Horace Greeley Was Right!

Building Expansion Moves Westward

Westward expansion—across the English Coulee—is becoming a common occurrence in the University of North Dakota's building program.

Growing pains produced by an increasing enrollment, which hit a record 5,726 this fall, has forced the University to build west of the campus across the Coulee, formerly considered the "western boundary" of the UND campus.

The big changes on the UND campus map are being caused by an enrollment which has doubled since 1954 and is expected to almost double again in the next 10 years.

John C. West Hall, the first of a proposed six-dormitory complex west of the Coulee, was occupied in September, while two other units are under construction. These two units, known as McVey Hall and Building 83, are both residence halls and are scheduled for occupancy in the fall of 1965.

Additional housing for married students is also planned for the nearby area, which is already the main concentration of married housing. The University will call for bids to be opened in December for four new eight-plexes to be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1965. The new eight-plexes will be located directly west of the present eight-plexes.

Demolition Slated

While workmen are constructing the new buildings, demolition crews will be tearing down three structures long a part of the campus skyline. They are Davis, Macnie and Budge halls, built in 1887, 1907 and 1899 respectively. All are dormitories.

A year ago the State Board of Higher Education ruled that the three old buildings be torn down within five years, declaring them fire hazards and unsafe for student occupancy. University officials report that Davis is scheduled to be demolished this summer, Macnie this summer or a year later, and Budge in the summer of 1966.

One UND official recently reported that although UND dormitory spaces have increased 300 per cent in the past 10 years, the number of classrooms and laboratories for students has increased less than 15 per cent for the same period. The only building now under construction which will help alleviate the classroom shortage is the geology building, Leonard Hall, which is expected to be occupied for the second semester. Leonard Hall will contain classrooms, laboratories and offices for the geology department, as well as offices for the North Dakota Geological Survey.

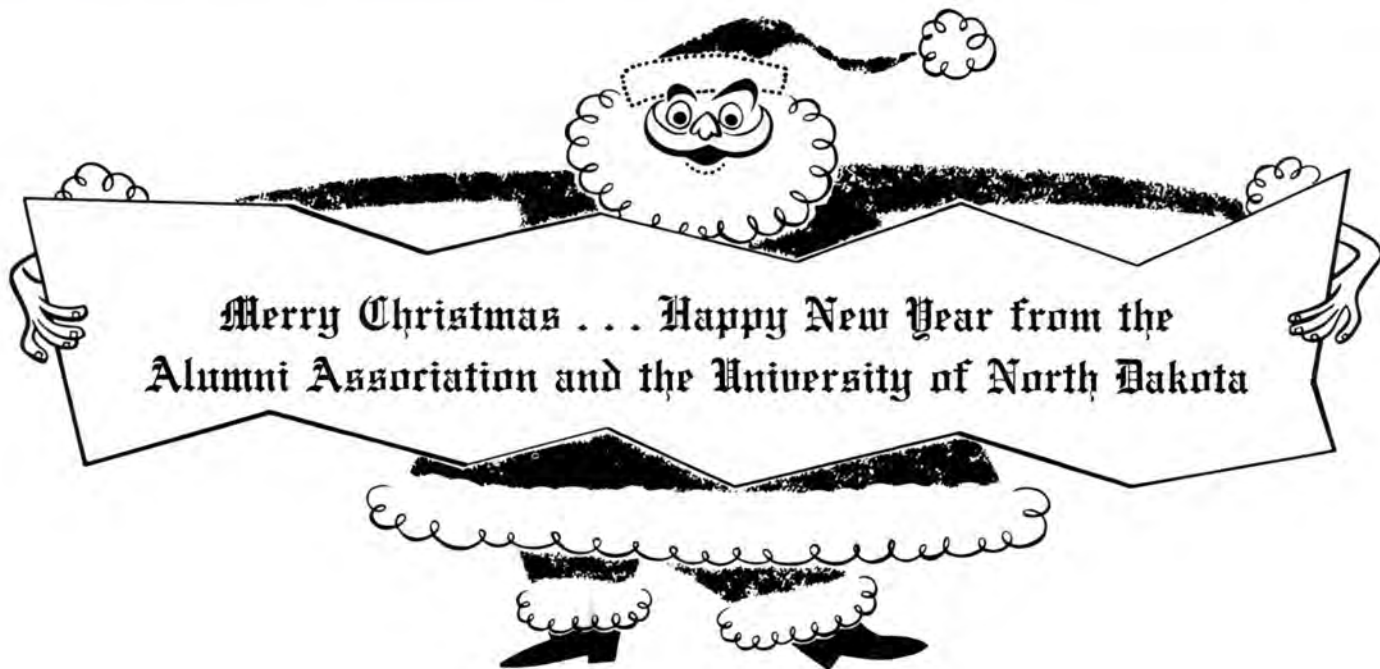

Need Classrooms

The request for buildings submitted to the 1965 Legislature emphasizes classroom buildings. The State Board of Higher Education has approved for submission to the State Budget Board requests for a business-public administration classroom building, $2 million; engineering classroom building, $1 million; women's physical education building, $900,000; industrial arts building and equipment, $380,000; and service building, $350,000.

