Records Fall--More Registering!

2,124 Enroll for Summer Term, Graduate Total Reaches 1,085

By DONALD RICHARDSON

A total of 2,124 students enrolled—and more still coming in!

That was the Summer Session registration picture late in the week, as all records for summer term enrollments at UND were being topped.

Registrar Ruby M. McKenzie reported that

1,085 of those already enrolled were in the Graduate School, with 1,039 enrolled in undergraduate work.

The overall ratio was 1,336 men to 788 women.

First enrollment figures for the 1964 Summer Session—UND's biggest up to that time—showed 1,960 enrolled. Of these, 978 were in the Graduate School and 982 were undergraduates.

A number of graduate students, still in the process of registration, were not included in the 1,085 count, Graduate School Dean C. J. Hamre said.

Undergraduate enrollments included 306 in Science, Literature and Arts; 315 in Education; 160 in Business; 127 in University College; 40 in Engineering; 14 in Nursing, and 77, unclassified and special.

The summer academic schedule includes 314 courses which are being offered in 40 departments. In addition, many institutes and workshops are being conducted.

The eight-week and the first of two four-week sessions began Monday and registration for the second four-week session is scheduled July 19.

Final examinations for the first four-week session and midterm examinations for the eight-week session are scheduled July 15 and 16. Finals for the second four-week and the eight-week sessions are set for August 12 and 13 with commencement August 14.

Welcome to the University

Dr. Hamre

● From Your President

We welcome all former students, new students, and faculty to the 1965 summer session. You represent a wide variety of interests and talents and each one of you will derive unique benefits from your stay on campus this summer.

Whether you are registering for the first time or returning to the University to continue your studies, we want each one of you to know that you are expected to participate actively in the total life of the University. A varied and interesting program has been planned for you and we hope that you will take full advantage of the opportunities this summer session offers.

We hope, too, you will find your work challenging and interesting and that you will achieve the goals you have set for yourselves. May you find here the stimulus and encouragement in your work that gives genuine pleasure and that will give you satisfaction of knowing that you have grown in knowledge, wisdom, and friendships for being here this summer.

GEORGE W. STARCHER
President

● From Your Director

The Director of Summer Sessions welcomes students and staff to the University of North Dakota sixty-first summer session and the director's eighth and last summer session. It has been a gratifying personal experience to have had enrollment increase by more than a thousand students in the period of the seven summer sessions. Credit for the growth of the summer sessions must

'Centerizing Is the Big Thing This Summer

By JANICE BOMMERSBACH

Let's "centerize" this summer in the air-conditioned University Center. For the first time, the Center is open during summer school with a full summer schedule.

Craig Millar, Center manager, has announced that all facilities of the Center will be open. This includes the information desk, bookstore, barber shop, cafeteria and snack bar, sign service and bicycle rentals.

Also available are vending machines, three lounges, a study area on the fourth floor, a listening room on the ground floor (with some of the newest in stereo albums), color television, complete dark room equipment, coin lockers, display cases and the University Calendar which posts events and dates of University importance.

Another "first" this summer is the Summer Board of Governors. Serving on the Board are Chairman Mike Render, Secretary Judy Johnson, Verna Nelson, Dick Halvorson, Kaye Boyum, Carolyn King, Al Adamson and Gary Shafer.

Under the direction of the board, summer school offers UND students a full social life. The program was initiated with the University Center Open House Monday. The Churchkeys will play at an all Campus street dance in front of the Center from 8-12 p.m. Saturday.

The movie "Sweet Bird of Youth" will be shown Sunday in the Center Ballroom. Summer movies will be shown every Sunday evening (except July 4 and August 8) at 7:30 p.m. free of charge.

The coulee bank will be the scene of the All Campus Barbeque Monday featuring a complete picnic supper for 50 cents. Serving will be from 5:15-6:30 p.m. with supervised games and activities for all.

In July three movies will be shown: "Hud" on the 11th, "Question Seven" on the 18th and "Our Man in Havana" on the 25th.

July 24 is Kiddies Day at UND for the children of married students. Walt Disney's "Alice in Wonderland" and three cartoons will be shown at 2 p.m. Also on that day from 8-12 p.m. is a Watermelon Feed and Jam Session. Watermelon will be sold by the slice and there'll be dancing on the drive in front of the Center.

