7,094 Enrollment by 1971!

Alumni Help Chart Course For UND's Future Greatness

A single-purpose program to prepare for a greater University of North Dakota of the future has been tentatively staked out—with more action on the schedule.

The University Alumni Advisory Committee took up this problem during the Homecoming celebration on the campus, in a day-long session with UND administrative officials and faculty members.

The group heard a 10-year projection of the University's enrollment, expected to increase from its present 4,440 all-time high to a 7,094 total in 1971-72.

This included an increase in graduate students from the present total of 380 to a 1971 figure of 972.

The vast task ahead of providing housing, adequate classroom and laboratory space, proper equipment and high caliber faculty for this enrollment was presented to the group.

The next session of the committee is scheduled on the campus next spring. Robert Eddy of Jamestown, Alumni Association president, who presided, named William DePuy of Grafton as chairman of a steering committee to prepare for the next session.

Others on the group are Dr. O. W. Johnson of Rugby and Milton Kelly of Devils Lake with President G. W. Starcher and Alumni Executive Vice President J. Lloyd Stone as ex-officio members.

Stone, in sounding the keynote for the group, declared that "Charting the course for a greater University is not an easy task—it must be a labor of love for the entire institution and for all groups who share in or are interested in it."

He stressed the importance of building general acceptance and high-level support for the University, and for fashioning a long-range plan to fit the objectives of both UND and the state of North Dakota.

The importance of "thinking big and far ahead" was emphasized by Dr. Starcher. The University needs help, he said, on faculty salaries, (Continued on Page 2) physical plant, student assistance, teaching aids, library expansion and scholarship policies.

Gordon Kroeber, superintendent of buildings and grounds, pointed out that the campus area has expanded from 120 acres to 365 acres in 20 years. Space in academic buildings has increased from 384,000 square feet in 1948 to 822,000 square feet today.

Loren Swanson, housing director, contrasted the 841 students housed in campus dormitories in 1955 to the 1,450 students who live in the dorms this year. Conditions, he added, are far too crowded. He mentioned another problem—parking, with 2,200 cars registered on the campus.

"With an enrollment of 6,000 we would have to expect to house an additional 1,100 students on the campus." Plans, he said, are nearly complete for a new women's dormitory to house 254.

Registrar Ruby McKenzie explained the University's open door policy on admissions, which has resulted in the present record enrollment of 4,440—an increase from the 1,507 total of 20 years ago and from 2,163 of 10 years ago.

Of the present students, she said, 3,254 or 73 per cent, are from North Dakota, 953 or 21.4 per cent from other states including 666 from Minnesota, 233 or 5.2 per cent from foreign countries, including 189 from Canada.

Dr. William Koenker presented the 10-year projection on UND enrollment which was based on population, migration, economic and other factors. His projection indicated that UND enrollment would reach 5,475 in 1965 and 6,201 in 1967.

He pointed out the particular problem of preparing for the specialized needs—in faculty, laboratories and equipment—of the expected increase in graduate students. Dr. C. J. Hamre, Graduate School dean, reported that the 1961 summer session had 2,200 students, a large percentage of whom were seeking advanced degrees.

The University, he said, awarded its first master's degree in 1895 and since that time has granted 2,386 master's and 134 doctor's degrees. Of these, 763 master's and 75 doctor's degrees have been awarded since 1952.

Research grants for individuals have increased tremendously, he said, with about $500,000—mostly from outside North Dakota—awarded for such work in the past few years.

The University budget from state appropriations provided $3,362,000 for 1961, Business Manager E. W. Olson said. However, 23 per cent of the institution's total costs came from student fees, interest and incomes from lands deeded to the University, investments and miscellaneous sources.

The average cost to educate each student stands at $762.56, he said.

He stressed the importance of obtaining additional funds to improve faculty salaries, for research, for additional teaching supplies and equipment and a continuing building program to keep pace with the ever increasing enrollment.

A total of 2,817 now are enrolled in the UND Extension Division, Director Ben Gustafson said. These include 629 persons in extension classes and 2,189 enrolled in correspondence courses.

Class enrollments include 141 in the Williston Center, 328 in Grand Forks and the others in Minot, Devils Lake and Bismarck Graduate Centers.

Alumni attending the session—21 of them—pledged assistance to UND in improving its position to carry out its three major functions: teaching, research and public service.

U to Compete in 'College Bowl'

Waiting in the wings until its turn comes to compete in the nationally televised G. E. College Bowl quiz show is a team of four UND undergraduate students.

Their appearance now is set for Sunday afternoon, Dec. 17.

