SUMMER SESSION

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH DAKOTA, GRAND FORKS, N. DAK. — FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1967

NO. 2

Dr. Starcher Released From Mayo

University President George W. Starcher was released this morning from a Rochester, Minn. hospital after undergoing corrective surgery June 16 for an esophagus-stomach condition.

According to his office, the President will be recuperating at his home for several weeks.

Officials: Hold Class On Monday

"We have to put in a specific number of classes to meet the requirements of North Central Association for accreditation," said Dr. W. E. Koenker (vice-president, academics) when questioned on the reasoning for holding classes Monday.

After consideration of the alternatives—classes on Saturday or on the week following Commencement—the administration decided to hold classes July 3.

The deans have agreed that there will be no exceptions to this policy.

Draft Head To Speak Thursday

UND students will get a chance to question the director of the Selective Service System during a tele-lecture July 6 in the University Center Ballroom.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, who is a leading figure in the recent controversy over military draft of college students will lecture via a special telephone hookup. The lecture will begin at 3 p.m. and will be followed by a question and answer session.

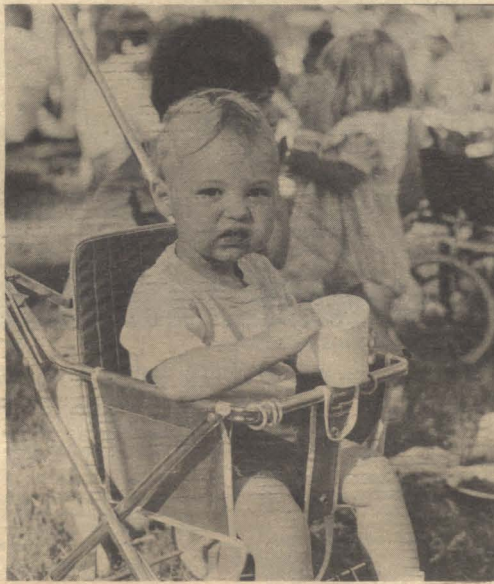

Arrangements for the lecture were made by the Summer Board of Governors.

Late Grades Delay Giving NDEA Loans

The late processing of last semester's grades and payment of summer session fees will result in the delay of distribution of the National Defense Loans.

The Financial Aids Office received the grades Tuesday and is presently evaluating the 900 applicants' cumulative grade point averages. Recipients of the loans should be notified in two to three weeks.

Individuals who sent their application in later than May 15 may receive their notification later than the three weeks period.

Even little children love styrofoam cups.

$91,000 To Be Spent On Upward Bound

A total of $91,528.00 will be spent for this year's Upward Bound program. This program is designed for high school students who would find it financially difficult to attend college.

Eighty three students are currently enrolled in the UND Upward Bound program, which will be in session until August 11th. These students come from the counties of Ramsey, Nelson, Grand Forks, Cavalier, Walsh, and Pembina; the Turtle Mountain; the Fort Totten Indian Reservation, and the Greater Grand Forks area.

The program, headed by Dr. Craig Millar, is intended for high school sophomores and juniors interested in a different approach to education but who would find it financially difficult to attend college. High grades are not a requirement for admittance to the session.

A development of a positive attitude toward learning, exploration of higher education despite financial difficulties, the development of skills necessary for success in higher education, exploration and development of interest in subjects usually thought to be dull and uninteresting, and a development of self-understanding are the primary objectives of the project.

Classes are offered in fine and creative arts, language arts and communications, social studies, mathematics, and science. The students are also at liberty to audit any class at the University which fits into their schedule. Little emphasis is placed upon tests or grading.

Activities are not limited to classes, however. Many of the same privileges are extended to them as to regular students—use of the University library; participation in intermural sports, dramatic presentations, field trips, parties, art exhibits, film series, recreational and social events.

All costs are paid for by the University—including dormitory rooms, meals, student health fees, school books and supplies. In addition, the students receive an allowance of $10 per week during the eight-week summer program and $2 per week for the remaining 36 weeks of the project.

Upward Bound 1967 is a continuation of a project begun in the summer of 1966 and is sponsored by the Office of Economic Opportunity, through UND.

Officials Comment On Federal Grant

The Institutional Assistance Grant of $161,850, awarded to UND, has drawn favorable comment from members of the administration.