After the July 29 performance of the Dakota Playmaker's production "Streets of New York", the Center will host a play discussion. Closing the summer program is "Gigi", August 1.

University Center hours are as follows:

Building hours—7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Office hours — Monday through Friday—8 a.m. to 4:40 p.m., Saturday—8 a.m. to noon.

Barber shop — Monday through Friday—8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Getting a close-up look at a $5,000 microwave, donated to the University of North Dakota electrical engineering department by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., are C. N. Schultz, service supervisor with the Bell Telephone, and Clifford J. Thomforde, chairman of the UND Electrical Engineering Department. The microwave transmission unit, which has been used for transmitting hockey and basketball television programs, will be used for transmission experiments. Thomforde said it is anticipated that it also will be used by KFJM television to pick up programs around the University and transmit them to the main studios.

World Typing Institute Starts July 14

The Fifth Biennial World Institute on the Teaching of Typewriting and Office Technology will be held on the campus July 14, 15 and 16.

Nationally prominent business educators will present a series of lectures and classroom demonstrations in the areas of vocational typewriting, secretarial practice, clerical practice, office machines, record keeping and bookkeeping in an age of technology and data processing.

The Institute has been planned to emphasize the growing area of vocational training in the office occupations area. An opportunity to consider the business curriculum in relation to the Vocational Education Act will be presented. Special sessions will consider the important problems of salvaging talent in the vocational office education area. Emphasis upon refresher courses, remedial courses and adult retraining will be included.

Advance registration indicates teachers and administrators will be attending from all fifty states and from the Philippines, Puerto Rico, Sweden and other countries, according to Dr. John L. Rowe, Business Education Department chairman. A special delegation from the Republic of Panama plans to attend.

Dr. John Peterson, professor of Business Education, members of the central organizing committee.

Although no credit will be given for the institute, a Certificate of Attendance will be presented to those present for the three-day affair. Summer session students in business education may attend the institute without charge.

Among guests participating in the institute will be Harmon Wilson, vice-president of the South-Western Publishing Co.; Dr. Norman Kallaus, chairman of the Department of Office Administration at the University of Iowa; Dr. Harry Huffman, professor and chairman of the department at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and Dr. Ruth Anderson, professor of Business Education at North Texas State University.

Dr. Rowe and Dr. John C. Peterson of the business education department at UND are in charge of arrangements.

Tuberculin Tests Scheduled

The Student Health Service has scheduled tuberculin skin tests for all summer session students, reports Dr. Robert C. Eelkema, student health physician.

The tests will be given in the Student Health Dispensary, room 103 McCannel, beginning at 8 a.m. Monday.

Tests for students whose names begin with A-E will be given Monday and Tuesday, those with F-J names July 5-6; K-O, July 12-13; P-T, July 19-20, and U-Z, July 26-27.

Those who find these times inconvenient can be tested August 2 or 3 instead, Dr. Eelkema said. Hours on all of the testing days will be from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. No charge will be made.

Graduate Club Mixer Tonight

A Graduate Club Mixer will be held today at 8 p.m. in the Dakota Lounge, University Center.

The mixer is planned to give all graduate students and faculty members a chance to get acquainted says Dr. Russell Peterson, administrative assistant of the Graduate School. He urges that as many students and faculty members as possible attend.

Dean C. J. Hamre of the Graduate School will present the greeting. Refreshments will be served following the program.

Wesley College Gets New Status Thursday

After more than fifty years of service to North Dakota higher education, Wesley College Thursday will become the Wesley Center of Religion.

In July the University of North Dakota will acquire the dormitory buildings of Wesley College, with officials of the college concentrating their efforts on campus pastoring and teaching credit courses within the framework of the University Department of Religion.

Wesley College will retain the 125-foot piece of property facing University Avenue, between Harvard and Oxford Streets, as possible site of a new Methodist student center.

The college will have full use of Robertson Hall for the next three years, under an agreement with UND.

NOTICE

FEES — All summer session fees must be paid next Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday. Late registration fees of $5 per day, not to exceed $15, now being charged.