The show originates from New York City and the studio facilities there provide for an audience. Alumni in the New York area who would like to attend and support the UND team can write for tickets to: G. E. College Bowl, 485 Madison Ave., New York City. The program goes on the air at 3:30 p.m. EST on Sundays, originating in the New York Studios of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Scheduled to carry the show live in North Dakota is a network composed of KXJB-TV, Channel 4, Valley City; KDIX-TV, Channel 2, Dickinson; KXMB-TV, Channel 12, Bismarck; and KXMC-TV, Channel 13, Minot.

Members of the University team are Barbara Anderson and Richard Fugere, Bottineau; Patrick Logue, Streeter; and Jean McCulley, Kenmare. Alternates are Barbara Kadlec, Omaha, Neb., and Tom Christofferson, Valley City. Donald J. Pearce, UND librarian, is head coach. He is assisted by Dean of Students Charles Lewis.

The four were chosen from 25 students who appeared on a closed circuit television show in KFJM studios at UND.

The students and their coach will receive an expense paid round trip to New York.

Mentioned as possible opponents of UND have been University of Washington, Washington and Lee, Amherst and Hood College. The two teams will meet face to face in a half-hour quiz competition on facts and information drawn from American history, literature, mythology, current events, the Bible and classics.

The winning team will receive a $1,500 scholarship grant for its school. While the losing team will receive a $500 grant.

Misses Anderson and Logue are seniors majoring in English. Miss McCulley, a senior, is majoring in political science, and Fugere is a junior majoring in Spanish.

Homecoming Is Greatest Ever

The 1961 Homecoming celebration in October was one of the greatest ever.

Returning alumni, including the reuniting classes of 1951 and 1936, flocked to the campus for the crowded program.

Highlighting the events was the dedication of the new $1,000,000 Chester Fritz Library—with the international banker and donor of the library fund present for the event.

The Sioux football team came through with a hard-earned 14-13 victory over South Dakota State, played in beautiful, sunny, balmy fall weather in Memorial Stadium.

An estimated crowd of 20,000 turned out for the colorful

Homecoming parade, which started in East Grand Forks and ended up on the campus.

The entire celebration was best summed up by Mr. Fritz who called it "Magnificent . . . magnificent . . . magnificent. I have never been so thrilled."

Paul Boyd Gets New West Coast Position

Paul B. Boyd, 1929, has been named West Coast representative of Performance Incentives Corp.

Boyd, also President of Cole Premium Co., Inc., will operate from UIC's West Coast headquarters in Glendale, Cal. His home address is 1160 North Jackson St. in Glendale.

While at North Dakota, he was a 9-letter winner in football, track and basketball and was basketball captain and senior class president in 1929.

The firm he now joins, Performance Incentives Corporation, is a newly formed affiliate of The Grand Union Co., one of the nation's largest food chains. The company creates and executes sales building incentive programs for companies desiring to increase productivity of employees, distributors and dealers. Prizes are distributed through a nationwide network.

Following graduation from North Dakota, Boyd embarked on a 12-year career with the Jewel Tea Co., of Barrington, Illinois. Beginning as a salesman, he served in various executive capacities until his call to U. S. Army service in 1942.

He was commissioned a major at the time of induction and was separated with the rank of colonel in 1945. He was decorated by the American, British and Norwegian governments for his European service during the conflict.

After the war, he served as president of Cook Coffee Co. of California from 1946 to 1956, becoming associated with Cole Premium Co. in 1957. He was Glendale U. S. Postmaster during 1960-61 and is also a past president of the Glendale Rotary club.

Barger Moves Up In Arabia Oil Firm

Thomas C. Barger, 1931, has been named chief executive officer of Arabian American Oil Co. in Saudi Arabia. He has been president of the firm since 1959.

His wife is the former Kathleen Ray, a UND graduate, and his daughter, Anne, is a present student at the University.

At the time of his elevation to his new position, Time Magazine said (in its Oct. 21, 1961, issue):

"Not even Allah has been there," Bedouin shepherds warned Arabian American Oil Company Geologist Thomas C. Barger when he began to explore the waterless wastes of Saudi Arabia's Rub Al Khali in 1938. But for four years Tom Barger tramped for oil and mapped Rub Al Khali's shifting sands in 130 degree heat, making lifelong friends of sheiks and shepherds, princes and kings. Mastering Arabic, he began to handle Aramco's negotiations with King Ibn Saud's government, was named an Aramco vice president in 1958, president in 1959. Last week in Dhahran, smiling, (6 ft. 2 in., 200 lbs.) Tom Barger, 52, was named Aramco's chief executive officer to replace retiring Chairman Norman Hardy. Says a colleague: 'You just have to be easygoing to live for 24 years in Saudi Arabia.'"