Also approved by the Board are requests for $4.5 million for self-liquidating buildings, including dormitories, married student housing and a food service building, and $1.3 million in major plant improvements and repairs, including remodeling of Montgomery Hall, the old library, to better facilitate instructional purposes.

Also a part of the UND building request to the legislature, but rejected by the Board, are a physics building, $1.2 million; nursing and health service building, $350,000, and law building, $700,000.

University of North Dakota ALUMNI REVIEW

The University of North Dakota Alumni Review is published monthly, except July and August, by the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, N. Nominations Welcomed For Candidates

For the past few years, a selected number of UND Alumni have been honored with Sioux Awards.

A citations committee, made up of representatives of the Alumni Board and University officials, has been responsible for making the selections. The Citations Committee will continue to make the final selections.

The Sioux Awards have been given to UND Alumni who have reflected credit to their school by outstanding service in their communities, and to their fellowman through work in civic affairs, or business and professional life.

The citations committee would appreciate your help in securing nominations for the award winners. UND Alumni are scattered throughout the United States and the world, and news of their achievements may not always reach the Alumni Office—unless you send it in!

Alumni President Dr. Otis Simenstad urges all Alumni to submit the names of any Alumnus whose achievements in their communities justify consideration for this award. Nominations will be reviewed by the Citations Committee. The Sioux Award winners will be announced during the Homecoming Weekend on the campus each year.

UND Students Come From Everywhere

Students from every North Dakota county and 45 additional states are represented in the University of North Dakota student enrollment.

Latest figures for the first semester of the 1964-65 school year show 3,878 (68 per cent) of the total 5,726 enrollment are students from North Dakota. Of the remainder, Minnesota, with 692 students (12 per cent) leads the enrollment by states. The only states not represented are Delaware, Maine, Nevada and Vermont.

Students from outside the United States number 376 with 312 coming from Canada.

Grand Forks county has the most students attending UND with 1,112. Ranking next in total enrollments are Cass, 199; Walsh, 192; Burleigh, 188; Ward, 186; Pembina, 160, and Williams, 132. Included in the large Grand Forks county enrollment are students who originally came from other parts of North Dakota or the United States but have established residence at Grand Forks while attending the University.

Students from foreign countries other than Canada are from Iraq, Kuwait, Kenya, Germany, India, Singapore, Philippines, Taiwan, Columbia, Greece, Puerto Rico, Chile, Spain, British Guinea, Hong Kong, Korea, Pakistan, Turkey, Sweden and Iran.

Stone Presides At Council Sessions

J. Lloyd Stone, executive vice president of the UND Alumni Association, presided at a District Six meeting of the American Alumni Council in Topeka, Kansas during December.

Stone is chairman of the District Six alumni program, and headed an Alumni Problem clinic. Alumni representatives of colleges and universities in seven midwestern states and one Canadian province meet annually to discuss problems associated with fund raising, alumni and public relations and news editing.

Mrs. Berneice (Ball) Roller, '18, is state chairman of Alumni for New Mexico. She and her husband lived in Minneapolis until their retirement in Albuquerque five years ago.

Report from the Campus

By J. Lloyd Stone

Season's Greetings From the Campus!

The wonderful Yuletide season is fast approaching, as the year of 1964 draws to a close. The Alumni Office has been a busy place this fall, handling the details of the Development Fund campaign, helping with Homecoming, and keeping in touch with our far-flung Sioux Alumni.

We look forward eagerly to the arrival of Christmas, and hope to have our family "back home" on the campus. Grace and I hope this will be a most joyous Christmas for you and yours, wherever you are gathered, whether it be in the sultry tropics or the frozen north.

The eternal flame of Old Main will burn brightly this holiday season, reflecting the warm appreciation we feel for all of our Alumni family.

We received a heart-warming letter the other day from Ardell and Janet Olson, '54, '57, who now make their home in Wenatchee, Washington.

