SUMMER SESSION

NUMBER 2

FRIDAY, JUNE 28, 1963

All-Time High

Summer Enrollment Nears 1,900 Mark

By MARY ANN ROSTBERG

The 1,870 students enrolled in the Summer Session is a 19 per cent increase over last year's total of 1,586, according to figures released by Miss Ruby McKenzie, registrar. It sets an all-time record for UND Summer Sessions.

This figure does not include enrollments in workshops, conferences, institutes, supplementing the Summer Session, or those for the second four week session beginning July 15. It does include all students taking courses for regular credit, Miss McKenzie noted.

Of the 1,870 students, 1,205 are men and 665 are women. The Graduate School has the largest enrollment with a total of 906.

Other college enrollments include Education, 275; Science, Literature and Arts 252; Business and Public Administration 132; University College 130; Engineering 45; Nursing 8; Law 1; special and unclassified 118.

Meanwhile, at the University Extension Center at Williston, 27 students enrolled in the first summer session there, according to Ben Gustafson, Extension Division director.

July 4 Holiday Only Break in Summer Schedule

By MARY ANN ROSTBERG

Students, yearning for a moment of tranquility, will flood the highways and byways Thursday, July 4, in an effort to obtain a break from the clutches of their homework.

Perhaps a few of those who suffer from traffic qualms will enjoy their only summer term holiday sprawled in a lawn chaise engrossed in I. M. Healthy's novel, "How to Avoid Ulcers."

Or maybe the day will be employed in an attempt to make a dent in a mound of homework. Whatever the situation, picnics, boat rides or homework, accompanying them will be the traditional fireworks, parades, swimming, tennis, golf, and traffic fatalities.

Although the campus may experience a day of near-solitude, the bustle of classes and activities will resume on July 5, as asserted in a statement issued by President George W. Starcher.

This will be the only holiday break of the Summer Session—and a week later comes midterm exams for eight-weeks courses, finals for those in four-week classes.

Family-Style Buffet Supper Set for Tuesday

The first of two family buffet suppers scheduled this summer will be held in the Student Union Tuesday. All students and faculty are invited.

Serving of the smorgasboard style supper will begin at 5:30 p.m. Prices are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. The second buffet supper will be July 23.

BOOKSTORE TO CLOSE

The University Bookstore will be closed all day today for inventory. Business as usual will be resumed Monday morning.

Just like it was 80 years ago this summer, construction is going on at the site of Old Main. In 1883, they were building the "University." Now, they're constructing a 40 by 60 foot memorial to that original UND structure, torn down this spring and replaced by Twamley Hall. At the left, is a ground view of the cement work on the monument, with Twamley in the background. At the right is an overhead view of work on the monument, taken from Twamley.

Eighty Enrolled for Summer Linguistic Study

By MARY ANN FUNK

The Summer Institute of Linguistics, which is working entirely with unwritten languages this year, has 80 students enrolled from almost all corners of the earth.

Registrar Earl Adams says he has students from Canada, Japan, Germany, the West Indies and the United States who have been working in such areas as New Guinea, Formosa, Africa and Canada.

The Institute provides specialized study in techniques of learning to speak and write unwritten or little-known languages using phonetics, phonemics (alphabet analysis), morphology, and syntax. It is under the direction of Dr. Richard Pittman, formerly of Wheaton, Ill., who has been working in the Far East.

A main event on the program for this year is the traditional Linguistic Panorama or convocation program, which will be open to the public. This will include skits, displays of native costumes, dances, songs, instrumental numbers and explanations of tonal languages through demonstrations and audience participation.

Something new to be tried this year is an open house to allow the public to view and share classroom learning situations.

No age restrictions are placed on students enrolling in the Institute, providing the individual has the ability to do the work, equivalent to other graduate courses. Adams estimated about half of those enrolled are college or university graduates. The other half are undergraduates. For both groups, the Institute courses will apply toward degrees in linguistics.

The courses are of special value to people who plan to study "primitive" languages or do Bible translation work, Adams said.

Including the families and staff members, 170 persons connected with the Institute are on the campus this summer. They live and work in five of the University's buildings.

Dr. Starcher Considers It

JFK Proposes That UND 'Adopt' Negro College

Three major issues were stressed by President Kennedy in a civil rights conference with university and college presidents for which UND President George W. Starcher was called to Washington.

Back in Grand Forks following the session last week, Dr. Starcher said the President had emphasized:

1. The large number of drop-outs from schools, especially among Negroes and "disadvantaged whites."
2. The unemployment increase.
3. The fact that schools are not equally of high quality, particularly the Negro colleges.

President Kennedy proposed the organization of a nation-wide committee of educators, supplemented by committees and groups of citizens at the community level, to help remedy these problems.

