WORK PAPERS of the Summer Institute of Linguistics
University of North Dakota

Volume XIII

PREFACE

The Summer Institute of Linguistics at the University of North Dakota is issuing Volume XIII of its Work Papers this summer, 1969. This volume contains papers which are connected with course work at the Institute.

We are offering these papers so that those who are interested in particular materials will have access to them before they are published. Moreover, since these materials are available to a wider range of readers in this form, it is hoped that contributors can receive more constructive criticism than they would otherwise. We are presenting texts as a basis for checking language analysis.

The papers we are offering are in prepublication form, and no claim whatever is made that these are polished papers. For this reason anyone wishing to quote or make reference to any materials in the Work Papers should first get the permission of the individual contributor.

Michael Robert Scott,
Editor
