Editorial:

Smug Smoes Smeared

In between buses, the student hoping to catch a ride at the gates of the University is bound to wonder about the auto drivers who pass him up with empty back seats.

Do these motorists, some of them University students themselves, believe that the hiker will pull out a gun and hold them up in the 30-odd blocks to the downtown section?

Do these same drivers ever toy with the idea that the guy standing on the corner might have a dental appointment or would like to do some shopping downtown or would even like to get next to a cool malted milk?

Do they smugly say to themselves, "I own this car and I can't see why I should pick anybody up?"

Or perhaps they had disillusioning experiences in the past with ill-mannered University students who swarmed into the car with no consideration for the driver or the number his car is capable of carrying. —LGC

Campus Banter

BY THE STAFF

Hutment residents have been complaining that their new fangled storm sheds (built in the spring, which comes right after WINTER), fail to keep out such little items as rainwater, mosquitoes and other bugs of varying shapes and sizes (mostly big!) But one of them thought things were going too far when he had to chase a full grown frog out of the house.

On one of these sizzling days, somebody demanded, and got—the steam turned on all morning in Merrifield hall.

The DAKOTA STUDENT, issue of 30 B. C., yielded this bit of poetic wisdom:

As cars pass over the road by law drivers curse and vainly paw at steering wheels that jolter . . . these campus roads both left and right with ruts, holes and bumps are like the testing grounds of general motors.

Those dances held at the Armory are fun. But the worst gag of the week concerns a formal dance. A fellow had just asked his girlfriend to a formal dance. Said he, "I'll be down to get you in a tuxie, honey."

* * * *

Yah, and there was the gag about Cecil Ralph who had one of his girl friends out the other night. He said, "She was beautiful all right—just had a blemish between her ears."

Joe Louis may have retired from the ring undefeated but they say he's just a piker compared to Princeton Dorm's "One-round" Hogan.

UND roads aren't the only muddy problems on the campus. Grounds surrounding the new geology, industrial arts and UND Press structures back of the chemistry building present faculty, students and visitors with "new bogs to conquer" whenever it rains. Haphazardly laid "boardwalks" relieve the situation to some extent.

Vicious cycle: And now that the rains aren't, the dust is! You can hardly see across the street these days.

In appreciation for the class meeting for a makeup session Tuesday afternoon, one of the more generous faculty members passed out ice cream bars to help alleviate the 90 degree heat.

Trailerite's Pet Hit-Run Victim

Tragedy stalks the campus!

And the hit-run driver who caused it all still is at large.

The dog, a cute terrior, was killed when struck by the car at University and Cambridge.

All broken up over it was the girl, an Oxford trailer resident, who owned the pup. She was prostrate with grief, and had to be assisted home by witnesses to the accident.

New Geology Building To Be Ready in Fall

Work on the new Geology building east of the Industrial Arts structure, is proceeding according to schedule and will be ready for regular classes in September.

In charge of arranging the structure is Irving Grossman of the geology faculty, assisted by Eric Engbrecht and Walter Barke. In addition to the department, the building will house the North Dakota Geological survey.

The survey is conducting numerous field and laboratory experiments in the state this summer.

Stanley Fisher, Jr., instructor at Rutgers university, New Jersey, is mapping the Coleharbor and Turtle Lake quadrangles. John P. Manry is from the University of Cincinnati.

Geological results of this mapping will be useful to the bureau of reclamation as well as other federal and state agencies.

Grossman will complete the preliminary study of the sodium sulphate deposits of the state and will write the report on them.

Engbrecht will also go into the field with Jerome Daly of the UND School of Mines faculty to test the use of a geo-physical instrument known as the Megger, purchased by the school of mines. This instrument, it is hoped, will be useful in locating lignite and underground water.

Dr. Wilson M. Laird, who has general supervision of the survey, is on leave of absence in Montana.

Spend $10,000 To Improve U Hockey Layout

By LOREN SWANSON

A $10,000 improvement program at the Winter Sports Building is nearing completion, Athletic Director Glenn Jarrett reports.

New permanent bleachers with a seating capacity of 1500 have been erected across the entire east end of the building. Other bleachers installed along the sides of the rink will accommodate an additional 1500.