Ardell writes: "each year that my wife and I have been away from UND, we have become increasingly proud of our wonderful school. We are particularly impressed with the outstanding leadership of UND's President George Starcher. Remarkable advancements have been made at this institution and we have seen UND rise to higher stature as a state university and each alumnus can be justly proud."

"Both Janet and I know that when you graduate from UND—you will not be forgotten—and reversely, I feel certain that each UND graduate is cognizant of his indebtedness to the UND educational opportunities provided each alumni of this fine school. The University seems to breed people with intensity of purpose necessary to achieve success in all fields of endeavor."

The football season is wrapped up for 1964, but the UND team will leave many memories of a most successful season, finishing in a three-way tie for the conference crown. The basketball team is starting their long schedule, and Coach Fitch has a highly talented squad that could duplicate the success of the football team, and is rated one of the three top title contenders. The hockey team is shaping up, too, and Coach Bob Peters has a fine collection of athletes. Back for his final year is Don Ross of Roseau, who was out of school last year as a stellar defenseman with the U. S. Olympic Team. We're looking for great things this winter from both Bill and Bob.

Reservations Open for U Alumni Europe Tour

The month of May 1965 can be one of lasting memories for UND Alumni who participate on an escorted tour of Europe, as planned by the Alumni Association, the Champeau Travel Service, and coordinated by Dr. Arne Brekke, UND Assistant professor of Norwegian and German Languages.

Past tours of foreign lands, as planned by the Alumni Association, have been well received by tour participants, and the 1965 European Itinerary is the result of many requests.

Plans call for departure from New York City on May 5, via Trans World Airways jet flight, with the itinerary including visits of France, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and England.

The cost per person is $815, including trans-atlantic transportation from and to New York, all transfers and transportation in Europe, overnight hotel accommodations, breakfast and lunch or dinner, service of guides, tour conductor, tips, and many other items.

A full detailed itinerary is available, along with other details, from the UND Alumni Office. Dr. Arne Brekke, tour conductor who will escort the alumni group, encouraged all interested UND Alumni to address their inquiries and reservations to: ALUMNI OFFICE, University Station, Grand Forks, N. Dak., 58202.

Hyslop Makes $8,000 Gift To Development Fund

W. Kenneth Hyslop, a 1906 graduate of the University of North Dakota and a native of Inkster, has given $8,000 to the University Development Fund, announced J. Lloyd Stone, executive vice-president of the UND Alumni Association.

Hyslop now lives at Racine, Wis., where he has been retired since 1950. He is a former chairman of the board of Massey-Harris Machinery Company. He was also European general manager of the firm.

Hyslop's gift brings the 1964 Development Fund to more than $25,000 Stone said. The goal for this year is $74,000, to be raised by alumni in all 50 states.

The Development Fund is used by the Alumni Association for scholarships, faculty grants, salaries, University publicity and the "Alumni Review." William G. Micklin, Grand Forks, is national chairman of the Development Fund drive.

Hyslop has been one of the University's most loyal financial supporters, Stone said, and has contributed more than $40,000 to the Development Fund in the past few years. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Citation in 1959 for outstanding achievement and loyalty to the University.

Hyslop went to work for International Harvester in Alberta, Canada, in 1910. In April, 1914, he went to Europe where he lived for more than 24 years. He was manager of International Harvester for six years in Spain and three years in France.

He joined the staff of Ford Motor Company in 1924 and worked seven years as manager in Spain and France.

In 1931 he was employed by the Massey-Harris Company as European manager and held the position until 1938. He returned to the United States to become president and general manager of Massey-Harris in the United States.

Patricia Whelan, '62, teaches Spanish and English at Valley City High School. Prior to teaching, she worked for 15 months in the publications department of Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

Dates Set For Competition of H. S. Students

"Know Your State," the eleventh annual awards competition in North Dakota history, government and citizenship, will open for all North Dakota high school juniors and seniors on Jan. 13-14. More than 5,000 are expected to take examinations in quest of an all-expense paid trip to the University of North Dakota where the final round for $600 in prizes will be conducted Feb. 14 and 15.

18 UND Students Nominated For Scholarships

Eighteen UND students have been nominated for Woodrow Wilson Fellowships, and will be interviewed by a regional committee in Minneapolis in January.

The Fellowships award is $1,800 a year plus allowances for dependents and fees at a U. S. or Canadian graduate school. They are given each year to 1,000 college and university students to encourage them to teach at institutions of higher learning.

