Camelback Time' Once More

About the time you will be reading this, 200 UND alumni from all parts of the United States will be attending the annual reunion at Camelback Inn. Phoenix, Ariz.

This is the 10th annual renewal of the highly successful gathering at Jack Stewart's sunbathed hostelry.

Nodak reunion-ers may, or may not, be able to take advantage of the "cut-rate" lemonade business which Jack's young daughter, Louise, set up on the Camelback grounds. She was serving her "lemo" for a nickle, while Dad Jack was getting (or trying to get) 50 cents for his in the inn cholla. The stunt got a goodnatured notice, with pictures, in the Phoenix press.

'On to Hawaii' Next Sioux 'Warchant'

Next big dates on the Nodak Alumni Calendar are February 25 to March 3, 1960 —the Hawaiian Holiday time.

Because many alumni have inquired as to whether they will be able to participate in the Hawaiian reunion events if they are not members of the University tour party, this policy has been established by the Alumni Club of Hawaii:

"All University alumni in the Hawaiian Islands during the University tour, either residents or visitors, are cordially invited to attend the Alumni Banquet at 6:30 p.m., February 29, 1960, at the Kanraku Teahouse in Honolulu. However, private parties and tours being sponsored for alumni in the Islands are for University tour guests only. It should be pointed out that more than 125 Shrine guests, many of them UND alumni, will be in the Islands during our reunion. All of these alumni and their guests are cordially invited to the Alumni Banquet February 29. Reservations may be made by calling Vernon K. Saiki, 3141 George St., Honolulu 15, home phone 7-1274 or business phone 6-2211."

The program for the visiting party, in addition to the banquet, includes a six-hour tour on March 1. Points to be visited include Mount Tantalus, Punchbowl Cemetery, visits to the governor and mayor, lunch at Waioli Tea-

John Howard Feted At Civic Testimonial

There's something missing on the University campus this fall-John Howard and his familiar cigar are no longer on the scene. It doesn't seem right, somehow.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard were honored at a testimonial dinner in the Student Union, with more than 400 campus and city friends joining to pay them tribute. The dinner was sold out more than a week before the event.

John was praised for his 32 years as a teacher, musician, club member, administrator and citizen. Mrs. Howard came in for equal praise as his helpmate and inspiration. They were presented with a bound volume of letters from friends and admirers in Grand Forks and throughout the nation.

To keep busy in "retirement," John is now directing St. James' High School band in Grand Forks.

O'Connor Will Needs Interpretation

The University stands to gain approximately $250,000 for its scholarship fund under the terms of the will of the late J. F. T. O'Connor, UND alumnus.

The will went into effect with the death November 4 of L. E. (Larry) O'Connor, last surviving brother of J. F. T. O'Connor. Court interpretation, however, will be necessary to determine exact disposition of the estate, in which three other Grand Forks schools (St. Michael's, St. Mary's and St. James) are scheduled to share.

Involved is a provision that the schools match the O'Connor bequest within a year. The courts will be asked to resolve what happens if any or all of the schools fail to raise their required sums, and exactly what funds can be used for matching.

If no institution is found entitled to the benefits listed in the will, the residue of the estate goes to St. Michael's Hospital in Grand Forks.

Speaking for the University, President Starcher expressed "deep appreciation for this grant, which will advance higher education in North Dakota for years to come."

Harold D. Shaft, Grand Forks attorney representing the University, said that a petition likely will be sub-mitted to the court to gain instructions from the trustee. the Bank of America, as to how the grant should be distributed. Such a petition would not be filed, however, until Jan. 1, 1960, he said.

J. F. T. O'Connor, long a figure in North Dakota politics, became Comptroller of the Currency under President Roosevelt in 1933, and was a federal judge in California at the time of his death in 1949. His total estate is valued at more than $1,000,000.

Other Deaths Leave Mark on UND

Other deaths, too, have had their effect on UND.

The campus was again saddened by the November 4 death of Dr. Marcus J. Birrell, who was president of College in Grand Wesley Forks from 1948 to 1957. At the time of his death from a heart attack, Dr. Birrell was executive secretary of the Interboard Committee of Christian Vocations for the Methodist church. Mrs. Birrell, a son, and three daughters survive him.

The Birrells have been living in Nashville, Tenn.

