Judge Morrison Sets Up New Scholarship

A scholarship fund designed to assist physically impaired students at UND has been established by Judge Joe A. Morrison, ex-'20, of Glencoe, Minn.

Under terms of the award, two such students annually will receive awards of $100 each, according to J. Lloyd Stone, Alumni director and Executive vice president of the University Development Fund, to which Judge Morrison's contribution was made.

The scholarship has been designated as the Joseph Morrison Scholarship fund in memory of Judge Morrison's father, a Pembina county pioneer who lost his arm in a hunting accident in his early 20's. He, nevertheless, went on to become a leader in business, farming and public life.

It is with the thought of giving other impaired persons the same kind of encouragement and assistance that his father provided freely that Judge Morrison is setting up the scholarship.

Judge Morrison was raised at Drayton, N. D., and attended UND from 1917 to 1920, enrolling in the Liberal Arts College and the first year law course. He completed work for his law degree at the University of Michigan in 1922. He was admitted to law practice in Minnesota in 1923, and has been judge of probate and juvenile court of McLeod County since 1931.

He is one of two probate judges who served on a committee which revised the probate code. He has been a member of the Minnesota Bar Assn. probate code committee for 27 years and has been its chairman for 21 years.

He has served as president and secretary of the Probate Judges' Assn. and a member of the State Bar Assn. board of governors for 11 years. He was a member of the Judicial Council for five years.

He was married to Helen Olson, Madison, Minn. They have one son, J. Roger, a graduate of the University of Minnesota and Harvard Business School, and now a New York business consultant.

Think of Past But Live in Future

Grads With UND--All the Way

BY DR. E. L. GRINNELL, PRESIDENT

No longer do the war whoops of the Sioux echo among the cascos of Camelback Inn, nor do their campfires cast ageless humpbacked mountain into sharp relief against the star-lit sky. No longer does the smoke of countless fires clothe the highest mountains in purple mist for at last the invading Indians have packed their war bags and gone home. Once again lovely Camelback Inn dozes peacefully under the desert sun and Big Chief Snowfoot, Jack Stewart, and his lovely wife Louise, sigh wearily, "Thank God a whole year before another Sioux Pow Wow!!"

Although the 1961 reunion has now been relegated to our book of memories, the more than 200 of us who were there will always hold this reunion close to our hearts. For Rose and me the outlay in time and money proved a small price indeed for the exquisite joy of renewing friendships that had been begun in freshman days. No less delightful was the forming of new friendships that we know will be as precious and lasting as the old. Our visit demonstrated to us an age-old truth that the size of the hearts of our Southwestern friends is exceeded only by the size of their lovely land.

Exquisitely beautiful under the desert sun, Camelback Inn is a warm and friendly oasis surrounded by mountains and deserts of indescribable enchantment where the pastel colors change hour by hour in an endless rhythmic motion.

Here in these idyllic surroundings, it was the rare privilege of your president to meet some of the alumni who are serving to shape the destiny of a small pioneer university established with such high hopes on the prairies of North Dakota more than three-quarters of a century ago. Not only at Camelback but at the meetings in Houston, Dallas, and St. Louis were to be found devoted men and women, many of whom had come hundreds of miles to meet old friends and to hear about their university and to learn what they could do to help.

To say that this was inspiring somehow seems inadequate. Somehow words fail in expressing how one feels about men and women with the enduring qualities of these—the love and devotion that brought them so far for a single meeting, and from two-thirds of the states of the union, from Canada and Hawaii for the Camelback reunion. All one can say is that these are not men and women whose thoughts are buried in the past. As George Eliot so aptly put it, "Tis but little good you'll do watering last year's crops."

Not only the alumni who attended these meetings but thousands of other loyal alumni and friends who are supporting the Development Fund are not living in the past but in the future. Deep within their hearts is a keen appreciation for the education and culture they received from a university education. Now from every pinnacle of success they are reaching down with stout-hearted helpfulness to enable young and stumbling feet to gain a foot-hold on the ladder of life.

Beatrice Johnstone would have said it far better than I could ever do. I can hear her now quoting Walt Whitman, "Behold, I do not give lectures or a little charity. When I give, I give myself." Believing in this to the very bottom of her magnificent heart, Beatrice for three scores and fifteen years gave of herself. Even now, no doubt, she has a desk beside St. Peter's and is still giving of herself. Every year more and more of our alumni are discovering as she did the unparalleled joy of giving. The future, not only of your university but of humanity itself depends upon the skill and training found only in a good education.

No democracy can ever be destroyed if the people in it are as unselfish and helpful as are alumni of U.N.D.