The grant, for the next two academic years, is for the development of a master's program in the social sciences.

Dr. William E. Koenker, vice president of academic affairs, said the grant will do much to relieve the shortage of faculty members in the social science departments and to provide more adequate library materials. He stated that both of these "will improve the quality of the master's program in social sciences."

Dr. Hamre, dean of the graduate school, noted, "In the past most support has been in the natural sciences and we hope that this aid in social sciences is an indication of continued support for the arts and humanities."

The award is "an important and significant development," as it is the first large support for the social sciences which the University has ever received.

Dr. Bernard O'Kelly, dean of the colleges of arts and sciences, said "The University and the state will benefit for many years to come from the grant."

He said the grant will allow the social science departments "to take a significant step forward earlier than would otherwise have been possible."

Nobel Prize-Winners To Speak at U in July

Dr. Willard F. Libby, Nobel laureate in chemistry, 1960, and Dr. Walter H. Brattain, Nobel laureate in physics, 1956, will be guest lecturers at UND in July.

Dr. Libby, who received the Nobel Prize for developing radio carbon dating techniques, will lecture July 24 on the topic "Atomic and Space Science."

Since receiving the Ph.D. from the University of California, Dr. Libby has worked on the Manhattan District project at Columbia University, joined the Institute for Nuclear Studies at Chicago University and served seven years on the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. He has been the recipient of many honorary awards for his work on natural carbon-14 and on tritium. In 1952 he published a book on radiocarbon dating.

"The Genesis of the Transistor" will be the lecture topic of Dr. Brattain on July 17. Dr. Brattain received the Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota and is currently associated with Whitman College at Walla Walla, Wash.

His discovery of the photo-effect at the free surface of a semiconductor; the invention of the point-contact transistor and work leading to a better understanding of the surface properties of semiconductors were major contributions in the field of physics.

Both lectures, which are sponsored by the Summer Science Institute, are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Leonard Hall auditorium.

600 Pre-register At Typing Institute

Approximately 600 participants, from 34 states and six Canadian provinces, have pre-registered to take part in the sixth bi-annual World Institute on the Teaching of Typewriting.

The Institute will be held on the UND campus July 12, 13, and 14, under the chairmanship of Dr. John L. Rowe, business education. Here teachers of secondary or college level business education will be instructed in the latest methods and introduced to the latest equipment for basic business courses.

Lectures by several national business education leaders, a display by leading textbook publishers, demonstration classes, and improvement of instruction courses will be featured at the Institute.

Certificates will be presented to those attending the three day session.

State Board Approves New Law Dean

UND Law School was approved Thursday at a State Board of Higher Education meeting at Wahpeton. Cunningham will succeed Jerold L. Walden who resigned effective July 1.

Cunningham received the B.A. degree from Manhattan College, New York City, the LL.B. from Boston College Law School, Boston, Mass., and the LL.M. from New York University School of Law. He also took additional student at Lincoln College, Oxford University, England where he received a bachelor of civil law degree and at the Judge Advocate General's School, Charlotte, Virginia.

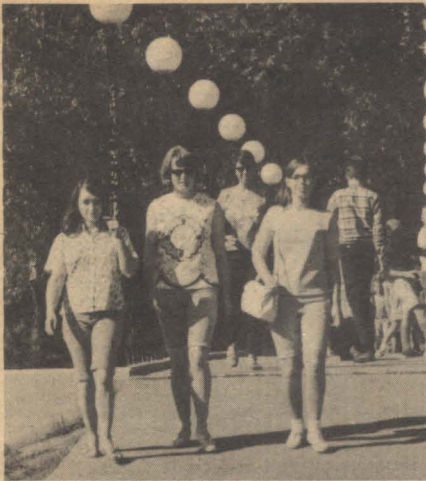

Cunningham has been serving on the Judge Advocate General's staff at White Sands Missile Range, N. M. and has served on staffs in Europe and

Washington, D. C.

He has taught international law and comparative law at Ft. Gordon, Ga., at the Judge Advocate General's School, and business law at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, N. M.

Cunningham has served as chairman of the Committee on the Law of Occupied and Extra-Territorial Defense Areas, Section of International and Comparative Law, American Bar Association. He has prepared several studies on legal subjects of significance to military lawyers, especially in the international and comparative law field.

