WHY HESITATE?

At the time of starting this publication, December, 1924, one of the thoughts freely expressed was that it would supply a medium, through which the members of the Association could make their opinions on matters of mutual concern available to all of the members of the profession in the State.

Recently several letters have come to the Editor, asking why more space was not devoted to that purpose. Our answer is that the request for space has been limited to the amount actually used.

It may be said, also, that the Editor has solicited, urged, and even exhorted members (including those bearing the dignified title of President) to avail themselves of the opportunity afforded. While the amount of space is limited, each issue could readily accommodate several statements or articles of from five hundred to fifteen hundred words.

It may be assumed, from the fact that these letters have been received, that there are some who are thinking about this open-forum feature for Bar Briefs. But why stop at that? Or why stop with the writing of a letter to the Editor? Why not go one step further? Why not actually do what is considered a worth while thing to do?

Why not write an article?

Why hesitate?
