

1967

Dedication

North Dakota Law Review

Follow this and additional works at: <https://commons.und.edu/ndlr>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

North Dakota Law Review (1967) "Dedication," North Dakota Law Review. Vol. 43 : No. 4 , Article 18.
Available at: <https://commons.und.edu/ndlr/vol43/iss4/18>

This Introduction is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Law at UND Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in North Dakota Law Review by an authorized editor of UND Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact und.common@library.und.edu.

Dean Jerrold L. Walden

DEDICATION

The board of editors and staff of the class of 1967 are proud to dedicate this final issue of volume 43 to Dean Jerrold L. Walden. His intellectual excellence and insistence on academic perfection have been an inspiration to our staff and instilled only the deepest respect and esteem for him. We can only hope that in some small way this Review has reflected his thought and imagination.

This dedication unfortunately must honor Dean Walden not as he continues his exciting career at our law school but as he prepares to leave after four successful years. North Dakota can take pride in attracting a man of his ability to head our law school. As well, North Dakota can take pride in the excellent law school he has left for us. His presence has given this school its finest faculty equal to the caliber of any law school. His imagination has added to the improvement of our library and enriched our curriculum. Most importantly, however, his improvements have resulted in a more dedicated student body and one especially inspired by his brilliant teaching ability.

We have lost a fine Dean and must now share only vicariously, through his study and writings at another institution, his devotion and contributions to the law. We extend to him our best wishes for continued success and a most sincere thank you for his contributions to our school and this Review.