$230,132 U. S. Grant Assists UND Students

By DONALD RICHARDSON

UND has received approval of its application for a grant of $230,132 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the summer of 1965 and the academic year 1965-66, Dean of Men Gerald F. Hamerlik reports.

This grant is to be used for the Work Study Program under the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, signed by President Johnson, August 20, 1964. Of this grant, $69,784 is to be used during this Summer Session.

The Work Study Program was instituted at UND during the spring semester this year. It is designed to help needy students through part-time employment both on and off campus. Payment to the student varies according to ability, the task performed, and the running wage scale.

To qualify under the program an applicant must be enrolled or have intent to enroll, must be a U. S. native or be in the United States for other than temporary purposes. Students fully enrolled cannot be employed over 15 hours per week but can work 40 hours between sessions or during vacations.

This summer 72 students are employed under the Work Study Program reports Dean Hamerlik, institutional representative for the program. Twenty-four of these are to enroll in college for the first time this fall while the remaining 48 were under the program last semester or were in college but are new to the program. Fifteen of them are employed part-time while enrolled in school and the remaining 57 are working full-time.

Almost every department which applied for student assistance received help, says Dean Hamerlik, but room remains for more students either presently in school or who intend to enroll this fall.

25 in Communications Work

A Summer Institute in Educational Media was launched Monday and will continue until August 13 under the direction of George H. Voegel, Audio Visual Center director. A total of 25 students are enrolled.

The institute is training participants to improve their competencies with audio-visual materials and other new educational media. UND is conducting the institute under a $40,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

Visiting staff members will include Robert Blake, Sioux Falls, S. D., audio-visual director in the Sioux Falls public school system; Jacob Swartsendruher, AV director at Goshen (Ind.) College; and Albert Solomon and William Ryan, both of Albany, N. Y., educational consultants for the New York State Department of Educational Communications.

UND instructional staff will be Dr. Ralph Kolstoe, chairman of the Psychology Department; Dr. Allen Sturges, associate professor of Education, and Dr. Glenn Earthman, coordinator of Elementary Education.

Polovitz to Present Sounds of 6 Clarinets

The sounds of six clarinets are to be presented in a faculty recital Thursday in the Prairie Ballroom of the University Center by Michael Polovitz. Paul Lundquist will be the piano accompanist in the 8 p.m. performance.

be directed to the faculty for planning programs of work that have met the needs and demands of our students. The Director of Summer Sessions is indeed grateful for the help and cooperation given him by the faculty and the administration. Students may be confident the faculty will plan quality programs for future summer sessions.

The Director of Summer Sessions hopes that registration for courses on registration day was not overbearingly frustrating and fatiguing. Perhaps by Summer Session 1966 it will be possible for students in residence during the second semester of the academic year 1965-1966 to pre-register for the summer session. Perhaps for Summer Session 1966 students not in residence during the academic year may be able to register by mail before coming to the campus.

The Director of Summer Sessions hopes that Summer Session 1965 may for students and faculty be a pleasant and successful session.

Campus to Hear Physics Expert From Netherlands

Dr. Sybren Kiestra from Groningen in the Netherlands will lecture at the University Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dr. Kiestra, currently a teacher of physics at the Heymans Lyceum, health physicist at the University Hospital there, will be speaking as part of the Summer Science Institute lecture schedule. All interested persons may attend the lectures.

Kiestra

He will speak at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Leonard Hall auditorium on "X-rays." That evening at 7:30 p.m. in the same auditorium he will discuss "Physical Problems in a Motorcar." Wednesday he will lecture on "X-ray Spectra" at 11 a.m. in room 103 of Old Science Hall.

He earned the bachelor's master's and doctor's degrees at the University of Groningen and was chief assistant in the Physical Institute at that University. He taught in the Praedinius Gymnasium, was a member of a group to revise the physics program, and was the composer of safety rules for secondary schools working with radioactive material.

His research interests are primarily in X-ray spectra. He was one of the four Europeans invited to a conference on X-ray Spectroscopy and Solid State Problems in Madison, Wis., in 1950.

