Climax of School Year:

Commencement Events Start May 31

Carillon Bells Will Welcome UND Visitors

A dedication ceremony for the University of North Dakota's new carillon will be held May 31 in conjunction with the open house and dedication of Twamley Hall, announced Dr. George W. Starcher, University president.

The 305-bell electronic carillon, one of the largest in the nation, is being installed in the 63-foot tower of the new administration building. It is the gift of an anonymous University graduate.

The carillon dedication will take place at 1:30 p.m. in room 409, Twamley Hall, location of the playing console. A carillon concert will follow the brief ceremony, preceding the dedication of the hall at 3 p.m. Twamley Hall will be open to visitors throughout the afternoon.

UND Founder

JAMES TWAMLEY, 1843-1916—the man for whom Twamley Hall is named. One of the founders of UND, he worked enthusiastically in territorial days toward having a university in the northern part of Dakota Territory.

Noted U Benefactor Succumbs in Arizona

Lawrence R. McCoy, Vermont artist who entered the University of North Dakota in 1910, died Friday at Phoenix, Arizona where he had spent the winter.

Mr. McCoy donated valuable paintings, etchings and other gifts to UND. He spoke here in May, 1956, during the University's first Fine Arts Week program sponsored by the Robert D. Campbell Foundation. He received a distinguished service citation from the University.

Thousands of Alumni, UND friends and proud relatives of graduating seniors are expected to crowd the University campus on May 31 at the start of the three-day UND Spring Commencement, which will be highlighted by the dedication of Twamley Hall.

Dr. O. Meredith Wilson, president of the University of Minnesota, will be the main speaker for the Twamley Hall dedication ceremonies, as the new administration building receives its official "baptism." Dr. R. B. Witmer, dean of the College of Science, Literature and Arts at UND, is chairman of the dedication committee.

A full calendar of events is scheduled for the three-days of reunions and commencement ceremonies, which will also be highlighted by a special Carillon Concert which will inaugurate the new 305 bell electronic carillon, one of the largest in the nation. It is located on the fourth floor of Twamley Hall.

Class Reunions

The commencement week-end will be marked by reunions of two classes—the class of 1913 and the class of 1923—and early reservations indicate an excellent turnout from both classes.

Visitors to the campus on the Commencement week end will also find a familiar face is "missing", as the demolition crews have razed "Old Main", the first building on the UND campus. Souvenir bricks, paper-weights, and other items made from the original materials of "Old Main" will be on sale at the University Bookstore.

Cornerstone Holds Memories of 'Old Main' Days

The cornerstone of Old Main, which was laid in the days of Dakota Territory, was opened at informal ceremonies on the University of North Dakota campus April 8. Members of the buildings and grounds staff tore away the bricks and chiselled into the zinc box containing the cornerstone materials sealed at a ceremony on the campus on Oct. 3, 1883.

The contents, all found to be in excellent condition, included copies of then-current issues of Grand Forks newspapers, a silver dollar engraved with the name of the contractor, a list of Masonic officers and visiting members present for the cornerstone laying, a copy of Governor Nehemiah Ordway's 1883 message to the territorial legislature urging establishment of a university in the north, a copy of "The Common Schools of North Dakota," a pamphlet contributed by E. A. Healy, regent; an envelope addressed to the Rev. F. W. Iddings, secretary of the Board of Regents, in which had been enclosed the first draft of funds for construction of the building, and miscellaneous coins, stamps and cards.

UND officials said some of the contents will be placed in the cornerstone of the new administration building, Twamley Hall, and some will be saved as museum pieces.

To Honor Seniors, Alumni:

Banquets Will Highlight Commencement Events

Plans are underway to honor alumni and graduating seniors at two banquets scheduled for commencement weekend, May 31-June 2 at the University of North Dakota. Also planned is a symposium designed to outline future plans for University growth.

J. Lloyd Stone, executive vice president of the University Alumni Association, met with committees in his office, Tuesday, April 30, to outline arrangements for the weekend commencement activities which include the dedication of Twamley Hall, new administration building.