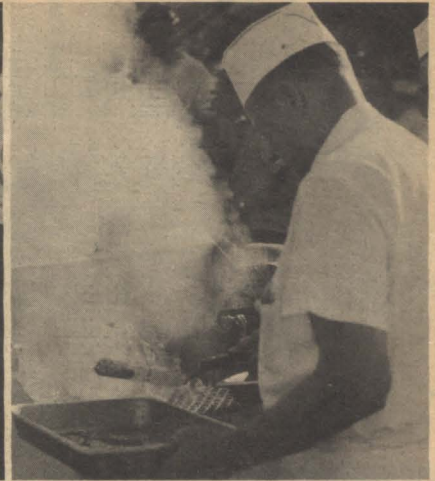

He has been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, the U. S. Court of Military Appeals and the U. S. Supreme Court.

Civil Engineering Department Receives 3 Research Grants Totaling $92,000

Three research projects that total $92,650 have been awarded to the UND civil engineering department.

Oscar E. Manz, associate professor of civil engineering, is in charge of the three grants. Working with Manz on the projects are seven students.

The largest of the project, totaling $76,950, is aimed at utilizing soils of the Red River Valley in highway construction. It is sponsored by the North Dakota Highway Department and the Bureau of Public Roads.

The second largest award is for checking into the possibility of using North Dakota lignite fly ash as a soil stabilizer. The Otter Tail Power Company financed the $12,600 grant.

Newest of the research projects is sponsored by the North Dakota Economic Development Commission and amounts to $3,100. This study is for surveying the feasibility of using North Dakota clay deposits in the manufacture of electrical insulators.

BOG Takes Loss On Coulee Picnic

Nearly 800 persons ate hamburgers and potato chips at the annual hamburger fry on the banks of English Coulee Monday.

Sara Garland, chairman of summer board of governors, who sponsored the event, said that 798 persons were served—nearly 200 more than in any previous year.

BOG suffered a loss, however, because tickets were sold for less than the cost of the meal.

Ticket price was 50 cents. Each meal cost $1, according to Miss Garland.

Museums Buy Landwehr Art

Two works by William Landwehr, a UND graduate teaching assistant in the art department, have been added to permanent collections in Wisconsin.

The Kenosha, Wisc. Public Museum purchased a collage and the D & J Foundation purchased and donated a major neon light construction to the collection of the Milwaukee Art Center.

Landwehr is a native of Milwaukee. His work has been exhibited in several shows around the country including a one-man show here last semester.

Before coming to UND Landwehr taught art at Whithall High School in Milwaukee.

Geology Department To Host Foreign Scientist

UND has been awarded a Senior Foreign Scientist Fellowship for 1968-69 by the National Science Foundation, announced Dr. C. J. Hamre, dean of the Graduate School and coordinator of the National Science Foundation (NSF) programs for UND.

Dr. Jacobus T. Kingma, presently engaged in geological work in New Zealand where he is a lecturer on the staff of the University of Canterbury, will spend from Sept. 1, 1968 to Aug. 21, 1969 on the staff of the UND geology department.

During his fellowship on the staff of the UND geology department he will teach a course on geotectonics and one on advanced problems in paleontology. He also will supervise seminars in geology and will direct research on the vertebrate paleontology and sedimentology of the Tertiary-upper Cretaceous rocks of North Dakota.

Purpose of the fellowships is to bring to the United States foreign scientists whose formal training, teaching and research experience are of sufficient distinction to enable them to make significant contributions to science education and research at American universities, Dr. Hamre explained.

NSF expects to make 50 to 60 fellowship awards to colleges and universities in the U. S. this year.

To become a candidate for the fellowship, a foreign scientist must be nominated by an American college or university, must have possessed a doctor's degree for five or more years or have research or teaching experience over a ten-year period comparable to training represented by a doctor's degree and must have proficiency in the English language.

Dr. Kingma received the B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Utrecht, Utrecht, Holland. His training was in geology, petrology and paleontology.

Journalism Scholarships Total $1,000

Eight UND journalism students will share over $1,000 in scholarships during the 1967-68 school year.

The winners were announced recently by Gerald F. Hammerlik, director of the Student Financial Aids Office and the UND journalism department. They are Michael Jacobs (North Dakota Press Association Scholarship); Mary Trapp (Sigma Delta Chi Senior Scholarship); Charles Groth (KTHI-TV Scholarship); Douglas Schulz (Charles L. Allen Scholarship); Jan C. Svare (Young Republican Award); and Sara Garland (North Dakota Broadcasting Co. Scholarship).