By LYNN MELBBY

Sixty-one high school science teachers from schools throughout the United States are attending a summer institute at UND sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

J. Donald Henderson, director of the institute, said the staff is being augmented by local and visiting staff members devoting time to the institute.

The ninth annual institute is the largest summer institute at UND with a budget of $82,280. Participants each are awarded $75 per week for living expenses and a maximum of $80 travel expense.

To be eligible for a stipend, an applicant must be a teacher of high school science or mathematics and expect to continue in his profession. Applications are invited from all states.

The institute will continue for eight weeks, until August 14.

Nothing to See in N.D.?

'Not So,' Lecturer Proves

By LYNN L. MELBY

"There's nothing in North Dakota to see and nothing to stop you from seeing it."

"Not so!" says Dr. S. O. Kolstoe

of the North Dakota State Game and Fish Department.

In an hour-long slide lecture at Leonard Hall Wednesday evening, Dr. Kolstoe thrilled an estimated 100 people with color slides of the landscape of the state accented with his own poetry about the scenic beauty of North Dakota.

A retired professor of psychology from Valley City State Teacher's College, Dr. Kolstoe spoke on everything from the badlands cedar to the beauty of the International Peace Gardens and the relationship between Canada and the United States.

Dr. Kolstoe is the author of an internationally known book about the state.

Wall Street Journal Fellows

4 States Send Participants to J-Workshop

By ROSEMARIE MYRDAL

Newspaper Fund fellows from four states are participating in a journalism workshop for high school publications advisers on campus this week.

This is one of 12 workshops being held this summer throughout the country under grants from the Wall Street Journal.

Out-of-State journalism directors attending the the UND workshop include Mrs. Vera Ikens, Brighton, Mich.; Edna Masters, Beloit, Kan., and Beatrice Driscoll, Parkers Prairie, Minn.

Sessions are being held at University Center and deal with the theory and practice of high school journalism. Purposes of the Workshop are to improve scholastic publications and to interest students in journalism careers.

Daniel Upham, managing editor of the Minneapolis Star, speaking Monday, pointed out that news is description of changes and unusual occurrences. The news media post the watchmen who evaluate and report, he said.

Completing a week of special studies in journalism under grants from the Wall Street Journal Newspaper Fund are Beatrice Driscoll, Mrs. Rosemarie Myrdal, Darrell Sharp, Mrs. Vera Ikens, Edna Masters, Bob Plum and Mrs. Helen Normann.

Feature and column writing was discussed Tuesday with Phil Matthews, assistant city editor of the Fargo Forum. Wesley Christenson, editor of the East Grand Forks Record, spoke to the group on editorials Wednesday.

Mrs. Jan House, news coordinator of the UND Bureau of News and Information, lead the discussion Thursday morning. Keith Anderson, Grand Forks advertising manager for KTHI-TV, is scheduled to talk to the group today.

Certificates of completion will be awarded Saturday. Workshop participants also will receive one hour of graduate credit in journalism.

The workshop—second of its kind at UND—opened Sunday with a dinner meeting with Prof. Alvin E. Austin, journalism department chairman, addressing the group.

Directing the workshop is Archie N. Hill, assistant professor of journalism.

A second session of the workshop will be held on campus July 5-11, also Newspaper Fund-sponsored.

Alm to Succeed Hamre in 1966 As Summer Session Director

By DONALD RICHARDSON

Dean C. J. Hamre will retire as Summer Session director at the end of the 1965 session after eight summers. Dr. Kent Alm will take his place for the 1966 session.

Dr. Alm has completed four years at UND. He began as a graduate teaching assistant in 1961, became co-ordinator of Elementary Education in 1962 and in 1963 assumed his present position as director of Teacher Education.

A native of Binford, he obtained all of his education in North Dakota schools and has eight years experience in public school teaching, administration and guidance counseling in North Dakota, South Dakota and California.

Dean Hamre will continue his duties as dean of the Graduate School, professor of Anatomy and chairman of that department. In addition, he is to assume new duties of director of Research Development.

500 Attend N. D. Bar Convention on Campus

Approximately 500 North Dakota attorneys and wives gathered on the campus this week for the annual convention of the North Dakota Bar Association. Many of them, including their president, Richard H. McGee of Minot, are graduates of the UND Law School.