Dr. Starcher said Kennedy also suggested that land-grant colleges and universities might adopt "a one-to-one relationship" with those schools struggling to upgrade their programs.

If such a plan were put into effect, it would mean that the University of North Dakota might "adopt" a Negro college and assist it, for example, by exchanging professors and lecturers.

"I think this is a marvelous idea," said the UND president. "I plan to give the proposal much thought."

He indicated that, providing funds were available, UND might enter into such an adoption program.

Dr. Starcher said Kennedy focused attention on the problem of the high rate of drop-outs, especially by Negro students, at a low level in their education when they are not adequately prepared to obtain employment. He appealed to the educators to work toward strengthening of schools and their programs.

July 12 Is Deadline To Apply for Degrees

Dr. Donald W. McCaffrey, director of the play and associate director of theatre at UND, said "The Admirable Crichton," written by James M. Barrie, is a comedy of wit and character in Noel Coward fashion. Barrie is most famous for his Peter Pan productions, he added.

In the cast for the play are: Mr. Crichton, Paul Sjordal; Hon. Ernest Wooley, Dennis Gartner; Rev. John Treherne, Terry Wolf; Lord Brocklehurst, Craig Gannon; The Earl of Loam, David Haney; Lady Mary Lasenby, Dorothy Gagner; Lady Catherine, Alice Long; Lady Agatha, Charlotte Burghoff; Tweeny, Debbie Silverman; Fisher, Mary Ellen Reetz; Monsieur Fluery, Mack Miller; Tompsett and Naval Officer, Kirk Murchie; Mademoiselle Jeanne, Karen Wills; Mrs. Perkins, Sherry Lee Nolte; kitchen wenches, Francia Leusen and Lois Johnson.

Dr. Myers is a graduate of Bradley and Ohio State Universities. He has authored various journal articles dealing with counseling of high school and college students.

Dr. Sprinkle came to UND as assistant professor in 1961 and was named assistant director of the Counseling Center in 1962. He has received degrees from the University of Colorado and the University of Missouri. He was on the faculty of Stephens College prior to coming to UND.

Construction Work Booms on Campus

By MARY ANN FUNK

Much construction work is under way this summer on the campus.

Nearing completion right on schedule are Smith Hall and Princeton Hall, women's and men's dormitories, respectively.

"Smith will be open for occupancy at the beginning of the fall semester and Princeton will be ready during Christmas vacation of 1963," stated Loren Swanson, director of Residence Services.

Also under construction is the West Green addition for married students. The addition consists of nine buildings with eight apartments in each. Seven will be two-bedroom apartments and one will be a one-bedroom apartment. The buildings are arranged in a "package unit" with a drive down the center.

Swanson indicated that a large influx of students expected next fall may require three of these buildings to be used as dormitories. However, nothing definitely has been decided, he said.

In July, construction work will begin for two new additional dormitories west of the English coulee. These new buildings will have the suite system and thus be usable for either men's or women's dormitories.

Air conditioning and elevator service will be welcome new features in the expanded Student Union, construction of which is off to a fast start. In addition to a new cafeteria and snack bar, the facilities will include increased food facilities permitting larger banquets on all floors.

Also included in the new building will be an enlarged ballroom space, a student activity area for student organizations, a conference and convention area featuring a lecture bowl, a Dakota Student area, a music room and an enlarged barber shop.

The third floor will remain unfinished for future expansion.

The addition will be completed by September, 1964. The present building will remain open until June, 1964, when it will undergo three months of extensive remodeling to provide facilities for the University Bookstore.

Graduate Club Mixer Scheduled for Tonight

The Graduate Club Mixer will be held tonight in the Main Lounge of the Student Union at 8 p.m., according to Dr. R. A. Peterson, administrative assistant to Dean C. J. Hamre of the Graduate School.

There will be no charge and refreshments will be served.

This is an opportunity for all graduate students and faculty members to make new acquaintances and to renew former ones, Dr. Peterson said.

114 in Science Program from Wide Area

By MARY ANN FUNK

A total of 114 high school science teachers are attending the seventh annual Summer Science Institute on the campus.

By states, 25 are from North Dakota, 35 from Minnesota, and the remaining 60 from over the nation, including states as far away as California, Florida, Oregon, Illinois, and Alabama.

Sponsored by the National Science Foundation, the institute again is under the direction of Prof. Donald Henderson, professor of physics and science teaching.

"The institute is divided into two groups with much overlapping," said Henderson. Twenty-seven have returned for a summer program related to the academic year session, 25 are back from last summer. The rest are new.

"The institute is designed for Science high-school teachers who must teach two or more sciences,"

Henderson said. "The most valuable aspect of the institute is the opportunity for teachers throughout the nation to interchange ideas with fellow teachers."