An Alumni-Twamley Dedication Banquet is scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday, May 31, in the Student Union. All faculty members, graduating seniors, parents, alumni and friends are urged to attend according to Roger Bye, Gilby, president of the senior class. Tickets are on sale at the University Business Office.

Honored guests will be graduating seniors, "old time" alumni from graduating classes 40-50 years ago, Dr. Min Hin Li, Honolulu, Hawaii, Miss Edna Twamley, Rock Tavern, New York; and Senator Evan Lips, Bismarck.

A feature of the evening will be the presentation of diplomas to the wives of graduating seniors by Evan Lips. Lips is an alumnus of the University.

Planning committee for the banquet, besides Stone, consists of Mrs. Lloyd Richmond, Mrs. George Benner, Mrs. Donald Lindgren, Leonard Marti and Bonnie Sobolik, all of Grand Forks.

The symposium on "The University in Retrospect and Prospect", is scheduled for 2 p.m., Saturday, June 1, in the Burtness Theater. William DePuy, Grafton attorney, will moderate a panel consisting of Dr. Starcher and UND alumni, Dr. Stanley Kneeshaw, San Jose, California; J. B. Johnson, Short Hills, New Jersey; George Longmire, Grand Forks; John Traynor, Devils Lake; and Evan Lips, Bismarck.

Heading the committee on arrangements for the symposium are Dr. Ernest Coons, John Howard and Stone. Seniors are especially invited to attend, Stone said.

A dinner for "Old Timers", graduates of UND classes from 40-50 years ago, will be held Saturday night, June 1, at 6 p.m. in the Student Union. While the banquet will pay special recognition to "Old Timers", it is open to all alumni and faculty members.

Planning committee for the "Old Timers" dinner is made up of Dr. Erich Selke, chairman, Dr. G. A. Abbott, Prof. John Howard, Dr. Ernest Coon, Dr. W. H. Moran, and all retired University faculty members.

More than 40 old timers are expected to attend, Stone said. Dr. Selke will preside at the banquet and Dr. Starcher will bring greetings to the group.

Fraternity Offers Camelback Prize

Some lucky Sigma Nu alumnus will be the proud winner of an expense paid trip for two next January to attend the 1964 UND Reunion at Camelback Inn.

This is one of the inducements being offered to Sigma Nu alumni who attend the October 11-12 Homecoming events when the fraternity will celebrate its 40th anniversary, with Bill Kunkel of Carrington doing the planning.

Jack Stewart, manager-owner of the Camelback Inn, is enthused with the prize award, and has "sweetened the pot" with some added attractions of his own.

Upon arrival at Camelback Inn, the winning Sigma Nu couple will find a complimentary bottle of champagne, plus fruit and flowers, awaiting them in their room.

They will also have a free night of complimentary cocktails in the Cholla Lounge, a free round of golf on the Quail Hollow Pitch and Putt course, a free massage for the wife at the Fountain of Youth, and a gift from the hotel which will be awarded at the annual banquet.

Nobel Prize Winners Give Lectures

An addition to the Guy and Bertha Ireland Cancer Research Laboratory was dedicated at UND on May 2 with two Nobel Prize winning scientists giving lectures and featuring an open house for the general public.

The Nobel winners were Dr. Wendell Stanley, who won his award in chemistry and was the first man to crystallize a virus, and Dr. Arthur Kornberg, who received his Nobel award in medicine and physiology for synthesizing the DNA molecule which carries the genetic blueprint of the cell. Dr. Stanley is from the University of California while Dr. Kornberg is from Stanford University.

The Ireland Laboratory has grown from an instrument room in the corner of the Medical Science Building to a five-floor leading cancer research center.

FUND ESTABLISHED TO HONOR DR. ABBOTT

A lectureship fund named in honor of Dr. George A. Abbott, professor emeritus at UND, has been established with the purpose of bringing visiting lecturers to the UND Chemistry Department.

Established through contributions of Chemistry Alumni, the fund is expected to provide an annual source of revenue to pay the expenses for lectures by chemists of nationally recognized stature. From these lectures, UND Chemistry students and faculty will get new ideas in research, ignite the spark of curiosity in future chemists, and stimulate new teaching ideas.