There'll Be Some Dancing in the Streets Saturday

O.K., put away the books, grab your dancing shoes and join the crowd at the All Campus Street Dance Saturday. Music will fill the campus from the strings of the Churchkeys, and it's free! Second avenue—behind the Center—is the place, from 8- 12 p.m.

TOP CLASS OF 1965

William F. Grams, Langdon, was valedictorian of the 1965 class and Susan M. Sweet, Pembina was salutatorian.

It's 'The Streets of New York'

Tryouts for Summer Play Close Tonight

Tryouts are now underway for the old fashioned melodrama by Dion Boucicault, "The Streets of New York; or, the Poor of New York." This special summer production by the University Theater will be presented July 29, 30 and 31.

Auditions were held Thursday evening and will be concluded tonight. Time and place of these tryouts are 7:30 to 9:30 at Burtess Theater in the all-purpose room.

Acting and musical talent are in demand for this unusual production as well as members for the technical phase of the production.

According to Dr. Donald W. McCaffrey, associate director of theater, "The Streets of New York" is one of the best melodramas produced in the 19th century.

"Beside the many 'thrill-scenes' with strong conflict there are many sentimental moments that show stronger perception on the part of the playwright than is generally witnessed in the melodrama of the period. There are even moments when Boucicault employed sophisticated wit," Dr. McCaffrey indicated.

Anyone taking summer school work is urged to try out for this production. Scripts are available in room 21, Merrifield Hall.

All-Campus Hamburger Fry Monday

An all-University Hamburger Fry will be held on the Coulee Bank, Monday. Serving will be from 5:15-6:30 p.m. with hamburgers and a complete picnic supper at 50 cents per person. Supervised games and activities are also planned, with all faculty and students invited.

The event is sponsored by the Summer Board of Governors.

United Protestant Worship Services Resume on Sunday

United Protestant worship services will be resumed Sunday, at 11 a.m. in the River Room, University Center.

"The New Reformation" will be the sermon topic of the Rev Wesley Sheffield, president of the Wesley Center of Religion.

The Rev. John Preston, campus pastor of the United Christian Campus Fellowship, the Rev Dr. J. Carleton Green, director of the Wesley Foundation, and the Rev Sheffield are cooperating in the services.

The services are sponsored by American Baptists, Evangelical United Brethren, Methodists, Presbyterians and the United Church of Christ.

All interested students and faculty members are invited to participate.

Electrical Engineers Awarded $1,000 Grant

The Electrical Engineering Department has been awarded a $6,600 grant from the National Science Foundation, it was announced by Prof. C. J. Thomforde, department chairman. The funds were made available with the understanding they will be matched by UND to purchase equipment for a new electronics laboratory.

Library Hours for Summer Announced

The Chester Fritz Library hours for the Summer Session: Monday through Thursday—8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Friday and Saturday—8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Desk open until 10 p.m.

Sunday—1 to 10 p.m.

49 Attend Summer Linguistics Institute

By JANICE BOMMERSBACH

Fifty-nine students from the United States and Canada are studying at the 14th annual Summer Institute in Linguistics.

Analysis and description of living languages and specialized study in the techniques of learning to speak and write unwritten or little-known languages is the theme of the institute.

The institute offers a two year program, starting with fundamentals of analyzing unwritten languages and writing them down. In the advanced course, the emphasis is placed on Asian and American Indian languages including a guided study with a native speaker of one of those languages.

An informant (or language teacher) from Viet Nam will help at the institute, and one of the second year students has studied with the Cree Indians of Canada.

The staff has undertaken the translation of the New Testament as its fieldwork practice.

The institute will continue until September 2, with the participants housed in Larimore and Sayre Halls.

As Davis Goes Down

Old Webster Merrifield Check Shows Up

By DONALD RICHARDSON

Relics of the past are emerging as a byproduct of the demolition of 78-year-old Davis Hall, oldest of the University's dormitories.

Demolition crews Tuesday came across a check for $30.00 that Webster Merrifield had made out to himself on April 10, 1886—five years before he became president of the University.