Your Association is boundlessly grateful for your help. Not all of us can give a Little Theater but all of us can give something—annual contributions, a helping hand with the state legislature, a bit of wise counsel to a prospective student, a grateful letter to a beloved teacher, a worthwhile book to the library. All of us, when the opportunity

With Our Alumni

They Score Important Successes

RUTH PERROTT, OF HOLLYWOOD, VERSATILE CHARACTER actress of stage, screen, television and radio appeared on the banquet program at the UND Alumni Reunion at Camelback Inn, Phoenix, Ariz., on Jan. 6.

The former Ruth Baughmann was a member of the Class of 1920 at the University.

She started her career on Broadway soon after leaving the campus in the original "Blossom Time" musical comedy cast. Since then, she has appeared in numerous New York, road and Eastern stock plays. Recently, she appeared in "Anniversary Waltz" for a year and a half in San Francisco, the longest run any play has had in that city.

RUTH PERROTT

On radio for many years, she was Boris Karloff's leading woman in "Creeps by Night," she took all the women's parts in the Judy Canova show for four years; she played with Lucille Ball in "My Favorite Husband." More recently, on TV, she has been on the "I Love Lucy," "Dragnet," "My Friend Irma," "Life With Father," "Real McCoys," and "Oh, Susanna" shows.

Still going strong after 40 years, she believes that, if an actress can perform enough different roles, she can stay on the stage "... 'till she's a hundred."

He has served as area director for the National Youth Administration, with the Red Cross in St. Louis, as an instructor at Columbia Teachers College, New York; as dean of the Polytechnic Institute of Puerto Rico, and as visiting lecturer at London University and in Uganda. He received his Doctor of Education degree from Columbia University in 1952.

3 Alumni Groups Told of U Progress

Alumni groups in Houston, Dallas and St. Louis have completed successful meetings, with 116 UND graduates gathering at the three places to get the latest word on developments and progress at their alma mater.

Dr. E. L. Grinnell of Grand Forks, Alumni Association president, and J. Lloyd Stone, executive vice president of the association, spoke at the Houston and Dallas sessions. Stone was the principal speaker at St. Louis.

Maurice Butler was in charge of arrangements at Houston, where events started with a pre-dinner gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Treichler. The banquet followed at a nearby Mexican-style restaurant.

Among the more than 40 alumni attending, in addition to Dr. and Mrs. Grinnell and Mr. and Mrs. Stone were:

Mr. and Mrs. Treichler, Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilkins, Jr., Texas City; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franz, San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Forest, Newgulf; Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dussell, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Daniels, Beaumont; Lucille Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bruyere, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Butler, Edna Blaich, Mrs. Agnes Alger, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Orville Patterson, Dr. and Mrs. Claude Cody, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Winslow, all of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Wells, Grand Forks.

Harold Pollman, '47, was elected president of the Dallas Alumni Club at the session there, with more than 40 graduates attending. Howard Mowm was in charge of arranging the event, held at the Western Hills Inn, Euless, Texas.

George Allen, '39, was elected president of the St. Louis Alumni Club, held at the Stalter Hilton Hotel there with 36 attending. Mr. and Mrs. James Albers, Centralia, Ill., were in charge.

Midyear Class Sets New High

Commencement exercises for 150 students, the largest mid-winter graduating class in the history of the University were held Jan. 29.

UND holds three commencements annually, one at the end of each session. The 150 midyear graduates brings to 928 the total number of students receiving degrees since mid-year commencement last year, according to Ruby M. McKenzie, registrar.

Commencement speaker was Robert E. Slaughter, vice president and member of the Board of Directors of the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Exams Interrupt Sports Activity

Athletic activity at UND came to a standstill as semester tests occupied the campus scene during the last week of January. However, firing by four winter sport teams will resume soon to get the winter program on its home stretch.

—BASKETBALL—

Coach Lou Bogan's basketball squad completed the first semester with a 70-52 North Central Conference victory over Morningside here in the Fieldhouse. This brought the Sioux North Central record to two wins against three defeats. The youthful Sioux have already met the top teams in the league and the schedule seems more friendly the rest of the way.

There are no seniors on the cage squad and only four juniors. Actually, Bogan has been playing seven sophomores quite regularly and it is not uncommon to find four sophomores on the floor at one time. This is not a tall team, but one that shoots well, has terrific speed and one which likes to play defense.

Generally speaking, there has been definite improvement throughout the squad so far this season. In fact, most fans are amazed at the speed with which this team has come along. The future in basketball looks bright and the Nodaks will be making some noise along the Red River before too many seasons pass.

