On 79th Birthday

University Honors Five Veterans

DEAN THORMODSGARD

Following a custom established in 1959, five UND staff members were especially honored when the University celebrated its 79th birthday Feb. 27.

Two of them — Dean Olaf H. Thormodsgard of the School of Law and Harry H. Tannahill, chief of the power plant — will be retiring this spring.

The other three have been on the staff for 25 years. They are Richard O. Hale, assistant professor of English; Philip A. Rognlie, associate professor of mathematics; and Mrs. Selma Robbins, University Library cataloger.

The five received certificates of merit and gifts at the annual Founders Day dinner held at 5:45 p. m. that day in the Student Union ballroom.

Principal speaker was J. Emmet Judge, '35, of Dearborn, Mich., who is merchandising and product planning manager of Ford Motor Co.'s Lincoln-Mercury Division. His topic was "This Business of Education."

Founders Day

Donald J. Pearce, UND librarian, was master of ceremonies and the 50-voice University chorus sang. About 300 alumni, staff members, students and friends of UND attended, according to Mrs. W. E. Koenker, committee chairman.

Launching Founders Day activities on the campus was a State - of - the - University address by Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president, at a convocation at 9:45 a.m. Feb. 27 in the Fieldhouse. His topic was "With Pride and Humility."

The president was introduced by Wesley Argue of St. Thomas, Student Senate president.

Dean Thormodsgard is retiring when the current school year ends after serving on the Law School faculty for 35 years and 29 years as its dean. His service is longer than that of any other law dean in the nation.

Tannahill has been employed by the University for 52 years and has been chief of the power plant for the past 10 years.

The University was established six years before North Dakota became a state. Since 1883, it has grown from one building with 60 students to an educational plant valued at $25,000,000 with 4,400 students and more than 800 graduates each year. Founders Day has been an important event on the University calendar since 1904.

A Letter from Your President... ...and Some Camelback Photos

Jamestown, N. D.

Dear Fellow Alumni of UND:

January was a memorable month for Nellie and me as we toured the Southwestern part of the United States visiting UND alumni along the way.

Most memorable of all was our visit to Camelback. The Stones and the Eddys arrived at the famous inn on the Phoenix desert Dec. 31, just in time for the fabulous New Year's Eve party sponsored each year by Jack and Louise Stewart. Needless to say, the old year was ushered out with fitting dignity and the new one started in proper style—all in the company of fine friends.

The golf championship trophy was presented to Lloyd Nelson, '32, by Helen Stewart, Jack's daughter.

By Jan. 2, UND alumni started to roll in from all parts of the United States and when the 12th annual Camelback Reunion was fully underway, more than 185 alumni were present.

There were so many highlights on the program it is difficult to recall all of them. But one that stands out was the party given Jan. 3 in the Inn's Cholla by Dr. and Mrs. David McKee of Canton, Ohio, for all reuniting Nodaks.

Another was the social hour in the Town Hall prior to the alumni banquet Jan. 4. The hosts were Dr. P. C. Quistgard of

Kansas City, Franklin Lunding of Chicago, Grant (Bub) Nelson of Roswell, N. M., and L. C. Schuster of Hastings, Neb.

The banquet itself, held in the Peace Pipe room, was of great interest to me, but my wife told me that I talked too long. So for next year, Jack and Lloyd have figured out an entirely new format for this big event on the reunion program—all in the form of fun, with nothing of a serious nature. I'm all for it.

There were a lot of medics around, but everyone stayed healthy anyway. From left to right are doctors Herbert J. Movius, '11; O. W. Johnson, '27; Willis Shepard, '29; P. C. Quistgard, '27, and David McKee, '30.

The dinner dance Saturday night will be long remembered, especially for the many fine dancers in evidence. Even though some of the participants had been out of school 30 or 40 years, they still didn't take a back seat for anyone in doing the Charleston or even the Twist.

