Dedication

Justice Paul M. Sand was appointed to the North Dakota Supreme Court in 1974 after serving the State of North Dakota for many years in the office of the Attorney General. His dedication to public service began in 1949 and continued until his death in December 1984. He remained an active member of the court until that time.

The North Dakota legal community lost a dedicated, well-respected lawyer and judge when it lost Justice Sand. The law students at the University of North Dakota have also felt the loss. We, as students, have had the unique opportunity of observing the court in session here at the law school once each year. While law students in other states may never have a glimpse of their state's highest court and Justices, we get the opportunity to associate names with faces, and to meet and talk to members of our state's highest court. We knew Justice Sand as the rather quiet Justice who asked few, but pointed, questions during arguments, and whom we never saw without a bow tie. It is to the memory of Justice Paul M. Sand that we dedicate this issue.