Dr. Nelson Leonard, Professor of Chemistry at Purdue University, will give the first series of Abbott Lectures in May 17-18. He is a well-known scientist in the field of synthetic organic chemistry.

Handled in conjunction with the UND Development Fund, the Abbott Lectureship was made possible by contributions from Alumni, and future support will assure it as an annual affair. Dr. A. William Johnson, Dr. Richard Frank and Dr. C. A. Wardner of the UND Chemistry Faculty are members of the committee on the lectureship.

Burtness Law Scholarship Established

The establishment of a $95,000 fund for University of North Dakota Law School scholarships through a gift of the late Judge and Mrs. O. B. Burtness was announced at the Law School Honor's Day program, April 27.

Under the terms of the gift as provided in the will and trust of Mrs. Burtness, the fund is to be held in perpetuity with the income to be used for scholarships for eight graduate or undergraduate students in the University Law School.

In accepting the scholarship fund on behalf of the University, President George W. Starcher said: "Establishment of the Burtness Law Scholarships will give our law school front rank in inducements for superior students to attend law school here. The outstanding people attracted will enhance the prestige of the University of North Dakota Law School through all the years ahead. We are very proud and most grateful."

The scholarships are to be given in the name of Judge Burtness. Burtness, as stated in the trust agreement, "attended and was graduated from the high school, College of Liberal Arts and Law School of the University . . . and during his lifetime maintained an active interest in the University, among other things serving as lecturer for the Law School, for many years as a member of the Board of Alumni Association, and in many ways consulting and advising with the administration and faculty."

The University's first theatre building, Burtness Theatre, was constructed in part with funds donated by Mrs. Burtness in memory of her husband. Burtness, a native of Meckinock, was a district judge and a six term U. S. Congressman.

Don R. Saunders, '58, is now in the engineering department of the Pillsbury Company in Minneapolis, having been previously on the staff of Northern States Power Co. His new address is 7532 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, 23, Minn.

Florida Alumni Hold Reunion

Eighteen UND alumni attended the UND reunion of west coast Florida residents held March 30, at the Causeway Inn, Tampa. Mrs. Viegne DeMars Jenkins, vice president, presided at the meeting following the cocktail and dinner hour. Regret was expressed over the death of the president, Robert Wallin.

Officers elected were Mrs. Viegne DeMars Jenkins, president, and Mr. Karl C. Schmidt, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Allen, president of the University of South Florida, was the speaker of the evening, presented by the Reverend Carroll Simcox.

Those present at the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Karl C. Schmidt, Mr. E. K. Read, Mr. and Mrs. Evan R. Jenkins, Mrs. Muriel Ball Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dahl, Mr. and Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Wardwell, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Sagen, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Simcox, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. C. King.

CHICAGO MEETING
UND Alumni will meet in Chicago on November 2, 1963 at the O'Hare Inn, with George Allen in charge of arrangements. Make your plans now to attend. For reservations, contact George Allen at 175 West Jackson Blvd, c/o General Adjustment Bureau, Chicago. His office phone is WAbash 2-6400, while his home phone is 325-2065.

Richard D. Erickson, '51, has joined the Television Bureau of Advertising, Inc. in New York City as a creative associate. He was previously on the editorial staff of Broadcasting Magazine.

Expansion West

UND Purchases Addition To Campus Property

The University of North Dakota will purchase the 20-acre Fairlawn Addition west of the campus from the City of Grand Forks for $35,000. City manager Alan Webster received the notification from Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president.

The city reserved the right to sell the property to the University under the terms of an option agreement with Castle Investments, Ltd., Winnipeg, which expects to purchase approximately 170 acres of land at the present airport area for $460,000. The option expires May 31, by which time Castle Investment will announce its final decision regarding taking up the option. The Castle Firm has announced a proposed multi-million dollar development of the airport area, including land on either side of the Interstate Highway 29 strip at the north end of the present airport.

The Fairlawn Addition is located east of the Great Northern Railway tracks and south of University Avenue. It is adjacent to part of the present University housing area.

UND Professor Campaigns State In Behalf of Modern Mathematics

By TED SHERARTS
UND News Bureau

Dr. Charles Hatfield, one of North Dakota's leading proponents of the revolution in mathematics, is stumping the state in behalf of "curriculum revision."