The friendly spirit of Jack and Louise Stewart was evident throughout the reunion, and it is a contagious thing. It's wonderful to reminisce with old friends and classmates amid such wonderful surroundings in such an ideal climate. Camelback simply can't be matched as a reunion spot. Nothing is left undone to make the reunion an event never to be forgotten, and I hope I never have to miss one in the future.

Fun and Fellowship Flow Freely at Camelback Inn

President Eddy's Letter

After Camelback, we drove over to Long Beach, Calif., to visit Dr. and Mrs. William Durnin, and then went to San Francisco where we attended another interesting and enjoyable reunion with Northern California Sioux alumni. Orchid leis and corsages were in evidence, as they were at Camelback, again because of the generosity of Alumnus Dr. Min Hin Li of Honolulu.

In all, we drove 5,250 miles from the time we left Jamestown until we returned home.

In conclusion, I want to say to you Nodaks: if you don't take in one of these Camelback reunions before you move on to more heavenly surroundings, you'll be missing something that even St. Peter can't provide.

I want to thank all of the Alumni who were so friendly on the trip. It's more obvious to me than ever now why our alumni program is so successful and why the UND Development Fund has made so much progress.

Best wishes until we meet again,

ROBERT EDDY,
President

REPORT FROM THE CAMPUS

By J. LLOYD STONE

Undoubtedly taking a page from the "success story" of other states which have successfully instituted branch campuses of their universities, North Dakotans are proposing that the growing junior college at Bismarck be made a branch of UND.

BJC has been operated by the Bismarck School District since its establishment during the World War II years. It has now outgrown the resources of the taxpayers of a single city school district. It has provided a vital service to a wide area of central and western North Dakota.

Through its extension program, the University already has set up a successful University Center at Williston, bringing the advantages of higher education to northwestern North Dakota. A similar successful extension program has been established in cooperation with the Grand Forks Air Force Base.

The present proposal for making BJC a University branch is different from an earlier proposal to give Ellendale Normal similar status. The BJC idea comes from residents of Bismarck. The Ellendale Normal idea was opposed by residents of Ellendale.

President Starcher of the University has cautioned supporters of the BJC plan that the impetus for such a change must come from Bismarck and not from UND. At the same time, the University realizes that such an idea offers it the opportunity for further service to the state.

The hockey and basketball seasons speed toward their conclusion. The ice team broke even in its big series with Minnesota, winning the second game, 5-4, in overtime after dropping the opener, 4-1. Sioux cagers also split a pair of North Central contests — winning from Morningside, 64-55, but losing to State College of Iowa, 81-79.

Campus enrollment at the end of the first week of the second semester was 4,179, an all-time record for the term. The final figure may reach 4,200.

The total represents an increase of 349 over the 3,830 enrolled at the end of the first week of the second semester a year ago.

First semester enrollment was 4,400 for 1961-62.

The present 4,179 total includes 2,819 men and 1,360 women. Totals by colleges:

University College (freshmen) 1,102; Science, Literature and Arts 828; Education 694; Business 495; Graduate 367; Engineering 325; Law 127; Nursing 88; Medicine 80; Special 32; Unclassified 41.

One hundred fifty-six freshmen made the dean's list the first semester. This seems to be slightly different from the "deans' lists" you and I sometimes found ourselves on back when we were in school. This particular listing includes freshmen who compiled an average of B or higher.

Why don't you help in selecting this year's winners of UND Alumni Distinguished Service Citations?

Nominations now are open. Just send the name of the person or persons you think should receive the award to the Alumni Office at the University along with a brief statement as to why the honor should be conferred.

The citations will be awarded during Commencement activities on the campus in June. To date, 31 Nodak alumni have received the award.

These points should be taken into consideration in making nominations:

1. Attainments in his or her chosen field of work.
2. Devotion to the cause of education.
3. Loyal support of his or her Alma Mater.

