ASSOCIATION MEETING

Every member of the association is reminded that the annual 1926 meeting will be held at Bismarck on September 9th and 10th and lest it be forgotten every lawyer receiving this issue of this publication is further reminded that he is a member of the association. An earnest effort is being made to arrange a program which will be interesting, instructive and inspiring. There will be committee reports, but they are not to monopolize the program. Many of these cover subjects of vital interest upon which no doubt will be some difference of opinion, and it is the desire of the officers that members have an opportunity to present their views and to that end they are urged to be prepared to discuss the reports promptly and concisely. It is hoped that the substance of these may be printed and mailed to the members before the meeting.

There will be diversions in the program so that no one may grow weary. The Bismarck Country Club is offering the use of its golf course to golfers who attend, but there will be no association tournament. Attorney General Shafer is calling a meeting of the state's attorneys to be held September 8th. Every state's attorney it is hoped may attend this meeting and remain for the days following. Special provision is under way for the ladies. It is the plan of the committee, however, that time shall be afforded to them to attend the sessions of the association at which the principal addresses are given. Meetings in all probability will be held at the Capitol. The attendance last year approached the two hundred mark. It should be more this year. Among the principal speakers will be Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal Court of Chicago, long prominent as a judicial administrator, president of the American Judicature Society, and a pioneer in the psychiatric examination of persons accused of crime. Chancellor Brannon of the University of Montana will speak on "The Relation of Law to Social Evolution." Dean O. P. Cockerill of the law school of the University of North Dakota will speak on a subject to be announced later. Other speakers will be announced later.