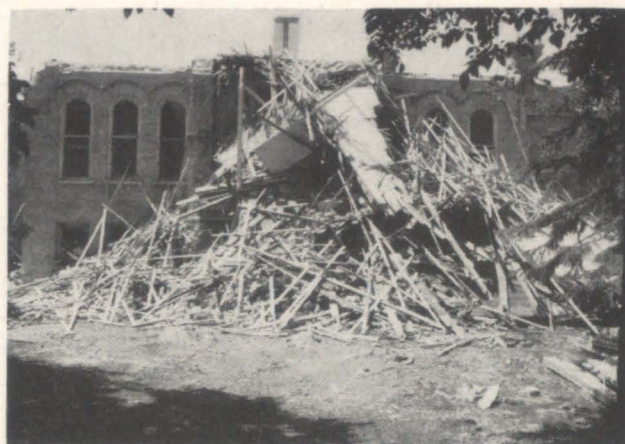

The check was drawn on the Citizens' National Bank of Grand Forks, D. T. (Dakota Territory) and has a two-cent U. S. Internal Revenue tax imprinted upon it.

It has three authentic "W. Merrifield" autographs on it—as payee, payer and indorser of the check.

Also coming to light in the Davis wreckage was four pages of the Feb. 27, 1891, edition of the North Dakota Republican, evidently printed in Casselton. Edited by W. C. Plummer, the edition says that the paper formerly was entitled, "The North Dakota Blizzard."

The building, built in 1887 and originally named "Ladies Hall," has served as a residence for 77 years.

The rubble stands higher than what remains of Davis Hall, as demolition work moves steadily ahead. (Photo by Lynn Melby)

It was renamed "Davis Hall" in 1900 in honor of Mrs. Hannah Davis who came to UND in 1893 as an instructor of English. She served as dean of women from 1896 until her death in March, 1898.

The State Board of Higher Education moved for Davis Hall's destruction some years ago but, due to a shortage of housing, the demolition was postponed. Two new residences, Brannon and McVey Halls, capable of housing 592 students, will cover the space shortage, according to Loren F. Swanson, director of residence services.

Two more old dormitories are scheduled to be destroyed with tentative dates set at 1966 for Macnie Hall, a women's dorm, and 1967 for Budge Hall, a men's dorm.

No definite plans have been made for utilizing the space provided by the removal of Davis Hall except that it will be used for future campus expansion.

31 Workshops in Varied Fields Underway

By JANICE BOMMERSBACH

Every summer the University sponsors Conferences, Institutes and Workshops in a variety of fields, and this summer, 31 such programs are on campus.

Some already have completed their course of study. The Aerospace Education Workshop, met June 7 to 12 under the direction of the College of Education. The purpose was to provide teachers with aviation information, practices and materials which could be useful in the classroom. One semester hour of credit was earned at this workshop in which 12 students participated.

The School Health Workshop with 35 enrolled, also has completed its training. This workshop discussed physical education as a part of the total school curriculum, gymnastics, weight training, smoking and health and team sports. One hour of graduate or undergraduate credit was given.

The School of Alcohol Studies ran from June 13 to 18 with 116 students registered. It studied alcoholism programs in North America, counseling the family of the alcoholic, alcohol and the adolescent, the church and alcoholism and the Jamestown State Hospital treatment program. This workshop was sponsored jointly by the University Extension division and the University of Saskatchewan extension division.

The High School Journalism Directors Workshop for beginning advisers is now meeting, to be followed by a workshop for experienced advisers. This program is covering mass communications, news and news sources, headlines, copyediting and proofreading and functions of the school paper.

More workshops are planned for the summer, such as the Administrators' Conference Workshop July 19 to 24 and the Old West Writers Workshop scheduled in August.

AEC Grants $9,612 To UND Biochemists

Dr. W. E. Cornatzer, professor of Biochemistry, has been awarded a research grant of $9,612 from the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission to study animal tissues during embryological development. The grant will provide funds for a graduate student, James E. Miller, Hanover, Penn., to do research for his Ph.D. degree in Biochemistry.

NOTICE

Because of last-minute cancellations, a few housing units for married students are now available for Summer Session students. Please contact the Housing Office, room 102, Twamley Hall.
