YOUR ORGANIZATION

The North Dakota Bar Association is not composed of the Executive Officers, the Executive Committee and the Standing Committees. It is composed of over 600 honorable, diligent and active practitioners of a profession of which each and every one of us is proud and to which we owe many obligations and concerning which we have many responsibilities.

Every aggregate is composed of units — every aggregate as a whole partakes of the quality and character of the unit; as each unit performs its functions and acts its part, so the whole will fulfill its mission and accomplish the purpose for which it was created.

Gentlemen, this Association is yours; your officers are but your representatives and cannot make the success — cannot do the work they ought to do without the actual, active, personal help of each member of the Association.

It matters not that some are not able to attend annual meetings; all cannot be on committees but this Association occupies a proud position in the list of State Bar Associations and it would be unfortunate if through lack of personal interest of each member it should lose its force and effect.

The work of this Association is important; it is building citizenship, developing Americanism and creating high professional ideals for the future.

It would be of wonderful value to the Association and a real help in our prospect for constructive service if you would each take a personal responsibility; give us suggestions, comment on pending matters, let us hear from you personally, letting us know that you are with us as units as well as in the aggregate.—President Lawrence.