The University awarded degrees to 120 students at the winter commencement Feb. 4. Thomas E. Whelan, St. Thomas, former U. S. ambassador to Nicaragua, delivered the main commencement address and received an honorary doctor of law degree.

The first chartering of a national fraternity at the University since 1938 took place with installation of the North Dakota Chapter of Delta Upsilon International. The local colony was started on the UND campus in November, 1959. Delta Upsilon was selected from among nearly 20 national fraternities who applied for colonization.

Dick Ryan, one of UND's postwar all-time great ends and halfbacks during the mid-'50's has completed another successful season as head football coach at Willows (Calif.) Glenn County High School. His eleven won 7, lost 2.

North Dakota's three non-conference football opponents in 1962 are Youngstown, Montana University and Montana State.

Sioux baseball coach Harold Kraft is lining up another southern trip for his team next spring.

Alumnus Gets Patent for Potato Process

Prof. A. M. Cooley, '31, head of the UND Chemical Engineering Department, has received a patent on a drying process to improve the usefulness of high-water content potatoes in the production of dehydrated potato flakes.

Cooley's research was supported by Polar Potato Products Corp. of Park River, N. D. The 17-year U. S. patent becomes the property of the University and the School of Mines.

His invention, he said, provides a method of drying potatoes where low solids content potatoes are upgraded to produce a dehydrated product of satisfactory flavor and texture. It utilizes a cooking step subjecting the potatoes alternately to steam and vacuum cycles to reduce water and raise the solids content.

Until now, the production of dehydrated potato flakes of satisfactory texture and flavor has been largely limited to the use of relatively high solids content. Potatoes least adapted to dehydration are in least demand for shipping and more readily available for processing in areas where they are grown, Cooley explained. The process is equally applicable to production of potato flour and other mashed, dehydrated vegetables such as rutabagas and squash.

Cooley is working on a number of other potato industry research projects. In April, 1961, he received a $37,470 grant from the National Institutes of Health to study methods of treating wastes from potato processing.

Dr. Quistgard Gives Fund for U Scholarship

Dr. Paul C. Quistgard, '27, Kansas City, has contributed $7,500 for a scholarship fund for medical students attending the University.

Dr. Quistgard, a graduate of Warren High School (Minn.), requested that the scholarships be awarded on a basis of achievement, industry and honesty, rather than purely on scholastic rating.

He announced the gift while attending the recent reunion at Camelback Inn.

This is the second major gift made by Dr. Quistgard for School of Medicine Scholarships in the past three years.

He lives in Los Angeles with his wife, Claire Smith, formerly of Dickinson, and six children. Barbara and Sheran have graduated from the University of Southern California and William is in his second year as a Midshipman at Annapolis. Edward is graduating

Another New Dorm Planned

Approval has been granted to the University to ask a $1,100,000 loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Administration to build a men's dormitory and dining hall on the campus.

State Board of Higher Education approval for the project brought to approximately six and a half million dollars the amount allocated, granted or given to the University for buildings completed or being planned during the year.

Construction projects now in an advanced stage on the campus include the Twamley Administration building; a new addition to Walsh Hall, men's dormitory; and an addition to McCannel Hall, the medical rehabilitation unit.

Soon to be started are a new women's dormitory and a $402,000 three-floor addition to the Ireland Cancer Research Center.

Still termed "crucial" and in the immediate building program of UND are a new geology building, an auditorium, more dormitories, a service building and a fine arts center.

Freedom Shelf Established At U Library

A "Freedom Shelf" will be established at the University, inspired by a similar shelf in the library of Camelback Inn, where Nodaks hold their annual Phoenix, Ariz., reunion.

Jack Stewart, '29, co-owner and manager of Camelback Inn, established the special shelf there to emphasize the importance of combatting communism and building America's free enterprise system.

First donations for UND's shelf were made during the January reunion at Camelback. Both money and books now are being received for the UND shelf, details for which have been worked out by Librarian Donald J. Pearce.