Chairman of the mathematics department at the University of North Dakota, Dr. Hatfield heads a program aimed at bringing the challenges of modern mathematics to high schools in North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana.

The age of automation and high-speed computers has brought about a need for "new" or "modern" mathematics in the nation's schools. Much of the general public is surprised to learn that mathematics is a live, growing subject, said Hatfield. Theorems, like airplanes, become obsolete because new and better ones are discovered, he said.

Basically, modern mathematics places emphasis on the "why" without lessening the importance of the traditional "how" in problem solving.

"It doesn't mean math has changed," says Hatfield. "It is the approach that has changed. The shift is from watch-then-do-what-I-do way of teaching to the new find-out-for-yourself-if-it-works-and-why. The enthusiasm I have personally witnessed in some parts of the Dakotas is really exciting."

As regional representative for the visiting lectureship program, sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America, Hatfield is the administrator of a plan to encourage cooperation in adjusting curriculums to the new approach in both junior and senior high school.

Hatfield, however, refuses simply to direct the operation from his desk at UND. In April, he lectured at high schools in Williston, Minot, McVie and Grace City, Fessenden and Goodrich, Turtle Lake and Garrison, and Hettinger and Elgin.

F. John Marshall, '62, graduate of the U.N.D. Law School, has become associated with the law firm of Peterson and McMenamy, Grand Forks. Marshall also serves as assistant states attorney and was recently admitted to U. S. District Court. He is married to the former Sharon Seiffert, also a UND graduate who is an occupational therapist at the University.

William Keeley, a former state senator in Montana and a graduate of UND, died May 5 in Deer Lodge, Montana. A native of Crookston, Minn., Keeley passed the North Dakota bar examinations in 1908. He was prominent in Montana Republican ranks, and a leading authority on land and water conservation.

IN MEMORIAM

Dr. R. C. Staley, 74, died unexpectedly May 4 in Grand Forks. Dr. Staley was former head of the UND department of mathematics, and joined the faculty in 1927. He is survived by his wife and a son, Raymond Jr.

Warren W. Freed, '50, died April 11 after choking on a piece of food. He was 46.

He was athletic director and football coach at Agassiz Junior High School, Fargo, N. D., where he had taught physical education since coming to Fargo 21 years ago.

He was president-elect of the North Dakota Chapter of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, having been named to the post last October.

He attended St. Cloud public schools and was graduated from St. Cloud State College, St. Cloud, Minn. He received his master's degree from UND.

Ashton W. Ecklund, '31, lab technician with the Superior Health Department, Superior, Wisconsin, died December 31, 1962.

Mrs. A. J. Bartman, '17, 1631 Euclid St., N. W., Washington, D. C., died October 27, 1962.

Lloyd G. Thompson, died this month at his home in Mandan after several years with a heart ailment. From 1941 to 1954 he was superintendent of the State Industrial School at Mandan. From 1925 to 1934 Thompson was principal of Grand Forks Central High School until 1941.

Allan Linder Stubbins, '28, died January 14, 1963 in Chicago, Illinois.

Thomas Jewell, who earned his B.A. in 1902 at the University of North Dakota, died April 16 in California. He would have been 87 years old on May 11 of this year, and was active to the last day of his life. He was in the civil engineering business for several decades in Southern California, and maintained a keen interest in the activities of UND. His son, Robert T. Jewell, resides in Sunland, California.

Mark A. Buechler died during December, 1962 in Fargo. He had retired from his law practice in 1961 because of poor health. He completed his law studies in 1924 at UND.

District Judge Albert Lundberg died at the age of 69 in Grafton, North Dakota on April 30. He had served as a district judge since 1951, and had previously been associated in law practice with the late Carroll Day and Arthur Stokes. Lundberg was graduated in 1932 from UND and was a member of the Order of the Coif.

Dr. John H. Moore, prominent physician and surgeon in Grand Forks, died at the age of 68 during April. He suffered a heart attack while returning from a winter vacation. Very active in state medical circles, Dr. Moore was a native of Pembina. He earned his degree at UND in 1915.

