Senate University Assessment Committee
Annual Report for Academic Year 2016-17

The Senate University Assessment Committee (UAC) provides faculty guidance and oversight to the Office of the Vice President of Academic Affairs and Provost in developing and implementing the University Assessment Plan. In addition, the committee analyzes and interprets assessment results, develops appropriate reports, and disseminates assessment results to the Office of Vice President of Academic Affairs and Provost, the University Senate, and the community.

The University Assessment Committee was able to accomplish the tasks and responsibilities charged to it by the University Senate, in part due to the support provided by Joan Hawthorne, Director of Assessment & Regional Accreditation. Joan continues to dedicate a great deal of her time to this committee and we are grateful for her continued support and expertise.

Much of the work of assessment has been, and is, conducted outside the University Assessment Committee. The UAC wishes to thank the Essential Studies Committee, the Office of Institutional Research and Effectiveness, and the University community for their assessment efforts. Every contribution is vital to the assessment process at the University of North Dakota. Special thanks are also offered to Jodi Steiner who willingly shared her assessment knowledge and time with the University Assessment Committee on an ongoing basis.

The Senate University Assessment Committee for the 2016-17 academic year was chaired by Shari Nelson (VPSA Designee). Committee members for the 2016-17 year included:

Mary Askim-Lovseth (BPA)
James Casler (JDO)
Andrew Quinn (Nursing & Professional Disciplines)
Surojit Gupta (CEM)
Debra Hanson, MED
Joan Hawthorne (Director of Assessment & Regional Accreditation)
Margaret Jackson (Law)
Shari Nelson (VPSA Designee)
C. Casey Ozaki (Graduate Studies Designee)
Deborah Worley (EHD)
Ryan Zerr (A&S and Director, Essential Studies)
Jodi Steiner (Recorder; Institutional Research)

Students were asked to serve on the Assessment Committee but did not participate.

Functions and Responsibilities of the University Assessment Committee

The University Senate has identified six areas of responsibility for the University Assessment Committee. The responsibilities of the Committee and its accomplishments during the 2016-17 academic year are addressed as follows:

I. Address all issues regarding assessment of student achievement and development.

This year, UAC suspended its three-year review cycle of academic & non-academic programs, as well as institutional survey tools and, conducted, a micro-review of all academic and non-academic programs. This micro-review examined the past three years of plans and reports from each program in order to obtain a longitudinal view of progress made in student learning goal articulation, assessment methods, reporting of results, and closing the loop activities. This allowed the committee to identify further training needs, areas of strengths and improvements, as well as the opportunity to adapt review templates based on findings, in an effort to increase clarity and ease of use for both reviewer and reviewees.

II. Develop, review, and evaluate the University Assessment Plan in conjunction with the Assessment Director.

This document is to be reviewed every other year and was reviewed in fall 2015. The plan should be reviewed again in fall 2017. To access the most recent version of the University Assessment Plan (November, 2015), please visit: http://und.edu/university-senate/committees/assessment/_files/docs/univ-asmt-plan.pdf

- III. Oversee and evaluate the implementation of the University Assessment Plan, evaluate assessment activities and the interpretation of assessment results, and evaluate the overall effectiveness of the Plan.

As stated in Item I above, UAC conducted a micro-review of all academic and non-academic programs. 81 undergraduate programs, 78 graduate programs, and 13 non-academic programs (student support) were reviewed as part of this process. Results showed that, for the previous three years, 83% of undergraduate, 72% of graduate, and 85% of co-curricular programs described assessment methods in their annual assessment reports, with 86% of undergraduate, 83% of graduate, and 100% of co-curricular programs reporting results. Over the past few years, there has been significant progress in closing the loop activities, with 79% of undergraduate programs, 59% of graduate programs, and 77% of Student Support Office taking actions based on assessment data in the 2015-16 academic year. However, there is still room to growth and departments will continue to be given results from their reviews, including recommendations on areas they can strengthen

- IV. Make recommendations regarding how to address any deficiencies that are revealed by assessment activities.

A process for providing feedback from the Committee to administrators and departments is in place but was suspended in 2016-17 to allow for the micro-review previously discussed. It will be reinstated for 2017-18. It should be noted that the Assessment Committee review is viewed as advisory to departments and programs. Program review is the place where action should occur if deficiencies noted in the Assessment Committee reviews are not addressed.

- V. Review University Accreditation Report when issued and advise the Senate regarding the Report and its implications.

