The University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences, founded in 1905, was a two-year school of basic medical science until 1973 when the North Dakota Legislature approved initiation of a four-year curriculum leading to the doctor of medicine (M.D.) degree. The school offers a statewide, university-based, community-integrated medical education program which places an emphasis on primary care. Practicing physicians, constituting the majority of the faculty, educate medical students in clinics and hospitals throughout the state.

The mission of the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences is to educate and prepare North Dakota residents as physicians, medical scientists and other health professionals for service to the people of North Dakota and the nation, and to advance medical knowledge through research. Through its federally-funded Indians Into Medicine (INMED) Program, the school also seeks to address disparities in access to health care by educating American Indians as physicians and other health professionals.

The first two years of medical education are provided at the UND campus in Grand Forks. The third year is completed in hospitals in Fargo, Grand Forks and Bismarck, and the fourth year consists of clinical rotations at Grand Forks, Minot, Bismarck and Fargo. Students may elect to take the majority of their third year in rural communities through a program called ROME, Rural Opportunities in Medical Education. Medical students also have the opportunity to experience training in other parts of the country and even the world during fourth-year electives. Postgraduate residency training in family medicine, internal medicine, general surgery and psychiatry, as well as a one-year transitional program, is conducted in the state's four major cities.

The University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences offers a combined M.D./Ph.D. program in which students pursue a terminal degree in one of the basic science disciplines while earning the doctor of medicine degree. Students who pursue the M.D./Ph.D. degree devote six or seven years to this goal and are usually interested in careers in research as it relates to the practice of medicine.

In addition to the medical education program the school offers graduate study in clinical laboratory science, occupational therapy, physical therapy and physician assistant studies, as well as in the basic sciences: anatomy and cell biology; biochemistry and molecular biology; microbiology and immunology; and pharmacology, physiology and therapeutics. Undergraduate study is offered in cytotechnology, athletic training and clinical laboratory science.

The Contemporary Oath of Hippocrates

Today, in the presence of family, friends, teachers and colleagues,
I dedicate myself to the profession of Medicine.

I pledge myself to the service of humanity.

I will use my skills to care for all in need,
without bias and with openness of spirit.

The health of my patients will be my first concern.

I vow to hold sacred the bond between doctor and patient.

I will hold in confidence all that my patients entrust to me.

I will strive to alleviate suffering.

I will respect the dignity and autonomy of my patients in living and in dying.

As a Physician, I recognize my duty to society.

I will work to promote health and prevent disease.

I will advocate for the welfare of my community.

Even under duress, I will not use my knowledge or my skills against humanity.

I will acknowledge my limitations and my mistakes
so that I may learn from them.

To uphold these responsibilities, I will maintain my own well-being and the well-being of those close to me.

I will promote the integrity of the practice of Medicine.

In the tradition of my profession, I honor all who teach me this Art.

Through honest and respectful collaboration with my colleagues,

I will uphold the highest standards in the service of patients.

I will seek new knowledge, reexamine ideas and practices of the past, and teach what I have learned.

Above all, the health of my patients will be my first concern.

This Oath I take freely and upon my honor.

Keynote Speaker

Jon W. Allen, M.D., a native of Mohall, ND, is assistant dean for the Northeast Campus of the University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Health Sciences. He also serves as associate professor of internal medicine and director of the second-year medical school course, Introduction to Patient Care, and the Clinical Skills Assessment program. He has been a member of the faculty since 1987.

Among many honors and awards he has received for excellence in teaching and as an outstanding physician role model, he was selected by medical students to receive the 2002 Humanism in Medicine Award, sponsored by The Healthcare Foundation of New Jersey and the Arnold P. Gold Foundation. He also was chosen as one of 53 distinguished finalists nationwide for the 2004 Humanism in Medicine Award, presented by the Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) and given on the basis of humanistic qualities. He was selected for this honor by members of the AAMC Organization of Student Representatives.

Dr. Allen was named Outstanding Teacher of the Year in 1993 for the Northwest Campus by medical students studying there. In 2000 he was selected by medical students to receive the Golden Apple Award for Outstanding Teaching, and the following year, the Portrait Award for outstanding teaching and contributions to the reformed, patient-centered curriculum. In 2001 he also was inducted into the Alpha Omega Alpha honorary scholastic society in medicine.

In 1977, he received his Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree from Minot State University and went on to earn the Doctor of Medicine (M.D.) degree at UND in 1984. He took residency training in internal medicine at the Marshfield (WI) Clinic, before returning to Minot where he practiced and taught medical students and residents-in-training for many years.

In 1999, he joined the Altru Health System in Grand Forks and took on increased responsibilities in education and curriculum development at the UND School of Medicine and Health Sciences. He has provided important leadership in the design and implementation of clinical skills testing, in order to anticipate and meet national requirements for medical school graduates.