Lokken Awarded 25-Year Service Pin

Brown Lokken, 1931, pipeline superintendent at the Anaconda Aluminum Co. reduction plant in Columbia

Falls, Mont., was presented a copper arrowhead service pin for 25 years' employment with The Anaconda Co. Lokken, a graduate of the UND School of Mines, began his career with Anaconda in 1936 at the Tooele plant near Salt Lake City, Utah. He transferred to Columbia Falls March 15, 1955. He was promoted to his present position Feb. 1, 1961.

Bjerke Returns to U To Assist Dean

Luther C. Bjerke, 1959, has been appointed as assistant to the dean of the University College at UND. He will be engaged chiefly in admissions counseling, visiting high schools throughout the state. While a student here, Bjerke was a member of Blue Key and was elected to Who's Who. He was also a member of the Varsity Bards. After his graduation, he was a field representative for the Red Cross in Kansas and South Dakota.

Stefansson Among History's Greats

The Milwaukee Journal, which runs a daily article on great men in history, picked Vilhjalmur Stefansson for this honor in a recent issue.

The famed Arctic explorer, a former UND student who was granted UND's honorary doctor of laws degree in 1930, is still active at 82, the article reports, teaching facts of Arctic life to Dartmouth College students.

The article paid tribute to Stefansson's renown "as the apostle of the friendly Arctic and the prophet of the North. Decades ago he pointed to the potential of that region for military and transportation bases. The Russians, among others, have followed up his suggestions with enthusiasm."

Stefansson's name came into the news in a strange way recently, the article continues—the discovery of a message he and three companions left in a cocoa tin in the Arctic 46 years ago.

The note was left in the course of Stefansson's five-year continuous habitation north of the Arctic circle—a record-shattering feat. Under Canadian government auspices, Stefansson's team explored and mapped 100,000 square miles and discovered three large islands and several small ones north of Melville Island.

Their only food was seals, which proved to be plentiful—a fact that Stefansson was the first to establish clearly.

He first enrolled at UND when he was 18 and later received his B.A. degree from the University of Iowa.

His wife, librarian of the Stefansson Collection at Dartmouth College Library, has made two trans-polar flights herself, and is the author of "Here Is Alaska."

Two of Earliest U Grads Still Active

The Rev. James G. Austin, 1894, one of the earliest UND graduates still living, was visited in Spokane in October by Prof. Hywel C. Rowland, retired head of the University music department.

The visit took place at the Spokane rest home where the 91-year-old former Presbyterian minister of the Hannah, N. D., area now resides.

A native of Ontario, Canada, Mr. Austin resided in the Emerald area and taught school during the summer at Reynolds while attending UND. After graduating from McCormick Seminary in Chicago in 1897, he was ordained into the ministry at Crystal, N. D.

His son, Noble Austin, and daughter, Mrs. D. H. Pletta (Alice May Austin) both are UND graduates.

Keenly intelligent, she continues to maintain an active interest in world affairs and in several organizations. She also has trained a parrot which has a 35-word vocabulary and purrs like a cat.

Caterpillar Firm Promotes U Alumnus

J. W. Peterson, 1954, has been appointed district representative for northern Kansas and southern Nebraska for Caterpillar Tractor Co. He has been with Caterpillar since 1955. From 1956 to 1959 he served as sales engineer and construction market specialist. For the past two years he has been the earthmoving representative for Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, and North and South Dakota.

A native of Mandan, Peterson is a Civil engineering UND graduate and a registered professional engineer. His wife is the former Gloria Cole of Peoria, Ill. They have a daughter, Julia Ann, 3, and a son, John Christian, 1. The Petersons will reside in Lincoln.

High Army Award Goes to U Alumnus

Colonel Edward J. Dehne, '33, director of the Department of Preventive Medicine at the Medical Field Service School, has been authorized the "A" prefix, highest recognition of professional proficiency award to military personnel.

Colonel Dehne came to Brooke Army Medical Center for duty in Sept., 1960, from Headquarters, Second U. S. Army at Fort George G.

Meade, Md., where he was chief of preventive medicine.

An authority in preventive and occupational medicine, Colonel Dehne has developed modern medical training programs to keep pace with the new weapons systems. These include programs in occupational medicine; radiological, industrial, and environmental hygiene.

He entered the Army in Oct.,

1941, and went to Europe with the European Civil Affairs Division in 1944. From 1945-47 he was an adviser in the re-establishment of German health services as a means of assisting the German people to become self-supporting along democratic lines. For eight months of this time he was a civilian consultant.

Subsequently he served as Chief of Preventive Medicine with the Fifth and Third Army Area of the Army Industrial Hygiene Laboratory at the Army Chemical Center in Maryland, for the U. S. Army in the Caribbean (stationed in Panama), and of the Army Environmental Health Laboratory at the Army Chemical Center in Maryland.