The Assessment Committee continues to support institutional efforts related to accreditation and results from the micro-review conducted this past year will be used in UND's 2017 Assurance Report to the HLC.

- VI. Work with Institutional Research & Effectiveness to keep the Assessment Committee's website current.

The Office of Institutional Research & Effectiveness (recently renamed) continues to maintain the Assessment Committee's website. Several key features of the site include: a section on the basic steps of writing an assessment plan, a section for students that describes key findings from survey tools, resources for campus constituents about assessment, and resources for committee members who conduct reviews of assessment plans, including posting of the most up to date assessment review templates. In addition, the assessment plans of academic departments and non-academic units that attend to student learning and development are available to the campus and to the public on the Assessment Committee website. For more information, please visit: <http://und.edu/university-senate/committees/assessment/>

Summary: During 2016-17 the University Assessment Committee fulfilled its purpose, function and responsibilities including a micro-review of all academic and non-academic assessment activities, and a review of templates for assessment reviews.

Respectfully Submitted,

Shari Nelson

Recommendations of the Essential Studies Committee to the University Senate Executive Committee regarding Essential Studies Curricular Processes

13 November 2017

Summary and Background

Discussions related to the ES Committee's recent actions to revise the ES Program requirements in diversity/intercultural knowledge & skills have suggested the possible need to establish for the future a more formalized process for reporting ES Committee actions to the University Senate. Among other things, the ES Committee is the body which reviews and approves courses for inclusion in the ES curriculum, reviews assessment results and other information related to ES Program effectiveness, and formulates program revisions – as needed – based on assessment results and other information.

The functions of the ES Committee are clearly distinct from those performed by the University Curriculum Committee, but in the sense that they have a direct effect on the undergraduate curriculum, may call for the creation of a process by which certain clearly specified ES Committee actions are reported on a regular basis to the University Senate as part of a standing item on the University Senate's monthly agenda. This would create an alignment in the process followed by other undergraduate curricular changes, thereby ensuring that changes to the undergraduate curriculum of any nature are officially and regularly reported to the University Senate.

There are five primary mechanisms by which ES Committee actions may affect the undergraduate curriculum:

1. Course Validation: The process whereby a non-ES course is reviewed for inclusion within the ES Program.
2. Course Revalidation: A once-every-four-year process whereby each ES course is reviewed for continued inclusion within the ES Program.
3. ES Program Assessment and Loop Closing: Through the ES Assessment Week process, as well as through review of other sources of data, the ES Committee interprets information related to the ES Program's effectiveness, making program revisions if necessary.
4. Honors Program Relationship to the ES Program: Approval of the Major in Honors as a satisfactory alternative to the standard ES Program requirements.
5. General Education Articulation Agreements: At the request of departments, colleges, or the university generally, agreements which are intended to allow a waiver of some or all of an incoming student's general education requirements.

These activities are consistent with the ES Committee's charge and have historically not been included in any formal reporting process to the University Senate beyond that which comes within the committee's annual report. The present report to the University Senate Executive Committee is being submitted to request the establishment of a process whereby some or all of the above types of actions will in the future be a regular agenda item of the University Senate.

ES Committee Recommendation to the University Senate Executive Committee Regarding Changes to the ES Program’s Diversity/Intercultural Knowledge & Skills Requirement

To facilitate the successful transition to the revised diversity/intercultural knowledge & skills requirement of the ES Program, the ES Committee moves forward in receiving and reviewing course validations so as to be ready for an effective date for the new requirement for all students who start Fall 2019 or later. See accompanying “Changes to the ES Requirement Related to Diversity/ Intercultural Knowledge & Skills” supporting document.

ES Committee Recommendations to the University Senate Executive Committee Regarding the ES Curriculum Process

To facilitate effective communication with the University Senate Executive Committee and the University Senate, the ES Committee recommends the following:

1. To establish a regular reporting and approval process for ES Committee actions, the University Senate Executive Committee henceforth (starting with the December 2017 or January/February 2018 University Senate meetings) include a standing item on the University Senate calendar which reports to the University Senate the following types of ES Committee actions:
 - Course validations
 - Course revalidations
 - ES Program revisions
 - Actions which involve alternative means for satisfying ES Program requirements, including through completion of a degree in the Honors Program or via articulation agreements with other institutions
2. To formalize a regular reporting and approval process for ES Committee actions, the University Senate Executive Committee direct the Faculty Handbook Committee to work in conjunction with the ES Committee to revise Section 3.9.4 (Criteria for General Education Courses) to:
 - Reflect an updated conception of UND’s general education program – Essential Studies; and
 - Codify the process described in Item 1 above.
3. To more fully establish a line of communication between the ES Committee and the University Curriculum Committee (UCC), the two bodies regularly report a summary of committee activities to the other and seek feedback on issues of mutual concern.

