LOCAL AND DISTRICT BAR MEETINGS URGED

It is very important that the local Bar Associations function efficiently at this time, for there are so many important problems confronting our lawyers today. Because our State Association did not meet this year it is incumbent upon the local associations to carry on.

In every crisis of our country's history, the lawyers have played a leading role. Because of their education and training they are very well qualified to deal with governmental problems. Their leadership is needed as never before, and will become even more important in the post-war period. It behooves us to get together frequently in our local groups, and to discuss these matters and keep posted, and to get all our members vitally interested in public affairs.

I therefore urge every local association to hold regular meetings as often as possible, and also to hold district meetings whenever it can be arranged. I should be glad to attend such district meetings.

From reports given at the American Bar Association meeting at Chicago this summer, it is apparent that the lawyers are making a magnificent contribution to the war effort.

Let us in North Dakota do our part.

O. B. HERIGSTAD,
President.