Johnson; Stanley, Robert O. Burbidge; Williston, Mrs. A. D. MacMaster (Neva Hyde) and Cando, Robert M. Lord.

In South Dakota, State Chairman Clair T. Blikre has appointed these area chairmen: Dr. Jack Cowan, Pierre; Dr. Howard R. Wold, Madison; Charles Lutgen, Aberdeen; Mrs. Robert Holdrige, Brookings; Harold P. Adams, Huron; Mrs. Grace Kellogg, Rapid City; Cliff A. Herman, Sioux Falls; and Mrs. S. B. Krochock, Watertown;

NEW BOOK DESCRIBES BONANZA FARMING

Dr. Hiram M. Drache, associate professor of history at Concordia College, has written a 290-page book on an exciting period of agricultural history in the Red River Valley entitled "The Day of the Bonanza."

Dr. Drache, who received his Ph.D. from UND, expects the book to be off the press during December. The story of the Bonanza Days in North Dakota is told in a lively and penetrating fashion, and deals with the 40 individuals who incorporated to purchase 28,000 acres of land for an investment of $92,000 in 1876, which mushroomed into a total of seven million dollars by 1923.

U FALL MUSIC FESTIVAL HELD NOV. 12

More than 400 outstanding high school musicians from the area and the state attended the Fall Music Clinic Festival at UND Nov. 12-14. A concert by the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra opened the three-day clinic, which was sponsored by the UND music department.

Vern K. Maier, '60, now resides in Wilmington, Illinois.

Dale R. Schmid, '60, resides in Seattle, Washington, where he is a C.P.A. with Haskins and Sells.

NEWS NOTES

James C. Melik, '60, received his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in 1963. All of his theses have been published. He is now Consulting Paleontologist with the Mobil Exploration Mediterranean, Inc., and resides in Ankara, Turkey.

James Adam Lahren, '60, is teaching at the State University in Brockport, New York.

Daniel Merrill Hydeman, '60, is a High School science teacher in Modesto, California. He is married, has three children, and for the past two summers has been the recipient of a National Science Grant. He has studied at Ball State Teachers College, Indiana, Louisiana State College, and at Boulder, Colorado.

Mildred Wells, '64, has been chosen one of four women in the United States to train in the U. S. Air Force Occupational Therapy Student Program. Miss Wells received her B.S. degree in occupational therapy at UND.

EXPANDS UND SCHOOL OF AIR SERIES IN STATE

The UND statewide educational series, "North Dakota School of the Air" has expanded its services this year to include 24 counties in North Dakota, with an estimated 26,000 students hearing the program.

The UND music department initiated the program, and each week a member of the music department visits elementary classrooms by radio via the "School of the Air."

David E. Beech, UND speech instructor and producer of the series, says "the response has been wonderful, and we are adding one or two counties each week."

Applications for Engineering Tests Being Accepted

High school students who want to apply for the National Engineering Aptitude Test should submit their applications by Dec. 15 to Oscar E. Manz, associate professor of civil engineering, Box 8173, University Station, Grand Forks.

Manz is North Dakota director of the Junior Engineering and Technical Society (JETS), sponsor of the test.

The tests are designed to measure engineering or science aptitude in students from the ninth through twelfth grades. The tests are scheduled for Jan. 15 or 16.

CAMPUS NOTES

Dr. Charles W. Bullard, associate professor of economics at UND, gave the second in a series of five faculty lectures during December at Abbott Hall. The series of lectures is designed to recognize academic leadership of distinguished UND professors, and to allow them to share their findings and studies with others.

More than 100 accountants, lawyers and tax consultants were on the campus in early December for a two-day session of studying latest income tax policies and changes on state and national levels. The annual affair was sponsored this year by the UND College of Business and Public Administration, in cooperation with the North Dakota Bar Association.

Charles E. Whittaker, former justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, was among the speakers at the a legal forum at the UND Law School on December 12. The forum was held in the University Center, and is financed by a $2,000 grant from the Sperry & Hutchinson Co. Two additional forums are scheduled this year.

A famous comedy, Moliere's "The Imaginary Invalid" marked the second production of the season in December for the University Theater.

A book review by Robert E. Beck, assistant professor of law at UND, has been published in the "Fordham Law Review". Beck is in his third year at UND, and was in private practice of law for several years before coming to UND in 1962.

Dr. W. L. Cash Jr., chairman of the counseling and guidance department at UND, has been appointed state representative to the North Central Committee on Professional Standards for the Preparation of Secondary School Counselors.