Prentiss (Pete) Thompson, a 6-4 sophomore whirlwind dervish, is the current point leader, carrying a 17-point per game average and averaging 11 rebounds per game. He is followed by Captain Larry Exel, a guard, and forward Bill Leifur in point-making.

The Sioux freshman team has a 5-1 record to date and is being paced by 6-6 center Curt Holt with a 20-point per game average and 6-2 forward Roger Bowles of Minot with a 15-point average. Bowles, according to his coaches, may blossom into a great star.

The schedule finds UND hosting Augustana here Feb. 2 and South Dakota University Feb. 3. North Dakota State moves in for the last pair of games in the historic series between the schools March 3-4.

—HOCKEY—

Hockey-wise, the Sioux have had a rough first semester (Continued on Page 8)

Development Fund 'Honor Roll' Additions

Additional 1960 contributors to the University Development Fund are listed below. Their gifts arrived after the list, which appeared in the Jan. 15 Review, had been compiled. They are

U Theta Chapter Plans Celebration

The North Dakota chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority is making plans to observe its fiftieth anniversary.

Grand Forks active and alumnae groups will honor resident charter members in February, but a more extensive observance is planned during UND Commencement activities in June.

Invitations are being sent to more than 500 women initiated by the chapter since its installation in September, 1911.

A highlight of the spring session will be movies taken on the chapter's 25th anniversary, when a special train enroute to the sorority's national convention stopped in Grand Forks for several hours. Thetas from eastern states and Canada visited the chapter house, the UND campus and the city.

The Theta group expects to join with the Alpha Phis who also will be celebrating their fiftieth anniversary this year.

It was at the Alpha Phi installation that the Theta petitioning group received word that its charter had been granted and that installation would take place in the fall.

Arranging the anniversary events are Mrs. Phillip Bangs (Helen Barnes), Mrs. LaBelle Mahon Stephens, Mrs. T. T. Quirke (Anne McIlraith), Mrs. W. E. Budge

(Pauline Serumgard) and Mrs. A. M. Lommen (Selma Hassell).

Sports--

ter. The team has been plagued by injuries, inexperience and a rough schedule. However, the young team has made good improvement. And, looking to the future, there are seven or eight fine prospects on the hockey freshman squad to plug the gaps next season.

Junior center Bill Colpitts is the leading point-getter for the Sioux, followed by sophomores Whitey White and Dave Merrifield. Only five seniors are on the squad and with the fine group of freshman on hand UND should again be near the top in the next few seasons.

Coach Barry Thorndycraft's squad made a fine showing against the Russian All-Stars here Dec. 30 despite losing a 4-3 decision to the Soviets. Considering the opposition some people termed it a moral victory for the Sioux. Actually, the Russkies scored a couple of "fluke" goals which gave them the victory. UND made the best showing against the Russians of any team they played in the USA.

UND's major hockey problem has been with its defense. First of all, this department has been short-handed, mainly through injuries, throughout most of the first semester. However, the Sioux will add two and possibly three blue-liners with the start of the second semester to bolster this phase.

UND's next home hockey action is against arch-rival University of Minnesota, Feb. 3-4. This is the big series of the year for the Sioux and they will go all-out for victory. Sioux injuries should be mended by then and with additional defensemen on hand this promises to be an exciting, well-matched battle.

Sioux wrestlers and gymnasts also will continue outside competition the second semester. Coach Lowell Glynn's wrestlers are improving and with a young squad should be making good showings. The gymnasts won more matches than they lost the first semester and will do okay.

Trackmen here at UND are already beginning to work out daily in the Fieldhouse and some of the pitchers on the baseball team have been throwing, too. All in all, it's been a busy first semester and things will pick up considerably as we go into February.

The Fieldhouse will be the scene of four high school basketball tournaments early in March.

Graduation Events Set

Class of '11 Due For Main Honors

A large number of the members of UND's 1911 graduating class are expected to return for Fiftieth Anniversary events being planned for them in connection with the University's spring commencement season, June 2, 3 and 4.

Assisting Alumni Director J. Lloyd Stone with arrangements for the event is Alan Bruyere, a member of the class who now resides in Houston, Texas.

All members of the Alumni "Old-Timers" group are urged to return for the events, Stone said, with all who were graduated before 1912 invited to the traditional "Old-Timers" banquet.

Members of the Class of 1911 will be especially honored at the annual banquet. The Alumni Association has 64 members of the class on its rolls.

The baccalaureate and commencement exercises for graduating UND seniors are scheduled for Sunday, June 4.