With his wife, he lives at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

REPORT FROM THE CAMPUS

By J. LLOYD STONE

The University has received an additional $79,575.79 from the estate of J. F. T. O'Connor, 1907, prominent attorney and federal judge who died in 1949.

This was UND's share of the sale of downtown buildings in Grand Forks and brought to approximately $400,000 the total amount received by the University from the estate.

Also sharing in the O'Connor bequest are St. Michael's Catholic School and St. Michael's Hospital, both of Grand Forks. Together they have obtained approximately $776,000.

x x x

Enrollment at the University made one of the largest single-year gains in history, up to a record 4,440 from last year's 4,068—an increase of 372.

Even the ratio of men to women is improving somewhat with 3,005 males and 1,435 co-eds enrolled—some-what better than the old 3 to 1 distribution. By classes, freshmen total 1,254; sophomores, 1,049; juniors, 781 and seniors, 881.

The University College has 1,265 of the students, SLA

867, Education 678, Business Administration 503, Engineering 355, Law 129, Medicine 76, Nursing 92, and Graduate School 380, with 95 listed as special and unclassified students.

x x x

The record enrollment this fall brings to a grand total of 50,881, the number of students who have enrolled at UND since it opened its doors in 1884. Of these, 18,122 have received degrees. In addition, the University has awarded 98 honorary degrees.

x x x

An alumnus recently contributed a number of valuable paintings to the University, and these have been hung in places of vantage in the new Chester Fritz Library. The University always is interested in gifts of this type.

x x x

A new building may be in the cards, if the desire of the UND student body is any indication. The students are circulating petitions asking the next State Legislature to authorize construction of a new auditorium on the campus. The petitions authorize a $5 per semester fee for each student to help amortize the cost.

x x x

First chartering of a national fraternity on the campus since 1938 is scheduled Dec. 9-10, when Delta Upsilon will get its national charter. UND presently has 11 fraternities and 7 sororities.

x x x

The University has been awarded $254,300 for support of another academic year Science Institute.

This is the largest of three such grants made to UND by the National Science Foundation and brings the total received from NSF for science institutes to more than $1,100,000. The new grant is the largest ever received by an institution of higher education in North Dakota for a teaching project.

The grant will enable 40 teachers, largely from North Dakota and adjoining states, to study science and mathematics for one year at the University. The institute will run from Sept. 5, 1962, through June 1, 1963. About 25 of the 40 instructors will continue their study in a related program during the summer of 1963.

The University is one of about 40 schools throughout the country which have been awarded such grants.

Forty high school teachers from 14 states are presently attending a similar Science Institute at UND.

Board Session 'Nets' $3,000

The University Development Fund was $3,000 richer as the result of the annual fall meeting of the UND Alumni Association board of directors meeting at the Curtis Hotel in Minneapolis Oct. 27.

Contributing to a fund to pay expenses of the session, the directors actually paid in a $1,000 surplus over all costs—and this went to the Development Fund.

In addition, a Minneapolis foundation contributed an additional $2,000 in an "unrestricted donation" to the Fund at the time of the board meeting.

Progress of the drive to raise $70,000 for the Development Fund in 1961-62 was reported by H. E. Treichler of Richmond, Texas, national chairman of the Fund.

Budgeted from the $70,000 this year are $18,000 for scholarships, $7,500 for faculty grants, $9,000 for public relations projects, $2,100 for research, $5,600 for UND promotion, $13,000 for the Alumni Review and $14,800 for operational expenses.

The need for additional contributions to meet these expenses was stressed by Treichler. He pointed out that all such contributions are tax deductible.

U Gridders Just Miss

The Sioux gridgers wound up the 1961 season with a 22-13 loss to Augustana in Memorial Stadium Nov. 11.

The defeat prevented the University from sharing a three-way tie for the North Central championship, and left the team tied with Augustana for third place with a 4-2 conference won-loss record. State College of Iowa and South Dakota State, with 5-1 marks, tied for the loop crown.

Highlight of the season, of course, came when Coach Marv Helling's chargers downed the North Dakota State Bison at Fargo Oct. 21, by a decisive 26-6 margin.

The following week at Cedar Falls, Iowa, State College of Iowa caught the Sioux off guard and won, 25-0.

The Sioux defeated South Dakota State, 14-13, in the Stadium before an 8,000-strong Homecoming throng, and won from the University of South Dakota at Vermillion, 21-7.

Previously, UND had defeated Montana State and Morningside and lost to Nebraska—to give it an over-all record for the year of 6 wins and 3 losses.

Meanwhile, the varsity basketball and hockey teams were warming up for the first games on their schedules.

William Granison Tharp, 1934, is with the Pacific Research Office of the Department of Defense.