Mrs. Olivia Hamre Birchett, '32, is now residing at Tempe, Arizona. Her husband was recently killed when he was shot by a disgruntled client in his law office.

Mrs. Warren W. Larson died May 2 in Grand Forks, following a long illness. The former Beverly Hancock, she came to Grand Forks from Edmonton, Alberta and earned a degree in education and business at UND in 1935. She is survived by her husband, two children and her mother.

Mrs. Jeffry O. Wiek, a teacher in Tacoma schools for 15 years, died at the age of 59. She had been a foreign language teacher at Stadium High School in Tacoma for the past three years. She is survived by her husband, J. O. Wiek, a son and a sister.

M. F. Peterson, '55, has just returned from a two-month trip to Europe under a Fulbright Grant. He was one of 20 school administrators in the United States who made the trip to study the educational systems of the United Kingdom and Norway. Peterson serves as State Superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction, Bismarck, N. Dak.

William D. Brouse, '60, has been named director of public affairs for the Greater North Dakota Association with headquarters in Fargo. Brouse has previously been associated with the promotion departments of TV stations in North Dakota.

Reluctant M.D. Wins "Race" For Mayor

(Ed. Note: Dr. E. L. Grinnel, former president of the UND Alumni Association and a practicing physician in Grand Forks, was reading the April 29, 1963 issue of the "American Medical Association News". The following item caught his eye, and he forwards it to the Alumni Review with a note . . . "this proves that Otis is popular as well as smart!" Otis refers to Dr. L. O. Simenstad, a current member of the UND Alumni Board of Directors and the "hero" of the news article, which is herewith reprinted).

A physician who declined to be a candidate for Mayor of Osceola, Wisc., nevertheless found himself elected to the post.

Residents of the small community (about 1,000 people) staged a determined and successful write-in campaign for L. O. Simenstad, M.D.

Before the election, Dr. Simenstad had been nominated as one of the two mayoral candidates, but his name was withdrawn at his request. The write-in campaign followed and Dr. Simenstad won "rather handily". Being mayor,

HONOR MRS STARCHER

Mrs. George W. Starcher, wife of UND's president, was recently honored by Beta Sigma Phi International as "Woman of the Year for 1963". Beta Sigma Phi is a non-academic cultural society which honored Mrs. Starcher for distinguished service to her community.

● M.D. Wins 'Race'

(Continued from Page 4) which he said "doesn't require much time", is an old experience for Dr. Simenstad. He had held the job for 12 years until 1961, when he decided against running for another term.

Many ballots which were cast for him in this year's election could not be counted because they read only "Dr. Simenstad", and there is another Dr. Simenstad practicing in Osceola. That doctor is Paul Simenstad, M.D., one of two physician sons of the town's new mayor. The other is John Simenstad, M.D., who will soon begin practice in Osceola.

Busy, Busy Days Mark Spring on U Campus

Sgt. Orlin E. Cramer, instructor in military science at the University of North Dakota, has reenlisted for another three years in the U.S. Army. In his 15th year with the Army, Sgt. Cramer served in the First Cavalry Division before coming to UND.

Dr. Herbert J. Fromm, associate professor of biochemistry at the University of North Dakota, and Dr. Robert C. Nordlie, Hill research professor, have been awarded $24,200 from the National Institute of Health to purchase an analytical ultracentrifuge, for the study of molecular biology.

Research of Dr. Fromm and Dr. Nordlie is in the area of enzymology and this instrument will enable the biochemists to make complete studies of these organic catalysts of the cell.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Rocco, Niagara Falls, Ontario, won the prize for traveling the longest distance to attend the University of North Dakota's 1963 Mothers Day. University president George W. Starcher presented them with the book, "The University of the Northern Plains," Louis Geiger's history of UND. Mr. and Mrs. George Hallenbeck, Oak Park, Ill., came the second longest distance to visit their daughter, Joan, a senior.

A record crowd of 700 attended the fourth annual event. Miss Margaret Barr, faculty chairman, said 598 persons were served at the Saturday night banquet. Dr. Starcher was the speaker.