Joene Galagher and James Magnussen were awarded Forum Scholarships.

The awards were made on the basis of scholarship, interest in a career in journalism as well as character and need.

Hancock Opens Vietnam Discussion; 55 Attend

Dr. J. L. Hancock, (English), opened the seminar on Vietnam with a general introduction on the development of the situation in Vietnam.

Fifty-five participants were in attendance for the first of six sessions to be held in the Elbow Room at 7 p.m. each Monday.

Due to the holiday weekend, there will be meeting this Monday. The next scheduled meeting is July 11. Dr. N. Bitar, (sociology), will be speaking on social revolutions.

Bookstore Fails To Provide Service

Try buying a textbook in the University Bookstore on a Saturday. Or before 8:15 a.m. Or after 3:30 p.m. on a weekday. Or today. Or Monday.

You can't do it. The University Bookstore is closed.

With this in mind, it is apparent that the Bookstore—which boasts of majoring in service—is less of a service in the summer session than during the winter semesters.

Then, as now, the Bookstore makes a seven percent profit—and seeks to make ten.

Then, as now, the Bookstore buys textbooks for 50 percent of the new price and resells them for 75 percent of the list price.

Of course, Manager Tom Flanders is not entirely to blame. The financial wizards of the University demand that profit.

That policy should be reassessed.

A Bookstore—established to be a service to the University community—should be well managed, of course. But, it need not operate to seek a profit from the student body or the faculty—especially when students are forced—through lack of competition—to buy books there.

Enough profit to meet normal expansion; good books reasonably priced; these are the requirements of a Bookstore's major in service.

These are clearly not being met.

A few years ago, entering freshmen registered in the fieldhouse before classes started (above). Today, freshmen are pre-registered during the summer. Director of the program is Luther Bjerke (below). To date, more than 500 students have pre-registered.

U Institute Enrolls 60 For Summer

Two African students* are among the 60 participants enrolled in the 1967 Summer Institute of Linguistics at UND.

Dr. R. S. Pittman, director of the institute, noted that the two students are from Liberia and Bechuanaland. Others in the program are from Canada and the United States.

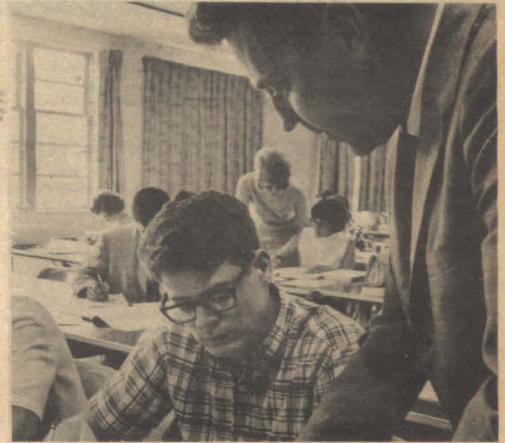

The group is concentrating its study on descriptive languages, which involves analysis and description of the lesser known, non-European languages.

Included in the program are studies of Hindi, the national language of India, and Cocopa, one of the Hokan family of languages spoken in the southwestern United States and portions of Mexico.

Three of the students have done field work in Vietnam studying the Mon-Khmer languages.

Approximately 20 staff members are connected with this year's Summer Institute of Linguistics. Many of the instructors and assistants have done field studies in foreign countries, including Mexico, Brazil, India and the Philippines.

The institute will end Aug. 25.

Does the Bookstore Have a Manager?

The University Bookstore is closed. It will not reopen until 8:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Manager Tom Flanders explained that the staff must inventory the store's entire stock before the end of the current fiscal year—July 1.

Although inventory has been in progress all month, Flanders felt it necessary to close the store to finish the job.

"Our staff is only scheduled for a 40-hour week. If they work more than an eight-hour day, they are entitled to time and a half—double time for Sundays.

"Besides, there is not that much activity during a summer afternoon—especially this holiday weekend."

TRUMPET RECITAL

A trumpet recital will be held next Thursday, Einar Einarson, a graduate student in the music department will give the recital in the University State Ballroom at 7:30 p.m.