Supplementing regular class work are science theater films which are of special interest to all the teachers. In addition the institute has scheduled guest speakers to appear weekly. This week's lecturer, Elbert C. Weaver, is chairman of the chemistry department of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

Music Camp, Open For 8th Year, Has Enrollment Jump

By JOAN CHRISTENSON

Cultural development through the study of music and the fine arts is the purpose of the eighth annual International Music Camp and Music Directors Workshop being held from June 23 through July 28 at the International Peace Gardens.

M. L. Cushman, president of the program and dean of the College of Education at UND, reports that the camp, affiliated with UND, NDSU, and Dickinson, Mayville, Minot and Valley City State Teachers Colleges, has opened for the first of five one-week sessions.

To Feature Orchestra

The first three sessions, continuing through July 14, are concentrating on band and baton twirling instructions. Included are symphonic band for advance students and concert band for intermediate students. Corps and individual twirling instructions are offered.

The fourth session will include symphony and concert orchestra instruction, piano classes, and special organ classes. A fully balanced chorus for high school students is planned.

Ballet and modern dance will be offered for high school students along with light opera and folk opera in the fifth and final session. Special art classes will be offered.

Auditions Required

A special chamber music session will be provided during the fifth week, July 21 through 28, for the first time. This will be an opportunity for advanced woodwind and brass students to participate in extensive studies. Those wishing to attend this session must audition for admission and for more information should consult John E. Howard, Box 397, University Station, Grand Forks.

Private instruction in voice and instrumental music is being offered throughout the camp period. Graduate and undergraduate classes will be provided for directors of band, orchestra, and choral units.

The music camp, since its founding, has attracted 3,861 persons from 16 states and provinces. A nominal fee, amounting to less than $50 and

Returning Sessionites Find Things Different on Campus

This is what the console of UND's new carillon looks like — when nobody's playing it. Paul Lundquist and Mrs. Charles Hatfield will preside at it, however, for concerts for special occasions.

By JOAN CHRISTENSON

As the saying goes, "There's been some changes made," since the 1962 Summer Session closed its doors last August.

More noticeable perhaps is the hourly chiming of Twamley Hall's carillon bells, installed this spring and dedicated during the spring Commencement season.

Located in Twamley's Tower, the bells—305 of them—form one of the

When the Bells Toll

This is the schedule of the carillon bells, in case you haven't figured out yet. The carillon plays 15 minute concerts at 12:30 and 6 p.m. weekdays, and at 2 p.m. Sundays. It plays Alma Mater at 9 p.m. daily. And, of course, it strikes the hours with its Westminster chimes.

including board, room, and tuition is charged. The camp is operated on a non-profit basis and one hour of graduate or undergraduate credit may be earned.

The annual camp board of directors meeting will be held Saturday, July 13. Dr. George W. Starcher, UND president, is chairman of the board.

Sunday, July 14, will be Governor's Day by the camp and Lt. Gov. Willis of Manitoba attends.

six largest carillons in existence.

They were the gift of Miss Edna Twamley, a UND graduate of 1902, who was here for their dedication.

Twamley Hall itself is brand new to summer sessionites, having been put into use in midwinter and dedicated late in May. This $1,050,000 nerve center of UND business and administration replaces venerable but decrepit Old Main, which was removed from the campus scene early in May. A memorial now is being built in "gap" between Twamley and Merrifield where Old Main held forth for 80 significant years.

Not as noticeable as the other changes, but just as important, is the new computer system which machine records information about the summer session's record-breaking enrollment of more than 1,800 students as well as the regular term's approximately 5,000 registrants.

Burtness Theatre, new home of Dakota Playmakers and providing for other cultural productions as well, also adds greatly to the University scene.

Burtness Theatre was dedicated by the late Mrs. O. B. Burtness as a memorial to her husband, Judge O. B. Burtness, UND graduate of 1906. It contains all of the facilities and innovations of the most modern of theatres.

Summer Swim Program Off With a Splash

With a large enrollment and capable water safety assistants, Dr. John Quaday, summer recreation director, feels that the swimming program this summer is certain to succeed.

He called attention to a change in the schedule. Swimmers and advanced classes will meet from 10:30 to 11:15 a.m. and life saving at 11:15 a.m. The co-educational adult class has room for more members, Dr. Quaday said.

Approximately 350 recreational swimming season tickets have been sold.

With regard to other programs, Dr. Quaday said archery equipment may be used at any time in the area south of the stadium.

The initial volleyball turnout was smaller than expected and Dr. Quaday wishes to extend an invitation to anyone interested to be at Gym I where play begins daily at 4 p.m.