PROBE OCEAN

Man's probe of the ocean depths is providing answers to problems of space flight, according to Richard L. Crossman, speaker at the annual North Dakota Academy of Science banquet on May 3.

At Goodyear, Crossman's work is in Aeromechanics Research and Development, responsible for current design of escape capsules, supersonic and space flight survival projects. He is a former Grand Forks resident and obtained a B. S. degree from UND in 1941. He is now completing work in a doctorate program at the University of Michigan where he received his masters degree.

Dedicate New Burtness Theater

Dedication of the Burtness Theatre at the University of North Dakota was held April 28. Speaking at the dedication was Dr. Ronald Mitchell, director of theatre at the University of Wisconsin. Henry G. Lee, associate director of speech, is director of the theatre. Assistant director is Dr. Donald W. McCaffrey. Harry W. Campbell is technical director of the theatre.

The Burtness Theatre, a two and a half story Collegiate Gothic building, is located at the west side of University Drive, across from Merrifield Hall. The theatre is being financed largely with a $100,000 gift from Mrs. Zoe Burtness, wife of the late Olger B. Burtness, district court judge and six-term U.S. Congressman. Burtness, a native of Mekinock, was a graduate of the University, and the University Law School.

STARCHER SPEAKS ON DUAL FREEDOMS

Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president, addressed the North Dakota Press Association at their 77th Annual Convention on April 26 in Grand Forks, and stated that the press and the university are involved in the preservation of America's free way of life.

"The University can become great only when faculty and students enjoy freedom to learn and to teach—often called academic freedom," Starcher remarked, "The University, like the newspaper, must insist that the light of truth in a free society is the torch of our survival".

John Q. Adams, assistant professor of education at UND, has been awarded a one-year Fulbright Teaching Fellowship in India, starting July 1. He will be assigned to the Indian Ministry of Education through the U. S. Embassy in New Delhi.

GUIDANCE STUDY

"The Counselor as Mental Worker" is the theme of the sixth annual School of Guidance Studies at UND on May 11-14 on the campus under the direction of D. F. Brown, instructor in psychology.

TOP EDITOR SPEAKS AT U

John Mason Brown, a judge of the Book-of-the-Month Club and an editor-at-large of the Saturday Review, spoke at the UND Fieldhouse April 24, as the fifth event of the convocation series. His talk was entitled, "Seeing Things," a discussion of the present-day world as reflected in plays, books and films.

Sorority Leads In Scholarship

Delta Gamma sorority topped University of North Dakota student housing units in the 1962-63 first semester scholastic averages.

The sorority's average of 2.0405 (straight "A" is 3.00) edged out another sorority, Delta Delta Delta, which had topped the housing units in the two previous semesters. Delta Gamma's president is Heather McPherson, Cavalier.

Macnie Hall, a women's dormitory, led all dormitories with a 1.7380 to win a scholarship trophy donated by Wesley College. Barbara Berg, Bismarck, is president.

Pacing the male dormitories for the third consecutive semester is Sayre Hall with an average of 1.6551. Delroy Koetz, Enderlin, is president of Sayre which now takes permanent possession of a traveling trophy donated by the Department of Residence Services.

Fraternities were led by Delta Upsilon for the fourth consecutive semester, with an average of 1.6771. Roland Barden, McGregor, is president.

standing ROTC cadets. The review is part of a day-long Federal inspection of the Army ROTC detachment.

In addition to Ford, members of the Governor's Day committee are faculty members Wilson M. Laird, Ben G. Gustafson, J. Lloyd Stone, Henry Tomasek, Capt. James A. Graham, and Harvey Jacobson.

Engineer Fair To Recognize Science Students

Replacing the annual Engineer's Day is the Engineer's Fair, to be held on Friday, May 17 and Saturday, May 18 at the University of North Dakota Fieldhouse. A nationally-known speaker will highlight a banquet Friday evening at the UND Memorial Student Union. A noon luncheon on May 18 will include announcements of high school students who will receive engineering scholarships, and recognition of outstanding high school science students from each of North Dakota's 53 counties.

UND engineering students, local practicing engineers, faculty and other interested persons will participate in the event.

