RADIO TALKS—AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION

The American Bar Association presents, under the auspices of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education, a series of twelve broadcasts, over the Columbia Broadcasting System. They are listed for Saturdays, at 7:45, Eastern Standard Time. Two, "The Lawyer Attacks the Crime Problem," by Scott M. Loftin, President of the American Bar Association, and "The Government's Program to Fight Lawlessness," by Homer S. Cummings, U. S. Attorney General, were presented before the program reached us. The other ten will be as follows:

Oct. 20, "Enforcement of the Ethics of the Legal Profession," by Frederick H. Stinchfield, who is well known to North Dakota lawyers; Oct. 27, "Better Justice Through a National Program for Bar Associations," by James Grafton Rogers, former assistant Secretary of State, and Philip J. Wickser, of the A. B. A.; Nov. 3, "Making the Police Force an Efficient Fighting Unit," by O. W. Wilson, Chief of Police, Wichita, Kan.; Nov. 10, "Scientific Research in the Field of Criminal Justice," by William Draper Lewis, American Law Institute; Nov. 17, "The Preservation of Constitutional Liberty Under the New Deal," by Donald R. Richberg, NRA Counsel; Nov. 24, "Administrative Tribunals vs. Courts Under the New Deal," by Thomas D. Thacher, President Bar City of New York; Dec. 1, "Shall We Abandon Ship," by James M. Beck, former Solicitor General U. S.; Dec. 8, "Selecting Our Judges," by Paul V. McNutt, Governor of Indiana; Dec. 15, "Needed Reforms in Criminal Procedure," by Roscoe Pound, Dean Harvard Law School; Dec. 22, "Fundamental Aspects of the New Deal from a Lawyer's Point of View," by John W. Davis, former Solicitor General U. S.

AU REVOIR

However much one may wish, or thinks he does, chart his own course, conditions and situations frequently arise that determine for him what the course must be. Such is the case with the Secretary at this time, who finds himself, shortly after the commencement of his fifteenth year of service with the State Bar Association, preparing to leave North Dakota to assume official duties elsewhere.

In parting company we are overwhelmed with the recollection of the many fine opportunities afforded and the innumerable instances of friendly contacts made. The work will go on, we most sincerely hope, to greater and greater heights of achievement, yet we would not be human if we did not also hope that we may be missed, occasionally, just a little.

We say au revoir and not goodbye, anticipating a return to the field of our long-time labors, and carrying with us the sincere wish to be of service, wherever we are, to the Bar of North Dakota.

NRA

"We are unlikely to return to the old individualism, at least for some years, and a sound compromise between regimentation and a reasonable control might best be made."—Col. Benjamin A. Franklin, former President Associated Industries of Massachusetts.