Changes to the ES Requirement Related to Diversity/Intercultural Knowledge & Skills

13 November 2017

Nature of the Changes

- Retains current ES Program’s two-course requirement
- Changes criteria for the two course categories, as well as the category names:
 - Current: U.S. Diversity & Global Diversity
 - New: The Diversity of Human Experience & Analyzing Worldview
- Detailed background on the nature of the changes: ES Newsletter Story, May 15, 2017: <http://blogs.und.edu/essentialstudies/2017/05/changes-coming-to-essential-studies-diversity-requirements/>

The Diversity of Human Experience	Analyzing Worldview
Focus: The course materials, assignments, topics of discussion, and/or learning activities demonstrate that the course is helping students better understand the diversity of the human experience and is committed to encouraging a consideration of the multiplicity of differing worldviews.	Focus: The course materials, assignments, topics of discussion, and/or learning activities demonstrate that the class examines the real-world consequences of differing worldviews by giving students tools to analyze social inequities.
Threshold Concepts: The course materials, assignments, topics of discussion, and/or learning activities demonstrate that the course is teaching these threshold concepts: 1) the existence of cultural differences and the complexity of social identities, and 2) that worldviews are constructed through our identities and cultures.	Threshold Concepts: The course materials, assignments, topics of discussion, and/or learning activities demonstrate that the course is teaching these threshold concepts: 1) privilege and oppression are part of larger social institutions and systems; and 2) Ideologies represent the values and interests of a particular group and they are the fundamental means through which systems of privilege and oppression are organized.
Encouraging Student Reflexivity: Course assignments and/or activities demonstrate that students have had defined opportunities to reflect on their own identities, cultures, and worldviews; and to reflexively consider their worldviews as the product of their identities and cultures.	Encouraging Student Reflexivity: Course assignments and/or activities demonstrate that students have had defined opportunities to practice metacognition—and to understand themselves as existing within ideology and systems of oppression and privilege.
The Focus, Threshold Concepts, and assignments/activities that Encourage Student Reflexivity must constitute at least 1/3 of the course’s focus and graded assignments.	Transferable academic skills for productively engaging with difference are an explicit and primary component of the course: The Focus, Threshold Concepts, and assignments/activities that Encourage Student Reflexivity must constitute at least 1/2 of the course’s focus and graded assignments.

Why a Change Is Needed

- Recent assessment results:
 - Direct Assessment Results: <http://und.edu/academics/essential-studies/assessment.cfm> Only 15% of UND students score as “accomplished” in this particular learning goal category; results available for the other learning goal categories of the program are at least twice as high.
 - Indirect Assessment Results: <http://und.edu/research/institutional-research/surveys/2015-nsse.cfm> UND students – at both the first year and senior levels – score significantly lower than students at comparative institutions in the category of “discussions with diverse others.” In fact, this is the one area of the report in which UND seniors score at the lowest level in comparison to students at comparative institutions.
- Formation of and recommendations from the Diversity Advisory Council explicitly called for attention to the diversity/intercultural knowledge & skills component to the ES Program
 - Charge: <http://und.edu/provost/diversity/diversityinclusion.cfm> (note Item 1 in the charge)

- Recommendations: <http://und.edu/provost/diversity/files/docs/dac-recommendations-16.pdf> (note page 3, bullet point 5)
- Informal feedback from October 2016 campus forum (approximately 50 in attendance) indicated support for the nature of the changes
 - Forum Slide Deck: <http://blogs.und.edu/essentialstudies/wp-content/uploads/sites/72/2016/11/October-18-All-Campus-Diversity-Session.pdf> (this contains a summary of assessment and other information mentioned in links above)
- Supports Goals #1 and #5 of the One UND Strategic Plan.

Campus Communication & Outreach

- Two open forums – Fall 2015 and Fall 2016
- Five meetings with ES faculty
- Five U Letter stories
- Three U Senate meetings
- Four ES Newsletter stories
- Direct emails: ES faculty, U/G department chairs, administration
- ES Committee minutes and agendas – available on the ES website