Beatrice Johnstone's Memory Honored

Miss M .Beatrice Johnstone, for years the "Sweetheart of the UND Alumni Association" who died earlier this fall, has had an unusual honor paid to her memory.

An article about her by Dr. Ernest L. Grinnell, Grand Forks, which appeared in the May, 1959, edition of Senior Citizen magazine, has been reproduced by her "medical friends as a tribute to great-ness." The article is being widely distributed, to UND alumni and other friends of Miss Johnstone.

Mark This One On Your Calendar

The dates of next fall's Homecoming Weekend at the University are October 14 and 15, 1960.

Mark them down now, and plan to be here.

Why? The big game will be the UND Sioux vs. the NDAC Bison. That should be reason enough!

What Students Think About

"Student Council Discusses Mud Fight, Hockey Sticks.'

That was one of the top headlines in a recent edition of the Dakota Student.

The discussion on the mud (and/or water) fight resulted from a letter from President Starcher. He suggested naming of a committee to consider ways and means of keeping this perennial spring problem under control.

Later, at his traditional meeting with the Student Council at his home, the President lauded the students' "serious consideration" of this problem.

The expense of maintaining hockey as a major sport at UND was underlined in the discussion on the hockey budthat get, which revealed hockey sticks alone cost $2000 per year. While the Council considered building of a new hockey arena as one of the best ways to get hockey into the "black." President Starcher pointed out that it was economically impossible for the University to finance such a structure in the near fufootball campaign.

In addition to the wins over Montana and NDAC, and the Augustana tie, mentioned earlier, the Sioux met defeat at the hands of Morningside 24-6, South Dakota U 31-14. South Dakota State 6-0. Iowa Teachers 14-9, and Montana State 35-14.

Coach Mary (Whitey) Helling's 1959 Sioux could be called, as once was popular during World War II, "the walking wounded.'

At various times during the season injuries had crippled 14 of 18 lettermen. In fact, so many players were limping for the Homecoming game Helling was forced to start seven sophomores.

Beside the injury wave which hit the Sioux camp, weather played a very important role in determining the Sioux record. With a fast, light backfield, Helling's team needed dry fields. The record showed the Sioux played on four rain-drenched fields and two other games were played in winds of 35 to 45 miles per

Meanwhile, the 35 - man Sioux freshman football team won two of three games played. The Sioux yearlings turned back Bemidji State College junior varsity, 22-12, lost 28-

Helling loses 9 of 33 varsity players from his varsity squad through graduation. The gaps will have to be closed by the freshman gridders available.

Poor weather, loss of classroom time and mutual agreement brought about cancellation of the UND-Idaho State game, which was to be played here Nov. 11. The temperature here the morning of Nov. 11 was 10 degrees.

Jim Jarrett Grid Standout

Standout for the Sioux varsity grid team this season was Jim Jarrett, son of former Athletic Director Glenn (Red) Jarrett, '31. Jim played every backfield position and was outstanding in every game. He was named a halfback on the North Central Conference official all-star team.

Jim was in the forefront of all conference backs in punting and rushing for all three years he played on the varsity. He led the team in scoring in both 1958 and 1959 and was a key man on defense as well.

As he hung up his cleats for the last time, Jim said, "It has been more than worthwhile and I will cherish this experience the rest of my life."

New Conference In Talking Stage

On another athletic front, school administrators have begun talks on formation of a new athletic conference. While still definitely in the talking stage, the new loop would encompass UND, NDAC, South Dakota State, South Dakota University, all charter members of the 37-year-old North Central Conference; and Montana State, Montana University, Idaho State and Idaho University.

President Starcher represented UND at a St. Louis meeting of seven of the eight schools mentioned for membership in the new circuit. All expressed interest in the new conference. No official action has been taken.

University Loses
One 'Trademark'

With Alaska admitted to the Union as the 49th state, UND no longer qualifies as the "farthest north" state university in the nation. Alaska has its own 44-year-old university.

This news didn't seem to get through to the weatherman, though. He dropped his first load of snow and ice on the UND campus this fall earlier than in most years.

The Sioux and Bison freshmen played their football game between snowstorms, but the final varsity grid encounter with Idaho State was cancelled due to cold and snow, among other things.