At the same time the skating rink has been moved farther east in the building, leaving about 60 feet on the west end for temporary bleachers for special events. This will bring the seating capacity well over 3000.

The rink has been lengthened 12 feet making it 200 by 85 feet, maximum regulation hockey size.

Warming room facilities also have been revised. Two new steam-heated rooms are being installed beneath the bleachers on the east end. The front warming room has been devoted almost entirely to lunch room facilities for which new equipment has been purchased.

Arrangements also are being made to provide better parking facilities.

Scheduling is now under way to complete a 22-game hockey slate. Highlights will be home games with the University of Minnesota, Michigan Tech, Michigan State and possibly Colorado and Wyoming. In addition a number of Canadian teams will appear here.

Urge Attendance At Dance Sessions

All students are urged to attend the recreational dance classes held in the University armory every Thursday at 8 p.m. Square, folk, circle and social dancing are taught to the group.

Students are given an opportunity to use their talents as did George Busch of Rugby who called the square dances last Thursday. Busch is working for his masters degree.

Anyone experienced in calling square dances is urged to assist with this phase of the program.

Coming Events:

Slate Lutheran Pastors' Seminar for Next Month

The Lutheran Pastors' Seminar will be held at the University August 16-21, according to Rev. O. L. Proehl, dean of the seminar.

Initiated last summer by the Grand Forks Lutheran Pastoral group, the seminar will attract approximately 60 ministers from Western Minnesota and Eastern North Dakota, Rev. Proehl said.

Registration will take place in Room 1 Merrifield, with all classes meeting in that same building. Sessions will be held at 9 to 12 a.m. and 4:30 to 6 p.m.

Four main courses will be offered, with visiting pastors instructing. Dr. A. Kretzman of Chicago will teach Pastoral Theology; Dr. G. M. Bruce of St. Paul, The Epistle to the Hebrews; Dr. H. Sasse of Erlangen University in Bavaria, World Trends in Christianity, and Dr. Edgar Carlson, president of Gustavus Adolphus college at St. Peter, Minn., Luther Studies.

Officers of the group sponsoring the seminar are Rev. L. E. Tallakson of the United Lutheran church, secretary; Rev. Forest I. Monson of the Sharon Lutheran church, treasurer, and Rev. Proehl, all of Grand Forks.

Schedule Federal Workshop On Campus August 2-6

A federal workshop for persons engaged in state and federal employment testing will be held on the University campus August 2-6, Dr. Erich Selke, professor of education, announces.

A. P. Cole, senior training officer of the campus VA office, is on a one-week vacation in the Minnesota lake area.

Any veteran who graduates is entitled to an unqualified certificate of eligibility for the remainder of entitlement, said certificate to be used in any approved training which the veteran may desire.

The veteran's entitlement is generally 12 months plus one month for every month in the service. Any veteran wanting to know the amount of entitlement time he has left can obtain this information from the Registration Section, Veterans Administration, Fargo, N. Dak. Public law 16 students can get this information from the campus VA office.

Convo Audience Hears 'World' Entertainer

By RALPH FREED

Serafim Strelkoff, Russian basso and world traveler, entertained last Tuesday's convocation audience with lilting music and witty remarks on his globe trotting experiences.

His program, entitled "Around the World for a Song," included Volga river songs, Gypsy folk songs and "Danny Boy." He accompanied himself on his own guitar.

Strelkoff also sang the U.S. version of the Volga Boatmen which, he said, "is now becoming popular in Russia."

He told of his start to travel around the world from Hollywood by singing for his expenses with a guitar he couldn't play and about $8 in his pockets.

During his travels Strelkoff visited 37 countries in Europe, Asia and North America. All the while he was wearing black Russian boots, black pantaloons and a black, high collared jacket with a belt.

The "Volga Boatmen" and "Old Man River" are two songs generally enjoyed the most by his world audiences, he related. Asiatics, however, liked gypsy songs best.

Strelkoff came here from New New York City.

N. D. Players Give Show Saturday

The Prairie Players, North Dakota repertory theater group, will appear in Central high school auditorium Saturday night at 8:15 p.m. in "The Importance of Being Earnest," opening production of its third summer season

The company, composed entirely of North Dakota actors and actresses, is rehearsing Oscar Wilde's scintillating comedy at its headquarters in Jamestown.

