

1933

The World Court

W. H Hutchinson

Follow this and additional works at: <https://commons.und.edu/ndlr>

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!

Recommended Citation

Hutchinson, W. H (1933) "The World Court," North Dakota Law Review. Vol. 9: No. 7, Article 1.

Available at: <https://commons.und.edu/ndlr/vol9/iss7/1>

This Note is brought to you for free and open access by the School of Law at UND Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in North Dakota Law Review by an authorized editor of UND Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact und.common@library.und.edu.

BAR BRIEFS

PUBLISHED MONTHLY AT BISMARCK

—By—

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION OF NORTH DAKOTA

Richard E. Wenzel, Editor

Entered as Second Class Matter Jan. 15, 1925, at the Postoffice at Bismarck,
North Dakota, Under the Act of August 24, 1912

VOL. 9

JUNE, 1933

No. 7

THE WORLD COURT

In the past our profession has always furnished the leadership in any movement which would substitute law and orderly process for force. As between individuals and subdivisions of nations civilization has succeeded, to a large extent in this substitution, but as between nations, although some progress has been made, we cannot say that the system of the lawyer has supplanted that of the soldier. The World's remarkable advance in transportation and communication makes us all neighbors. Must we not look forward and prepare for the next step which will be a solution for a settlement of international differences by orderly process? Is not the adherence of the United States to the Permanent Court of International Justice a move in the right direction?

These are questions which every lawyer should answer in his own mind and then assume the responsibility of molding public opinion. If the great majority of the members of our Association believe in the World Court, we should, by proper resolution, let our opinions be recorded and become known. It seems fitting that this matter should come before our Association at its next annual meeting for consideration, and I call the attention of all members at this time that we may have an intelligent expression when the proper resolution is presented.—PRESIDENT HUTCHINSON.