MOOT COURT HEAD AT LAW SCHOOL

A Moot court before the justices of the North Dakota Supreme Court and a convocation at which the chairman of the Federal Trade Commission spoke were highlights of the first annual School of Law Honors Day at UND, April 27.

Law School alumni, members of the state bar association, law students and guests attended. Participating in the event were Maurice Cook, President of the Student Bar Association, William T. DePuy, Grafton, N. D., city attorney; Richard P. Gallagher, Mandan, N. D., city attorney; Allen I. Olson, chairman of the student bar honors day committee; Dr. George W. Starcher, University president; Chief Justice James Morris, North Dakota Supreme Court; J.F.X. Conney, president of the State Bar Association.

Two graduates of North Dakota high schools will be awarded scholarships of $500 each by the Dan Dugan Transport Company, to attend a college or university in the state. Selection of winners will be made by a committee comprised of college presidents C. P. Lura, Minot State Teachers College; George W. Starcher, UND; and John A. Fisher, Jamestown College.

UND Graduate Named State Tax Commissioner

Lloyd B. Omdahl, who has been administrative assistant to North Dakota Governor William L. Guy, has been named as state tax commissioner, and began his new duties in mid-April.

The Governor termed Omdahl as "one of the most competent people I have ever met in my experience in state government"!

Omdahl, a native of Conway in Walsh county, will be one of the youngest state officials in an elective office. He is now 32 years of age, and received his high school education from the Division of Supervised Study in Fargo, graduated with honors in 1953 from UND with a major in journalism and social sciences. He received his M.A. degree from UND in 1961.

Omdahl has been very active in state political affairs and is the author of a book "The Insurgents", which is a detailed account of the NPL switch to the Democrats.

State Dormitory Named in Honor of Babcock

A new men's dormitory at the State School of Science at Wahpeton, N. D., will be named Babcock Hall in honor of Earle J. Babcock, former dean at the University of North Dakota.

Babcock came to UND in 1889 as an instructor in chemistry. He became dean of the School of Mines in 1901 and was named dean of engineering in 1916, a position he held until his death in 1925. He received an honorary Doctor of Science degree from UND in 1914, and was acting president from October, 1917, until April, 1918.

HEADS K. C. ALUMNI

Nell Henley, class of 1960, was elected president of the Kansas City Alumni group at the meeting on March 31st at the Carriage Club in Kansas City. Frederick P. Barnes was host at the dinner, with J. Lloyd Stone, Executive Vice President of the UND Alumni Association, as main speaker.

Retired Faculty Members Plan Events For 'Old Timers' at U Commencement

UND WILL PAY TRIBUTE to its "Old Timers" who were graduated 40 and 50 years ago at a special banquet on Saturday, June 1, in the Student Union. The planning committee is composed of retired members of the UND faculty, left to right, Dr. W. H. Moran, Dr. G. A. Abbott, Dr. Erich Selke, Dr. Ernest D. Coons, John E. Howard and the late Dr. Raymond Staley. Dr. Staley died unexpectedly on May 4.

$100 More at UND

State Board Increases Tuition Fees Next Fall

Action by the State Board of Higher Education will increase enrollment fees at the University of North Dakota by $100 a year, beginning in September, 1963.

The new schedule will raise incidental fees from the existing $60 a semester to $90 next Fall. The student service fee increases from the present $40 a semester to $60.

All full-time resident students, except those enrolled in law and medicine, will pay a total of $300 in fees for the two-semester academic year. Out of state students will pay $570 a year, also a $100 increase.

Fees for resident law students will total $330 a year and for out of staters, $600.

Medical school fees for residents will be $330 a year and for out of state students, $720.

While incidental and student service fees will go up, the non-resident fee will remain unchanged at $390 a year in the medical school and $270 in all other divisions. Out-of-staters pay the non-resident fee in addition to incidental and service fees.

Here is a breakdown of the new fees for one year (with existing fees in parenthesis):
Law—Resident, $330 ($230); out of state, $600 ($500).

Medicine — Resident, $330 ($230); out of state, $720 ($620).

All Others — Resident, $300 ($200); out of state, $570 ($470).