Major cities in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota are included in this year's itinerary. A disastrous automobile accident last summer cut short the players season. Marion J. Jackson is director of the group.

Delay Union Start Until Next Spring

A new timetable for construction of the Memorial Student Union on the campus has been set up by officers of the project. It calls for starting building operations next spring.

While preparation of final plans and specifications for the building are progressing, work on them cannot be completed by the architects until early in the fall.

This will prevent any thought of starting construction this fall, as had been hoped for. Instead bids will be advertised during the winter, and all other details completed preparatory to an early spring start.

The $500,000 recreation center will be built east of the law building. Exact site of the structure will be determined by Twin City landscape architects.

Rabbi to Speak At Tuesday Convo

Rabbi Lou H. Silberman of Omaha, Neb., will speak at the fourth convocation next Tuesday July 13. Topic of Silberman's address will be "The Carrot Seed, a Parable for Our Day."

The speaker is one of the outstanding platform orators of the middlewest. He has filled a number of college speaking engagements in the past year and press reviews indicate that he has been unusually well received.

John E. Howard, convocation chairman states that special music will precede the address.

Presiding will be Dean J. V. Breitwieser, director of the summer session.

Hein Not Coming Here As ROTC Unit Head

Col. Frederick W. Hein, originally named to succeed Col. Check as campus ROTC head, has been reassigned to the office of the Chief of Security, Intelligence Division, Pentagon Building in Washington. No other officer has yet been assigned to the University post.

Only Holiday Of Session Over

With Monday's Independence day vacation from classes over, summer session students settled down to the real grind of completing the final six weeks of the term.

Monday's holiday will be the only one of the term, but students did take time off Thursday for a sightseeing tour of Grand Forks.

Next thing to confront students in an academic way will be mid-term tests, many of which already are being plotted by instructors.

Poll:

What Students Are Thinking

TOPIC

How did you spend the fourth of July weekend?

MILTON HAGEN, senior in the school of education. "For taking a correspondence course besides my regular subjects, I was forced to stay at home and study. About four p. m. when it became too hot to continue, I sought a cool theater in which to recuperate."

DOUGLAS BURAU, freshman in SLA. "I spent most of the weekend driving around the state and trying to cool off. I also earned a little money Saturday and Sunday by playing two band jobs."

FAYE VANTINE, senior in SLA. "Lake Bemidji was my haven during the holidays. By fishing and swimming I managed to avoid most of the heat and for evening entertainment there was the Shorecrest. The water carnival also added to a pleasant weekend."

KITTY PAGE, sophomore in SLA. "During the fourth I went to the Ada, Minn., state fair and acted as a spotter for the judge of the annual horse show. Last year I rode in the event, but recently my horse had a colt and spoiled my chances of competing in Sunday's contest."

HARVEY LIBERT, senior in the school of commerce. "I had a very nice weekend by staying home, drinking beer, shooting fireworks and doing 12 pages of accounting."

Band Gives 2d Concert Wednesday

The University band will present its second open air concert in the triangle between Old Main and the Armory at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The program chosen by Director John E. Howard consists of popular band numbers, including "Morning, Noon and Night Overture" by Suppe, "Gold and Silver Waltzes" by Lahr, and selections from the "Desert Song" and "Chocolate Soldier."

A trumpet trio by William Pond, William Spornitz and James Thornton will be featured. Marches included will be "Hall of Fame" by Olivadoti, "Dunlap Commandery by Hall, "Minnesota March" by Sousa and "UND March" by King.

Chairs are furnished for those who do not have cars.

Following the concert, band members will join in an ice cream party honoring several band students who are to be married this summer.

She and other members of the staff will take over the work of Prof. Sewell Mason who will be on leave of absence, studying for an advanced degree at the University of Washington, Seattle.

Meanwhile, other new staff appointments are being considered by the president's office. Vacancies to be filled include two deanships to replace Dean Alfred Lawton of the school of medicine, who resigned; and Dean E. T. Towne of the school of commerce, who is retiring.
