The University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences, founded in 1905, was a two-year school of basic medical science until 1973 when the North Dakota Legislature approved initiation of a four-year curriculum leading to the doctor of medicine (M.D.) degree. The school offers a statewide, university-based, community-integrated medical education program which places an emphasis on primary care. Practicing physicians, constituting the majority of the faculty, educate medical students in clinics and hospitals throughout the state.

The mission of the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences is to educate and prepare North Dakota residents as physicians, medical scientists and other health professionals for service to the people of North Dakota and the nation, and to advance medical knowledge through research. Through its federally-funded Indians Into Medicine (INMED) Program, the school also seeks to address disparities in access to health care by educating American Indians as physicians and as other health professionals.

The first two years of medical education are provided at the UND campus in Grand Forks. The third year is completed in hospitals in Fargo, Grand Forks and Bismarck, and the fourth year consists of clinical rotations at Grand Forks, Minot, Bismarck and Fargo. Students may elect to take the majority of their third year in rural communities through a program called ROME, Rural Opportunities in Medical Education. Medical students also have the opportunity to experience training in other parts of the country and even the world during fourth-year electives. Postgraduate residency training in family medicine, internal medicine, general surgery and psychiatry, as well as a one-year transitional program, is conducted in the state's four major cities.

The University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences offers a combined M.D./Ph.D. program in which students pursue a terminal degree in one of the basic science disciplines while earning the doctor of medicine degree. Students who pursue the M.D./ Ph.D. degree devote six or seven years to this goal and are usually interested in careers in research as it relates to the practice of medicine.

In addition to the medical education program the school offers graduate study in clinical laboratory science, occupational therapy, physical therapy and physician assistant studies, as well as in the basic sciences: anatomy and cell biology; biochemistry and molecular biology; microbiology and immunology; and pharmacology, physiology and therapeutics. Undergraduate study is offered in cytotechnology, athletic training and clinical laboratory science.

The Contemporary Oath of Hippocrates

Today, in the presence of family, friends, teachers and colleagues,
I dedicate myself to the profession of Medicine.

I pledge myself to the service of humanity.

I will use my skills to care for all in need,
without bias and with openness of spirit.

The health of my patients will be my first concern.

I vow to hold sacred the bond between doctor and patient.

I will hold in confidence all that my patients entrust to me.

I will strive to alleviate suffering.

I will respect the dignity and autonomy of my patients in living and in dying.

As a Physician, I recognize my duty to society.

I will work to promote health and prevent disease.

I will advocate for the welfare of my community.

Even under duress, I will not use my knowledge or my skills against humanity.

I will acknowledge my limitations and my mistakes
so that I may learn from them.

To uphold these responsibilities, I will maintain my own well-being and the well-being of those close to me.

I will promote the integrity of the practice of Medicine.

In the tradition of my profession, I honor all who teach me this Art.

Through honest and respectful collaboration with my colleagues,

I will uphold the highest standards in the service of patients.

I will seek new knowledge, reexamine ideas and practices of the past, and teach what I have learned.

Above all, the health of my patients will be my first concern.

This Oath I take freely and upon my honor.

This contemporary version of the traditional Oath of Hippocrates was composed by the Harvard Medical School, Class of 1998.

Keynote Speaker

Timothy D. Henry, M.D., FACC, a native of West Hope, ND, is an interventional cardiologist at the Minneapolis Heart Institute and director of research at the Minneapolis Heart Institute Foundation. An associate professor of medicine at the University of Minnesota School of Medicine, he focuses his clinical interests in the areas of interventional cardiology, angiogenesis, acute coronary syndromes and myocardial infarction.

He completed undergraduate studies at Minot (ND) State University and the University of North Dakota (UND). He earned a Bachelor of Science in Medicine degree from the UND School of Medicine in 1980 and went on to earn the Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) degree from the University of California-San Francisco. He took residency training in internal medicine at the University of Colorado Health Sciences Center in Denver, where he served as chief medical resident.

After residency training, Dr. Henry was a cardiology research fellow at the University of Colorado and, later, took cardiology and interventional cardiology fellowships at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. He is board-certified in internal medicine, cardiovascular diseases and interventional cardiology.

He has served as a clinical instructor at the University of Colorado Health Sciences and as director of the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory and director of interventional cardiology at Hennepin County Medical Center in Minneapolis.

A member of the Alpha Omega Alpha scholastic honor society in medicine, he is also a fellow in the Society for Coronary Angiography and Intervention and the American College of Cardiology. He is a member of the American College of Chest Physicians and the American Heart Association's Council of Clinical Cardiology.