CHANGE GRADE SYSTEM

A change from the 3.0 to the 4.0 grading system will take effect with the first semester of the 1963-1964 academic year. Impetus for the conversion comes from the recent installation of automatic data processing equipment at UND. The 4.0 basis expedites use of the digital computer in determining grade-point averages in the office of the registrar.

PRESENT CONCERT

The University of North Dakota Choral Union presented Brahms' "Requiem" April 28 at the University Fieldhouse. The chorus, of over 400 voices, was directed by Robert B. Van Voorhis, UND instructor in music.

Paul Lundquist, pianist assisted and soloists were Mrs. Virginia Hunter, soprano, Tacoma, Wash., and James Fudge, bass, associate professor of music.

"Good" Old Days?

The Files of the ALUMNI REVIEW were being checked the other day, and these pictures of Camp Depression at UND came to view.

For the former UNDers who attended the University during the "dirty thirties", these photos will bring back memories of those "good old days".

Camp Depression came into being during the depression days that marked the 1930's, when old boxcars were converted into quarters for living, sleeping and eating. It's a far cry from today's Student Union, the modern multi-story dormitories and the Fritz Library.

So, take a moment to scan the pictures, as they bring back memories of those "good old days" at Camp Depression.

Schedule Health Workshop at UND

The tenth annual school health workshop for school personnel will be held June 2-8 at Camp Grassick, Dawson, under the direction of Walter C. Koenig, assistant professor of physical education for men at the University of North Dakota. He will be assisted by L. R. Marti, UND director of athletics and men's physical education.

The purpose of the workshop is to help school personnel develop better overall health programs and familiarize them with all aspects of physical fitness. Emphasis at the workshop will be on curricula, development of health habits and other facets of the health program; including mental health.

Sponsors of the workshop are the University of North Dakota, the North Dakota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the North Dakota State Department of Public Instruction, the North Dakota Tuberculosis and Health Association, the North Dakota State Department of Health, the North Dakota Public Health Association, the North Dakota National Foundation, Inc., and the North Dakota Health Association.

Consultant for the workshop will be Miss Ruth Sevy, director of women's physical education at the University of South Dakota, Vermillion. Assisting will be Miss Lucille Whitt, Minot State Teachers College women's physical education department; Miss Beulah Gregoire, North Dakota State University women's physical education department; Auke Van Holst, UND instructor in physical education; and Miss Esther Huseman, health education consultant, United States Public Health Service, Kansas City, Mo.

A wide variety of films, books, and resource material will be available for use and examination. School health and physical education personnel interested in attending the workshop should contact the director at the University of North Dakota. Facilities for families will be made available by the North Dakota Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Old Main's Replacement

Twamley Hall Becomes New UND Headquarters

TWAMLEY HALL, as viewed from back. It is built in an L-shape, and is located at the southwest corner of the campus mall. The original plans called for a three-story structure, but the Twamley gift of $200,000 enabled planners to add the fourth floor.

University Professor Writes Critiques

Dr. John Wills, associate professor of English at the University of North Dakota, has written three critical articles on novelist Joseph Conrad in the past year.

"The Secret Sharer" appeared in the winter edition of the University of Kansas City Review. The North Dakota Quarterly published "Conrad's Typhoon: A Triumph of Organic Art." The Texas Studies of Literature and Language featured an article entitled "A Neglected Masterpiece: Conrad's 'Youth'".

C. A. Sevrinson, Dean of Students at NDSU in Fargo, will be 65 during May, and will retire from his Deanship on July 1. A recent illness will prevent his attendance at the Twamley Hall Dedication.

An earlier critique by Wills, "Adam, Axel, and 'II Cande'" was reprinted in R. W. Stillman's The Art of Joseph Conrad; a Critical Symposium in 1961. In this publication, Wills joined such notable critics and authors as Andre Gide, Thomas Mann, and Robert Penn Warren.

"Lutenist," an ink drawing by University of North Dakota art instructor, A. T. Sarvis, has been accepted for hanging in the Fifth National Exhibition of Contemporary American Art, sponsored by the Oklahoma Printmakers Society at Oklahoma City. Sarvis, who received a masters degree from the University of New Mexico, and a bachelors degree from the California College of Arts and Crafts, has been at UND for three years.