Magazine Lauds UND Graduate

Odin Ramsland, '34, came in for a bit of deserved recognition in a recent issue of Broadcasting magazine. The article praised his success as general manager of KDAL radio and KDAL-TV in Duluth, Minn. Ramsland's daughter, Nancy, is enrolled at UND as a freshman this year.

Other Notes From the Campus

Seven occupational therapy students at UND have been awarded $3,300 in scholarships by the National Office of Vocational Rehabilitation. They are Mary Stall, Parshall; Muriel Norberg, Oslo, Minn.; Jean Monson, Fargo; Mrs. Sharon Marshall, Minot; Esther Lithun, Harvey; Sharon Kively, Minot, and H. Jean Haberstroh, Hillsboro.

Ralph M. Keeley, a University graduate, has contributed $150 to open a revolving loan fund for Madrigal members, in honor of his mother, Margaret Jane Keeley. This money will be added to memorials given to the Music Department in memory of Mrs. Alberta A. Harrington. The Music Department also has six Foundation Tuition Myhra Scholarships for music students in northeast North Dakota and the Presser Foundation Music Scholarship of $400.

Dr. R. E. Frank of the Chemistry Department was awarded a $1,500 grant for basic polarography research from the Frederich Gardner Cottrell Research Corp.

A new national social fraternity, Delta Upsilon, is in the process of organizing a chapter on the campus. DU, which has more than 80 chapters in various U. S. colleges, will be the twelfth social fraternity at UND.

Law School freshmen have elected Thomas C. Wold of Fargo as their president. James M. Stannard of Williston is vice president; Ronald W. Young of Grand Forks, treasurer, and Delores M. Jendro, Casselton, secretary.

Five new members have been pledged by the social work honorary: Wayne W. Burslie, Fertile, Minn.; Mrs. Sandra K. Moen, Grand Forks; Loydine S. Gullickson, Grand Forks; Jo Ann Yocum, Cass Lake, Minn., and Carol Rose, Grand Forks.

The UND chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalism fraternity, won the organization's Hogate Professional Achievement contest in competition with chapters from 70 other colleges. It placed fifth in the group's national efficiency contest. The awards were announced at Sigma Delta Chi's Golden Anniversary Convention in Indianapolis.

Ralph Sollom of Grand Forks was named Dream Man at the annual Spinster Skip. He was Beta Theta Pi's entrant in the contest.

President Emeritus and Mrs. John C. West have left Grand Forks for their annual winter stay in San Diego. They will stop over at Camelback for our reunion.

Eleven UND faculty members have been awarded grants for research and creative projects. Grants, varying from $100 to $500, went to Harold D. Bale, physics; Vera L. Facey, biology; Robert B. Campbell, sociology; Edward Halas. psychology; D. P. Naismith. mechanical engineering; Mark Rich, geology; Robert Nelson, art; Palmer Reitan, mechanical engineering: Dale Riepe. philosophy; Ralph Kolstoe, psychology, and Robert Rosenthal, psychology. Endorsed by the State Board of Higher Education, the program provides nominal grants to enable the professors to develop their ideas to the extent that larger grants might be requested from foundations.

The Profs Have

A new requirement for graduation at the University is a passing grade in a comprehensive English test, given to all students during the Junior year. This fall the test was given for the first time and 50 out of 500 Juniors who took it failed to pass. They'll get another chance at it before their graduation date rolls around.

Part of the trouble probably is underscored by a notation seen on a blackboard in Merrifield Hall.

It read: "No extra credit given for original spelling."

Cage, Ice Squads Prepare for Season

On the basketball and hockey fronts, teams have been working hard in daily practices to prepare for the 1959-60 seasons.

Coach Louis Bogan has a big rebuilding job under way, but the presence of a great freshman group makes the outlook in this sport somewhat brighter. On the varsity he will go with three veterans and 10 sophomores.

The 17-man freshman basketball squad, which includes some of the state's top prep talent of the past few years, showed that it is definitely upset-minded by defeating the varsity, 76-60, in a pre-season

Coach Barry Thorndycraft's defending NCAA championship hockey team has 10 lettermen to play a 30-game schedule in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association of UND, University of Minnesota, University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Michigan Tech, Denver University and Colorado College.

The hockey team got its season under way with three rousing intrasquad games in which 32 goals were scored.
